'TEACH-IN' BEGINS

Great Debate On Medicare Looms Again

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Storm warnings of a major medicare controversy that will rock Canada, just as Saskatchewan was shaken in 1962, were sounded here Monday by medical men addressing the health services conference.

The great medicare debate which has been raging off and on, quietly but with increasing strength across Canada was transported to the main ballroom of the Chateau Laurier Hotel here.

An officer of the Canadian Medical Association and a commissioner of the Saskatchewan medical care plan put forward the opposing views.

There were no fireworks, no heated debate. Both men were soft spoken and set out their arguments for the health services teach-in sponsored by 21 national organizations.

Aim of the conference is to inform church, labor, private welfare and other groups about health issues and proposal for medical care insurance.

However, the warnings of the great storm to come came through clearly.

The representatives of the 21 national organizations sponsoring the conference heard the warnings. But whether the storm can be averted only time will tell.

'Doctors Must Be Able to Opt Out'

Dr. Victor Goldbloom of Montreal, chairman of the economic policy committee of the CMA insisted that doctors must have the right to opt out of participation in any national or provincial medicare plan. He pointed out that the Saskatchewan program gave them that right, but the doctors there had to fight to get the right.

Only four per cent of the claims are being paid through opting out arrangements in Saskatchewan said Dr. Goldbloom. He added: "As long as that door is left open—as long as doctors are free to walk out—they'll walk in. If you bar that door, they'll break it down to walk out.

"This," he said, "is the major lesson of Saskatchewan. If it is not learned we will be in danger of going through the same thing again and that would be very unfortunate for Canada."

'... A Lot of Nonsense Spoken'

Dr. Samuel Wolfe, medical director of the Saskatoon community clinic in Saskatchewan and a commissioner of the Saskatchewan medicare program opened fire with this statement:

"There has been a lot of nonsense spoken in recent years about government-sponsored medical care plans and their supposed evils."

He defended the government plan in Saskatchewan. And he said, "There is no reason why we in Canada cannot have the best of all medical worlds — a national plan run by the provinces, an intelligent and informed public and satisfied, self-governing health professions."

However Dr. Wolfe said that having lived through the Saskatchewan fight he was not naive enough to think that the medical services program can be implemented on a national scale without major conflicts—"conflicts between doctors and between the profession and the public."

Prof. E. F. Hastings, school of hygiene, University of Toronto, summed it up this way: "The skirmishing is by no means over and the sound and fury will rise to new crescendos in the months ahead."

BLUE AND GOLD windshield stickers will be issued with new British Columbia licence plates. Wendy Harris got hers in advance to demonstrate its use for a Times camera. The stickers commemorate the 100th anniversary of the union of the Crown colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia in 1866 and the centenary of Confederation which was declared in 1967. B.C. centennial planners hope every driver will wear his sticker so B.C.'s birthday events will be advertised, especially outside the province. Celebrations extend through both 1966 and 1967.

U.S. North Viet Bombing Fails to Halt Red Drive

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—On the basis of the Pentagon's stated objectives, the U.S. air war against North Viet Nam is far from a success after nearly 10 months.

Based on the same announced goals, there are some elements of failure.

These views are the consensus in discussions with qualified sources within and outside the U.S. government, and are supported in a study of other information available from the government.

A main objective of the bombings, which began last Feb. 7, was to cut down the flow of North Vietnamese soldiers and supplies into South Viet Nam.

The evidence, chiefly the government's own figures, shows that despite heavy battle losses Communist forces in South Viet Nam are stronger in numbers than ever before.

U.S. officials also believe the enemy has the capability of moving as many as four full divisions into South Viet Nam during the next six months.

Another major announced goal of the bombing was to prod the North Vietnamese into halt-

FREED SOLDIERS LAUD VIET CONG

PHNOM PENH (Reuters)—One of two American soldiers freed by the Viet Cong guerrillas as a gesture to anti-war groups in the United States said today the Saigon authorities were not the government in South Viet Nam.

"The Viet Cong, they are the people," Sgt. George Edward Smith told a press conference here.

Smith and Specialist Claude D. McClure were freed two days ago on the border between Cambodia and South Viet Nam.

They were captured when a Viet Cong battalion overran a special forces camp at Hiep Hoa, 33 miles northwest of Saigon, in 1963.

Smith, 27, from Chester, W.Va., added that he was against the war in Viet Nam because it did not conform with the interests of the American people.

WILL LEAVE SERVICES

Both he and McClure, 25, a Negro from Chattanooga, Tenn., said they planned to leave the services when they returned to the U.S.

They said they were treated well in captivity. McClure, wounded at the time of his capture, said he was fed in the same way as the Viet Cong fighters.

Their liberation was the direct result of protest movements in the U.S. against the war in Viet Nam, Smith said. They crossed the border from South Viet Nam and presented themselves to Cambodian authorities.

McClure said his captors cared for his wounds, shared their food with him and allowed him mail from his family and Red Cross packages.

McClure and Smith were captured with two other Americans in a Viet Cong attack on a special forces camp outside of Saigon Nov. 24, 1963.

ONE ESCAPED

One of the other Americans, Sgt. Isaac Camacho of El Paso, Tex., escaped last July. The fourth captive was Staff Sgt. Kenneth M. Roraback. The Communists said in September they had executed Roraback and another American prisoner, Capt. Humbert R. Verace of Baltimore, Md., in reprisal for the execution of three Communist sympathizers by the Saigon government.

McClure said the Viet Cong did not try to indoctrinate its prisoners. He said his captors gave him books to read and pa-

Nursing Home Care to Come Under BCHIS

Coverage To Start This Week

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Dollar-a-day hospital coverage will be enlarged to include "extended care" patients in designated nursing homes in B.C. starting Wednesday.

The long-awaited expansion, which will have a tremendous impact on some 3,000 persons directly and on the whole provincial hospital system indirectly, was announced by Health Minister Eric Martin this morning.

Most persons in nursing homes now pay between $200 and $400 a month, depending on services.

Those who meet the qualifications and are placed in the designated nursing homes by their doctors will pay only $30 a month on the average with B.C. Hospital Insurance Service paying the rest as it does for general hospital patients.

The new program will cost $3 million in the coming year while covering the first 1,000 persons and eventually will build up to an annual cost of about $10 million — split 50-50 between the federal and provincial governments. The BCHIS Act allows for expanded spending to cover these new costs.

Mr. Martin said only non-profit or "public" institutions will be designated for the coverage and not any commercial "private" hospitals or nursing homes.

In the Victoria area, an order-in-council designated 131 beds at Mount St. Mary, 999 Burdett, and 24 beds at Priory Hospital in Langford among a total of 570 beds in B.C. that will be covered immediately.

MORE BEDS

In addition, 50 beds at Veterans' Hospital are among another 450 beds in the province that will be designated "in the near future" (probably within two months), Mr. Martin said.

The Health Minister said hospitals and non-profit societies in 20 centres—including Duncan, Nanaimo, Port Alberni and Campbell River—now have approval-in-principle to build appropriate non-profit facilities containing another 950 beds and these should be in operation within a year.

Although there are no projects slated here, Victoria has 393 beds in five private hospitals and the Saanich Municipal Royal Oak Home with its planned addition that have suitable facilities.

The private hospitals are: Aberdeen, Richmond Heights, Sandringham, Glenwarren and Glengarry which have been built in the past three years to very high standards.

Mr. Martin said these could qualify for the BCHIS coverage if they become "public" institutions and his department would help financially if approved non-profit societies were

U.K. TRIES TO ASSURE SOVIET ON N-ARMS

MOSCOW (UPI)—Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart today told the Russians that Britain is in favor of keeping all NATO nation fingers off the atomic trigger except the United States, Britain and France.

Stewart told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that recent plans for a multi-nuclear force put forward by the U.S. and Britain do not amount to proliferation of nuclear weapons—as the Russians charge.

Informed British sources said Gromyko refused to budge on the Soviet position that any nuclear agreement among NATO countries was tantamount to putting atomic weapons in the hands of the Germans.

NO OTHER TROOPS

Wilson Awaits Zambia's Word

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Wilson tonight held up the dispatch of Royal Air Force units to Zambia pending Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda's agreement that no other outside troops would be based in his country.

Informed sources said the key condition to military assistance for Zambia was that Kaunda reject offers of troops from members of the Organization of African Unity or other foreign countries.

Other conditions were the RAF jet fighters be kept away from the Rhodesian border and that they remain under control of the British government.

Informed sources said Wilson had planned to announce the dispatch of RAF units to Zambia but that at the time he still not had heard from Kaunda.

Malcolm MacDonald, Britain's roving ambassador in east and central Africa, arrived in Lusaka this morning to finalize plans for meeting Kaunda's request for British air force units.

Kaunda asked for military help to bolster his own defence and security forces and protect the power life line from the giant Kariba dam.

Wilson was also expected to state in parliament additional plans for tightening financial and economic sanctions aimed at forcing the collapse of the Rhodesian rebel government of Ian Smith.

Wilson discussed ways of tightening the screws on the Smith regime at an early meeting of top ministers comprising his Rhodesia committee.

White Babies Wanted

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—A South African deputy minister has appealed to white married couples to celebrate South Africa's fifth anniversary as a republic in a special way—by having babies.

"You cannot celebrate the republic festival better next year than by giving a white child to this wonderful country of ours," said Michiel Botha, deputy minister of African (Negro) Administration and Development.

Botha, speaking at a white men's club, said:

"Our country needs more of us (whites). Our population can increase in only two ways — by immigration and by births. Let those who can help in this way."

Woman Slain

BURNABY (CP) — A woman was shot and killed on a parking lot near the Simpson's Sears department store in Burnaby today. Witnesses said a man got out of a car, shot the woman, then fled.

U.K. Troops 'No Worry'

SALISBURY (Reuters) — The Rhodesian government is not concerned by Zambia's request for British troops to be sent to guard the Kariba dam on the Zambia-Rhodesian border, Prime Minister Ian Smith said today.

After a three-hour cabinet meeting, Smith said he and his ministers had not discussed the possibility of British troops being sent to Zambia.

BOOBY-TRAP BOMB IN CHRISTMAS TREE

LIMA, Peru (Reuters) — A Lima resident bought a Christmas tree with blinking lights, plugged it in and a booby-trap bomb inside it blew up, damaging his house and putting him in hospital, police said Monday. They said some of the trees have been loaded with dynamite by extremists.

B.C. Herds Hit Again By Pesticide Ruling

GRAND FORKS (CP)— For the second time in less than a year three Grand Forks farmers have been forbidden by the federal government to sell dairy products from their cattle because of a high level of pesticide in their milk.

The federal food and drug directorate announced in Ottawa Monday the pesticide chemical Dieldrin had been detected and the milk will be banned for human consumption.

The directorate did not name the farmers, but three farmers whose dairy products were banned last February admitted they were again at fault.

They are Les Hoodle, Rick deVries and Peter deHaan.

The directorate also did not say what caused the latest buildup of pesticide in the cattle. However, the first ban was blamed on Grand Forks area potatoes containing safe levels of pesticide, but fed in unusually large quantities to the cattle.

Mr. Hoodle said Monday night

SHOT OF COGNAC DOES TRICK

Divers Risk Death for Dog

TOULON, France (UPI)—Ten years ago a frolicsome puppy was born on the Italian freighter Marislava. The crew members named their new shipmate Ciucare.

The years passed and the spry collie grew old with the weatherbeaten ship as it lazily made its way from port to port through calm and stormy seas. It was home and she was happy.

Then on Saturday disaster struck. The ship ran aground on rocks off the southern coast of France, and the crewmen swam for their lives.

But Ciucare refused to abandon ship. How could she leave the only home she ever knew?

Hour after hour she stuck it out, cowering in the stove-in-aft cabin as angry waves pounded the ship's hull, breaking it apart.

On Sunday, skindivers fought their way through angry seas to the wreck to bring food to the whimpering, starving dog. But she refused to eat from unfamiliar hands.

The skindivers tried again, accompanied this time by a crew member. But again Ciucare refused to budge.

It was only after she was slipped a shot of Cognac that they were able to lasso her and toss her into the sea where the skindivers quickly rescued her and got her into a boat.

Sunday night—as the merciless waves pounded her old home to pieces — Ciucare wolfed down a dog's delight, a rescue dinner prepared especially for her by the chief at the Hotel Du Chateau where she is staying with her old shipmates from the Marislava.

CHILDREN OF ASIA FUND

Hope Sags After Years of Hunger

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

It hurts to be hungry and without a home.

Thousands of people the world over accept this as a fact they know from first hand experience.

Many of them have no hope for the future.

Many of them are destitute; with only one parent or maybe none at all.

For the youngsters who beg in the streets of Asian cities, hunger and homelessness are nothing new.

A large number of them have known both since the day they were born.

And without help from agencies like the Unitarian Service Committee, they would have no chance of escaping from them during their lifetime.

Last July the USC launched its third decade of service not by celebrating with a big cake and candles and speeches, but by renewing its determination for another successful campaign.

In the past 20 years over 11 million pounds of relief supplies have gone overseas —powdered milk, clothes, codfish—to help the needy.

Every ounce has been distributed in the name of Canada to the most hungry, the most lonely and the most suffering.

But the human ties established by the USC between Canadians and people in other lands will be remembered most.

Concern and friendship and interest to these people as well as the material aid are offered by the USC through your donations to the Times-sponsored Children of Asia fund.

Contributions to the fund may be sent in care of this newspaper, and cheques should be made payable to the Children of Asia Fund.

Donations are also being accepted at the Bank of Montreal Douglas and Yates.

his family continued to drink milk and eat meat from the affected cattle after the first ban in early February and suffered no ill-affects.

After the first ban, the federal and provincial governments purchased contaminated cattle from the three farms to help avert financial hardship for the farmers.

Thirty-six of the cows were sent to the federal agriculture experimental station in Agassiz. The government said the rest were disposed of in other ways.

COWS NOW SAFE

Only last month, the research station station declared the 36 cows free of contamination and safe to return to milk production. The station offered to sell the cattle back to their owners.

Dr. Mills Clarke of the experimental station said the 36 cows were fed a pesticide-free diet and the experiment gave the station a "unique opportunity" to study cattle contamination.

He said the result of the seven-month study would form a basis of a recommended cure for future cases of cattle contamination.

Monday's announcement of the second ban said that "the levels of the pesticide in the milk are considered to present a potential hazard to health if consumed over a long period of time."

E. L. Devlin, regional director for the food and drug administration, blamed the first ban on large quantities of potatoes fed to the cattle.

He said he did not mean that the potatoes themselves had large quantities of pesticide, but that the high levels of pesticide in the cattle resulted from the fact they were fed large numbers of potatoes—more than animals elsewhere in the country.

Dr. Nicholas Schmidt, the Trail medical officer, was critical of the latest ban. He said he has asked the B.C. deputy minister of health for a full investigation "to make sure such a closure doesn't happen again."

Monday's Ottawa announcement said the condition appeared to be a local one confined to "a few farmers in the Grand Forks area."

per for his letters. He didn't do much work in the camp.

Smith, 27, said he was told Nov. 21 that he was being freed. "I couldn't believe my ears."

Also at the press conference was Le Van Diep, identified as a special emissary of the Viet Cong.

He told the two Americans: "Your return to the United States is the prelude to the departure of American troops from South Viet Nam."

Reading a communique which he said was from the Viet Cong leadership, he said the decision to free the two men was "in conformity with the Viet Cong policy of clemency and a response to the friendly sentiments of the American people against the South Viet Nam war."

"The good discipline of the two prisoners" played a part in the decision to free them, he added.

Dief Asks U.S. Halt Air Raids

OTTAWA (UPI)—Opposition leader John Diefenbaker Monday blasted both the American and Canadian governments for keeping secret a North Viet Nam offer to negotiate a peace settlement.

He called for an immediate end to U.S. air attacks to allow for such negotiations.

Diefenbaker demanded a "full and frank" explanation of the North Vietnamese offer.

'Canada Has Doctors To Handle Medicare'

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Canada already has enough doctors to supply the needs that would result from a nation-wide medicare program, an economist told the working conference on medical services here Tuesday.

Prof. J. J. Madden of the economics department of social services at Guelph University, acknowledged that the national health plan if, and when it became operative, would lead to longer queues for physicians' services.

He said it might take a decade for certain present non-users of health services to catch up with the "demand pattern" of those whose incomes today enable them to utilize medical services without worrying about the bills.

(The Canadian Medical Association and other groups have warned that introduction in 1967 of the proposed medicare program will impose a heavy burden on the present trained personnel. They have argued for stepped up training programs so that trained men and women will be available before a nation-wide scheme is implemented.)

SHOULD BE SUBSIDIZED

Prof. Madden said, that those groups who have suggested the medical profession would not be able to meet the demand generated by the universal comprehensive program, have also stated that all persons should be able to buy health insurance and those who cannot should be subsidized.

"If all persons are to be put in a position to buy health insurance then the profession must be prepared to meet the demands generated by a universal insurance program whether this is public or private. If these demands cannot be met the substitution of a number of private insurance plans for a universal plan will not help," he said.

The economist said the experience of Saskatchewan indicated that the supply of physicians relative to population is as good or better than that of Saskatchewan.

Consequently he contended that no "serious problems should arise in these regions." Even in Newfoundland, where the supply of physicians is low Premier Smallwood believes that the program can be implemented, said Prof. Madden.

Error Made In Divorce List

In the Times of November 4, 1965, it was erroneously reported that Wilfred Doerges, of 573 Ridley Drive, Colwood, had been granted a divorce from Grace P. Doerges, of Vancouver, B.C.

Through an unfortunate error, the Doerges case was included in the list of divorces granted. This was entirely incorrect. No divorce was granted to Mr. Doerges.

In point of fact, Mrs. Doerges had filed a Statement of Defence to the action brought by her husband and the trial was postponed from Nov. 1 to a later date.

The Times exceedingly regrets this mistake and any embarrassment and inconvenience resulting therefrom. The Times tenders its sincere apologies to Mrs. Doerges and any other person affected by the error in question.

ing their support of the Viet Cong in the south. Hanoi's leaders now seem more defiant than ever.

Indications point to intensified U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam.

Defence Secretary McNamara almost certainly would dispute any conclusion that the limited air war has been a failure.

Authorities reflected his views contend that if it were not for the bombings, infiltration of men and arms would have been far greater.

Critics in the armed services and in congress do not complain that hammering at communications lines obviously is not doing the job. What they want is a wider ranging assault to knock out North Viet Nam's ability to sustain the aggression south of the 17th parallel dividing North and South Viet Nam.

Reports from diplomatic sources with contacts in North Viet Nam say that the Communists can carry on with considerable hardship but no basic dislocation.

The U.S. fighter-bombers are destroying much in the target area, these reports say, but the North Vietnamese are quickly either repairing or bypassing damaged areas.

TARGETS LIMITED

U.S. jets are barred from chopping at North Viet Nam's industry, food and power facilities.

Hanoi, North Viet Nam's capital and seat of much of her industry, and Haiphong, chief port of entry for seaborne supplies from Russia, are also off limits.

So, what has the bombing accomplished? According to data available here, more than 50 bridges have been at least temporarily disabled.

The railway in North Viet Nam has been reduced to operating only sporadically and in sections.

Intelligence reports indicate that road traffic is at a standstill during the day and is getting that way at night with an increase in night raids.

Another major target in the north has been ammunition depots. These are difficult targets to destroy, since the storage facilities are dug in. Still, about one-third of North Viet Nam's ammunition capacity is estimated to have been destroyed.

But, with all of this bombing, the latest figures released by the defence department a month ago showed that Communist strength in South Viet Nam had risen by about 40,000 or so in the previous three or four months to 240,000, including regulars, irregulars and political agents.

Brazil Crackdown

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) President Humberto Castello Branco has acted swiftly to nip in the bud an open challenge to his authority by dissident army officers. He ordered the military arrest of an airborne colonel and decreed changes in 14 military commands Monday following army hard-line demands for a tougher bovernment stand against anti-revolutionary elements.

. . . NURSING HOMES

formed to buy them out for this purpose.

The provincial government would provide its usual hospital construction grants of 50 per cent of approved costs to such societies and would urge the federal government to chip in its usual $2,000-a-bed grants, too.

Mr. Martin agreed that the new BCHIS extension would deter further construction of nursing homes and hospitals by private firms and encourage public bodies to step into this field. He said he felt that the private businesses would concentrate on boarding homes where no medical care situations are involved.

"This rounds out our entire inpatient care facilities in this province and it's a great day for my department," Mr. Martin said.

"We now will give coverage to the two categories of chronic care patients—the reactivation category such as those who go to Gorge Road Hospital and the extended care category in designated nursing homes."

The extended care program—like the acute care and reactivation category—will be administered by the institutions themselves with BCHIS merely paying the bills.

Doctors will determine who qualifies medically.

Mr. Martin said coverage will be for patients "who have an illness or disability and who are unable to move about or do things for themselves without the help of trained staff."

Government officials estimate there now are about 3,100 persons in nursing homes and private hospitals in the province but not all will qualify medically for BCHIS coverage. On the other hand, some persons being cared for in their own homes or in general hospitals may qualify under the "extended care" coverage.

OTHER ILLNESS

Veterans who are sick as a result of something other than the aftermath of war injuries—such as influenza or other illness—will be covered by the new program.

Mr. Martin said about 1,500 persons now in nursing homes in B.C. are covered by the government as social welfare cases with the welfare department taking their old age pensions or other income, paying their full bill of $207 a month in the nursing home nad giving them a small "comfort allowance" as pocket money.

Many of these persons probably will qualify medically for the $1-a-day coverage, in which case they would not have to turn over any of their estate or income or have anything to do with the welfare department.

KEEP CONTROL

They would keep control of their own money and pay the average $30 a month extended care bill themselves with BCHIS paying the rest. This would give a person living solely on the $75 old age pension $45 a month in pocket money, "better than they would have as welfare cases," Mr. Martin said.

He added however these persons will have a choice whether to stay where and as they are or switch to the new system. However, many are expected to transfer from private nursing homes to the designated units while persons not medically qualified now in the designated units will have to move out.

"There will be transfers but they will be gradual so as not to upset anyone. While there are no age limitations on this program, most people involved are elderly," said Mr. Martin.

The health minister said the new coverage will have wide ramifications.

REDUCE CRUSH

He said it was bound to reduce somewhat the crush in acute hospitals because doctors will be able to send non-acutely ill but financially-pressed patients to the designated nursing homes instead of keeping them in general hospitals.

This will reduce per diem costs from the $25 average in acute hospitals and $15 average in rehabilitation homes to an expected average of $8.50 in the designated nursing homes.

"So there are economic as well as humanitarian benefits," he said.

Mr. Martin also predicted that the program will encourage public institutions, particularly general hospitals, to step up their "extended care" programs and facilities which probably will be of immense benefit in human terms.

He foresaw more long-care bed patients improving to the point where they could be sent to rehabilitation hospitals and given the chance to become able to care for themselves after treatment and training.

RHODESIANS TO HEAR ALL

FRANCISTOWN, Bechuanaland (Reuters) — Convicts, watched by armed guards, today worked in blazing heat to clear ground where a "radio in the bush" will be built to beam uncensored British news to neighboring Rhodesia.

The convicts cleared bush about 10 miles from this British protectorate's border with Rhodesia to the north.

Equipment arrived from Britain by air.

Snow, Floods Plague Britain

LONDON (AP)—More heavy snow spread over Scotland and England today, piling up in massive drifts and bringing floods to the low sections of the Midlands.

Gales in the Irish Sea and the English Channel kept the Liverpool-Dublin ferry in port and stopped flights between London and the Channel Islands.

At Elstead, south of London, high winds blew down a 60-foot cedar tree in actor Peter Sellers' garden. Sellers' daughter Victoria usually sleeps afternoons under the tree in her baby carrier, but the weather was so bad that her mother, Britt Eklund, had kept her indoors.

Police in Yorkshire struggled through 14-foot drifts to get insulin to an 18-year-old diabetic girl stranded for three days in a country inn.

Surcharge Continued

LONDON (UPI)—Parliament agreed in a close vote tonight to extend for another year the 10 per cent surcharge on goods imported into Britain. The vote was 279 to 276, a government majority of three.

Special Que. Status Urged by Teachers

MONTREAL (CP) — Representatives of 40,000 French-speaking Quebec teachers want their province to have Labrador and much-boosted powers of government too.

Wider governmental powers for Quebec also are urged by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of French Canada, which says Quebec should become independant if Canadians lose their will to remain united.

The recommendations are among scores scheduled for submission to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism today, the second day of the commission's current hearings in Montreal.

The variety of urgings is vast —ranging from the teachers' insistence on Quebec and French-language rights, to the off-beat bilingualism of one Indian group.

This organization favors Iroquois, not French, as the second language with English for residents of the group's home reserve.

Monday's hearing brought strongly-worded assertions of Quebec autonomy from small groups but the teachers' organization pressing Quebec rights today is the biggest such body in the province.

URGE NEW STATUS

It is the Quebec Catholic Teachers Federation, and is in agreement with the 7,000-member junior chamber in urging a new constitution for Canada designed to give Quebec a special status within a two-nation confederation.

Included in the constitution, the teachers want a clause annexing Labrador to Quebec, thus reversing the 1927 decision of the British Privy Council which gave Labrador to Newfoundland.

The jaycee group broke away from the national Canadian jaycees in a 1960 dispute over language rights.

The Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec, with 6,000 members, wants French as well as English educational facilities available across Canada.

A group of Teachers from the French-language University of Montreal says French-Canadians have not received their share of research grants from the National Research Council. Therefore the Quebec government should gradually take over the job of assisting research.

The greater powers urged for Quebec by the catholic teachers and the jaycees include the power to negotiate international treaties, the power to enact immigration laws and control of such fields as family allowances, divorce and the organization of broadcasting networks

WORK IN U.S.

The Indian group—the Caughnawaga Defence Committee—urge English and Iroquois as the two languages for their big reserve near Montreal because most Indians from there work in the United States.

The committee's brief says "there is no employment for us in the French-language world."

Revamping Of Senate Proposed

TORONTO (CP) —Sweeping reorganization of the Senate and of the Supreme Court of Canada are proposed by a group of law students in a brief to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

The brief being submitted tonight by the student's law society of the University of Toronto says the Senate should be replaced by a federal upper house composed of leading members of provincial cabinets, who would meet as a permanent federal-provincial conference.

Each province would be represented by its premier and ministers of finance and health and the attorney-general. Federal ministers could take part in debates but not in votes.

The students say that federal bills dealing with provincial fields of jurisdiction should require a two-thirds majority in the new Senate.

The brief also recommends that the Supreme Court be divided into English common law and Quebec civil law sections. Federal grants to the provinces are urged to finance instruction of both French and English in schools across Canada.

The Young Women's Christian Association, with 74,000 members in Canada, also calls for improved teaching of French and English in primary and secondary schools to strengthen national unity.

URGE MORE TONGUES

The Ukrainian National Youth Federation of Canada recommends that Ukrainian and other languages besides English and French be taught in schools wherever enough parents request it.

The CBC, National Film Board and National Museum are asked to give more attention to the cultural contributions of ethnic minorities.

The Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association says the education departments of the 10 provinces should make increasing efforts to interest school boards in introducing the second language, French or English, as early as possible in elementary schools.

The provinces are also asked to remove their restrictions to the mobility of teachers between provinces.

COMMANDER of Canadian army brigades in action in Europe and the Korean campaign, Maj.-Gen. John M. Rockingham will retire from the army Jan. 15. He retired to civilian life in Victoria in 1945 but returned to active service five years later. He plans to go into private business in Calgary.

California Split?

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A well-financed drive to divide California, the nation's most populous state, into two separate states was progressing today. The proposed plan would split the state at a point north of Los Angeles along the Tehachapi Mountains—roughly from Santa Barbara due east to the Navada border.

INDIA WATCHES

Chinese Press Border Probe

NEW DELHI (AP)—Chinese troops are probing south all along India's Himalayan frontier and some Indian blood is being spilled.

Peking is flooding New Delhi with protest notes charging India with provocations and warlike activity.

Why this Chinese war of nerves? Two theories are popular in government circles:

—The Chinese, frustrated by a lack of success in Africa and Southeast Asia, are hardening their stance from India to Korea in order to exploit every opportunity to cause trouble, especially for the United States.

—The Chinese intend to give moral support to Pakistan in its conflict with India and at the same time create "irritations" and conflicting claims that could be propaganda preparation for renewed hostilities against India.

New Delhi doesn't expect a major Chinese attack soon, however.

PASSES SNOWED IN

One of Prime Minister Shastri's Chinese experts notes that the winter snows have closed the mountain passes leading south from Chinese-held Tibet to the Indian plains.

Neither do Indian experts expect a major Chinese intervention in the Viet Nam war.

Chinese troops on the Indian front push across the border with impunity and in the last two weeks have heated up virtually the entire front from the Ladakh region of Kashmir in the west to the eastern mountail passes more than 1,000 miles across the subcontinent.

The Chinese have made probes into the northeast frontier agency for the first time since they launched a major attack there in 1962 and one Indian expert on China said Peking's current campaign seems aimed at destroying the last vestiges of restrictions left over from the 1962 border war.

After that bloodletting, China unilaterally announced demilitarized zones had been established along its frontier with India. The Chinese now have violated their own ground rules and obviously no longer consider them valid.

BORDER POLICE GRAB 'INVADING' SOLDIER

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian border police have captured an armed Chinese soldier who intruded into Indian territory over the border between India and Tibet 200 miles northwest of New Delhi.

An official report from the frontier said the Chinese was believed to have been on a probing mission.

This was believed to be the first Chinese soldier captured by Indians during frontier incidents.

No Chinese prisoners were taken by India during fighting on the Northeastern Frontier or Ladakh in 1962 and none were taken during the recent incidents on the Sikkim border.

Squeeze Play

THE FORTHCOMING REFERendum on the regional hospital plan has been complicated by the impact of associated problems. It poses voters with several serious decisions but allows them only a single "yes" or "no" to solve them all.

Basically the question asks whether or not the voter's municipality or district should enter the regional plan whereby money for the construction of hospitals shall be raised by a tax on real estate throughout the regional area, the taxed area to include outlying districts which up to now have not contributed to hospital building costs. That is a fairly straightforward decision between a joint regional approach to hospital construction and the existing fragmented system.

But the voter must also decide if he approves a levy of two mills to raise the needed money. With a full appreciation of existing high property taxes, and other increases to be expected, he must judge how close this added mill rate will bring him to the point where real property is carrying as much of a tax load as it can bear. At some point difficult to determine, heavier taxation will act as a deterrent to property owners—new houses will not be built, additions and improvements will not be made, borderline building standards will be observed—there will be an eventual deterioration of the community's housing.

Whether the extra two mills levy—with other increases almost inevitable—will bring the hospital region perilously close to this point must be decided by the voter. And there is considerable doubt as to whether two mills will be enough to provide the needed capital.

The possibility is that the public will play safe and vote against the measure, despite the fact that this will mean a serious setback in the regional hospital building program whose minimum requirements have been laid down for the next five-year period. With as many as 1,500 persons reportedly waiting to enter hospitals, and even risking further delay when their two-month waiting period is up, the need for greatly expanded accommodation is obvious. The present situation is not good enough for a prosperous community in this mid-twentieth century era.

This dilemma brings the voter to the third question: Should not the provincial government, with its wider taxing powers, shoulder a greater share of hospital building costs? At present the province—which means the people of British Columbia acting through their elected representatives—pays up to 50 per cent of the cost, the federal government about 15 per cent, and the local areas, by one means or another, the remaining 35 per cent.

Up to now in Greater Victoria, the latter portion has been made up of relatively small civic or municipal grants and voluntary contributions by the public. There is general agreement that passing the hat, even for a portion of hospital costs, is no longer a feasible way of financing so essential a facility.

The consensus among many local residents seems to be that as members of the community or region they should pay a share of the costs—particularly as this guarantees them a voice in the management of the hospitals—but that this share should not impose so heavy a burden on property that the adverse side effects come into play. They feel that the province should assume a larger share than at present, and point to the proceeds of the special two-per-cent sales tax as a source of this extra revenue.

This tax was initially, a decade ago, devoted entirely to hospital costs, and the public understanding was that this arrangement would continue. The government today says that this was not specifically set out in the legislation, and continues to apply an annual surplus from the tax to other purposes. The government cannot evade the fact that there was certainly a public belief that the two-per-cent funds were specially destined for hospitals. Today's denials by a government which boasts of huge revenue surpluses while hospital construction lags leave the public with a feeling of having been short-changed.

Health Minister Martin makes the government's position clear. He is quoted as saying that it is "absolutely incorrect" to expect the government to come to the rescue of the municipalities if they fail to vote sufficient money for hospital construction. The government will not change the existing formula, he says. He points to the example of Fort St. John, which had to present three referendums to the voters before its hospital bill passed, and meanwhile went without sufficient hospital accommodation. That, we are given to believe, will also be our fate if we do not vote for the regional two-mill plan.

What should have been a simple vote on hospital funds, therefore, has become a part of the continuing struggle between provincial and municipal taxing powers, with the public being pressured into voting in favor of the provincial government's take-it-or-leave-it proposition, or else finding itself without enough hospital beds.

An excellent plan—the regional concept—is compromised; a vitally necessary hospital building program is endangered by this very questionable tactic. It is time the premier and his ministers got a little closer to the question—and to the public—and gave some better leadership in solving a problem whose presentation so far has all the marks of a cynical squeeze play. Under the circumstances the hospitals must be given a "yes" vote, but this should be followed by an unrelenting public demand for a complete overhaul of provincial aid to municipalities.

Gestures of Confidence

OAK BAY'S REEVE ALLAN Cox and Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich have each been returned to office by acclamation. This indicates full and gratifying public approval of the leadership that has been shown by these incumbents, inasmuch as no potential opponent for election has felt that he could muster enough support to displace them.

Elections will occur in both the city and Esquimalt for offices of chief magistrate, but not as an expression of dissatisfaction with the men who presided during the terms coming to a close. Both Mayor Dick-Wilson and Reeve Alfred Wurtele are vacating office, retiring after periods of service which have won wide acclaim.

Under other circumstances, yesterday's acclamations might be taken as an indication of apathy. It is nothing of the sort. Back for more service are the men who have pulled their weight admirably in the Greater Victoria teams. That they remain reeves without the necessity of an election is a measure of the esteem in which they are held.

It is gratifying also to note the confidence shown by the new North Saanich municipality in one of its most active founding council members. Mr. J. B. Cumming assumes the reeveship unopposed, doubtless because his earlier work in the district has carried weight with its residents. There, also, is appreciation.

Jest a-Sittin' on the Steppes

NOT SO LONG AGO THE Soviets initiated a scheme to convert the idle young into industrious producers.

The plan was simple in theory and practice. Non-working youths in industrial centres would be sent to labor on farms.

It hasn't worked out very successfully. The former idlers of the city are now the idlers impeding the work of the farmers—and the cry is going up from Russian farms: "Take them away or take us away from them."

The skills of non-work, it appears, are portable. They can be taken from the town to the country and the experts in their application need never lose them.

"Tell the boys in the workshop to rig up a few big 'Yankee Go Home!' signs . . .!!"

FROM OTTAWA — By MAURICE WESTERN

Disruptive Factors in 'Opting' Out

THERE is a strong probability that the 27th Parliament will see a renewal of the debate on "contracting out". On the one hand it is evident that Quebec would like to go beyond the present agreement which covers shared programs. The Lesage government wishes to "repatriate" family allowances (now a purely federal responsibilbity) and to fit them into a social security scheme which would take account of income differences.

Western

On the other hand there has been a revival of the old criticism that "contracting out" places federal representatives of the affected province in a somewhat invidious position. It is a case, as one writer has said, of representation without taxation, since a bloc of members may be called upon to vote for or against measures imposing taxation on everyone except their own constituents.

At least for a transitional period, the problem may be considered academic so far as old shared programs are conso far as the old shared programs are concerned. There is a cange of administration but, as the various benefits are being kept more or less uniform, members from a self-excluded province no doubt feel that they are voting, in effect, for a package deal. It is to be expected, however, that as time goes on the governments of provinces which have exercised their options will feel increasingly free to vary them from the federal model.

There are those who feel that, in such a situation, members from a province not participating in a federal scheme should abstain on divisions. This, in fact, is what a group of Quebec Conservatives, out of loyalty to Mr. Duplessis, used to do in the Diefenbaker years when they were confronted with embarrassing measures bearing on federal-provincial relations.

The idea is somewhat reminiscent of the theory of concurrent majorities which prevailed at one time in pre-Confederation Canada. It was then considered that legislation affecting one part of the country ought not to be passed unless it commanded the support of a majority from that section. The difficulty was that the theory was completely unworkable.

Regional Concept Weak

It would appear even less workable in a Confederation embracing five distinct regions. Only twice in the eight elections since the war have we succeeded in electing a government with majorities in all regions of the country.

There are two obvious objections to a modern theory of abstention arising from the new technique of contracting out. In the first place, it would divide Parliament into two categories, first class and second class members. This would be all the more objectionable if Quebec alone availed herself of the non-participation privilege.

In any case, because of the difficulty of building majorities in a scattered federation, any such practice would paralyze the federal government. At the moment, for example, Mr. Pearson could not possibly share his 56 Quebec votes; without them, he would plainly be helpless on any measure touching matters for which Mr. Lesage has accepted responsibility in his own province. But this is not unusual. Mr. St. Laurent, with his solid majority, would have been in the same position in 1953-57 when there was great activity in the field of shared programs.

No Neat Solution

It is improbable that there is any way of tidying up this situation within our present constitutional limitations. The fact is, however, that there is always a good deal of untidiness in a federal system. For a quarter of a century, Ottawa retained control of the natural resources of the western provinces although perhaps there would have been a swift transfer if the matter had been left solely to members from the provinces directly concerned. Only recently the entire Parliament voted on the Columbia River treaty; the principles being held to be of national importance although the works were entirely within one province.

The likelihood is that matters will be considered more untidy in the future and that the opposition parties will be strongly tempted to make political capital out of situations involving the votes of members from non-participating provinces. But no acceptable answer will be found in a practice of mass abstentions which would reduce the stature of members of Parliament by turning them into mere deputies of the various sections.

FROM WASHINGTON — By JOSEPH ALSOP

Civil Rights' Non-Leadership

ONE of the President's most cherished aims is to lead a decisively successful assault on racial discrimination in America. Yet within the Johnson administration there is acute and rising anxiety about the next stage of the civil rights movement. The immediate cause of the anxiety was the White House conference on civil rights. At this rally the high administration officials who were most eager to aid the civil rights movement found themselves hardly talking the same language as the movement's leaders.

Alsop

The first shock was the reception given to the Moynihan Report—the real basis of the President's deservedly famous speech at Howard University. The report describes and proposes remedies for the grave weaknesses in Negro family patterns in the Northern urban ghettos. It is both wholly sympathetic and wholly factual, and it was denounced as "racist."

The second shock was the kind of answer the administration conferees got, or rather did not get, when they asked the civil rights leaders: "Well, if you don't want action based on the Moynihan Report, what precisely do you want?" The civil rights leaders had no practicable program to offer in reply.

No Real Answer

There was hardly any answer, indeed, beyond a vague but angry demand by A. Philip Randolph and his idea man, Bayard Rustin, that the government "spend $100 billion" to raise the Negroes' economic standing. And how this was to be done, and where the money was to come from, were emphatically not indicated.

On a very much lower level, this reporter and his brother, Stewart Alsop, recently had just the same sort of experience when they went, respectively, to Boston and Chicago to have a first-hand look at the urgent problem of the Negro ghetto schools. Both were and are passionately convinced of the justification for the Negro protests against poor schooling for Negro children. Both asked the protest leaders:

"What exactly do you want done? What is the right solution?"

One got the remarkable answer that "the solution isn't the problem"—meaning, apparently, that getting something done was much less important than increasing the volume of protest. The other was somewhat astonished to find that a request for a specific, practical program of remedies and reforms was treated as downright insulting, indeed, as being a symptom of sneaking prejudice.

Friends Anxious

These major and minor bits of evidence suggest the nature of the anxiety that is now felt by every friend of the civil rights movement in this administration, which has done more for civil rights than has ever been done since the Emancipation Proclamation. Briefly, the civil rights gains that can be easily accomplished by legislation have all been put on the statute books.

The statutes remain to be fully applied, to be sure, but time and hard work are needed for that. In the meanwhile, nothing is to be gained by passing a second Negro voting act.

Thus, in the present phase the main need is a hard, practical and continuing effort to solve the grave and deep-rooted social problems of America's Negro minority. And this effort cannot succeed unless the Negro leaders recognize there are such problems, as set forth in the Moynihan Report, for instance, and unless they also share directly in the effort to solve these problems.

To illustrate, this reporter's brother found a predominantly Negro Chicago school about equally divided between the "Brookses" and the "Gowsters" — the "Brookses" being hard-working and ambitious Negro boys and girls, good citizens in every sense of the word, and the "Gowsters" being the exact opposite. The "Gowsters" were also indulging in fairly brutal racial persecution of some members of the school's white minority.

Here was a situation obviously calculated to strengthen the hands of the prejudiced white people, who want nothing done about the Negro school problem in Chicago. Here, therefore, was a situation calling for stern action by the Negro protest-leader, Albert A. Raby, who has done nothing. Here, too, was a situation deeply threatening to the "Brookses," whose parents have also done nothing or next to nothing.

Lack Constructive Planning

Nationally as well as locally, the difficulty is the same. Still sticking to the school problem, the local protest leaders offer no detailed solutions. In addition, it is all but impossible to find a single national civil rights leader, or a single militant white liberal for that matter, who has ever discussed the direly urgent school problem of the great urban ghettos in terms of the hard, harsh, intractable facts.

Injustice is the theme, not what can be done about it. When Whitney Young of the Urban League calls for "a mass march to the PTA meetings instead of the protest meetings," he is all but unique. Yet the road Young indicates is going to have to be followed if we are ever to attain the grand aim of true integration of the Negro community into the larger American community.

Looking Back

From The Times of Nov. 30, 1905:

St. Petersburg (Associated Press)—The workmen's council threatens the country with another general strike to compel the employers of St. Petersburg, who locked out about 70,000 men yesterday, to reopen their doors. The men have refused to return to work under the old conditions.

During the last strike actual starvation prevailed. There were cases of workmen remaining naked in bed at home, having pawned every stitch of clothing to feed their families.

Dangers in Mao's Maxim

By G. S. WARREN, from Hong Kong

AN "infallible" maxim of Mao Tse-tung, currently in wide use by China's propaganda organs, is that Man, and not modern weapons, is the deciding factor in war. It goes farther to insist that an army indoctrinated with the "thought" of Mao is invincible.

This is the line passed on to Ho Chi-minh's Vietnamese Communists, and the line, with many ramifications, that contributes to the split between the followers of Peking and those of Moscow.

Under the pyramid control system perfected by Peking, the declarations by the leaders at the apex descend through the various chains of command to the bottom without challenge. So when the leadership at the top says that guerrillas fighting a war of liberation will win, even against modern U.S. arms, the declaration is echoed all the way down to the man in the jungle doing the actual fighting.

Cannot Recognize Failure

The pressure is sufficiently great that failure cannot be recognized. Admission of a defeat in battle would be tantamount to challenging the correctness of the "line." So only victories are reported, and the reports pass up through the bureaucracy to reinforce the stubborn confidence of those at the top.

The big question is just how much the Communist leadership is duped by the built-in weakness of this system.

Communist China has been caught out on the problem before. The disastrous "great leap forward" was begun in 1958 with Peking believing the inflated production figures furnished by cadres who dared not admit that unrealistic quotas set for them had not been met. The final failure was attributed to a series of "natural disasters," thus blaming the weather instead of the "correct line" which nearly plunged the nation into economic ruin.

On other occasions, a favorite excuse has been to blame individuals for not correctly implementing the "line." The Communist lexicon is full of derogatory terms to describe deviations which can result in failure. The point that Peking has devised some almost routine procedures for absorbing failures without loss of face does not conceal the fact that errors are made.

Politicians In Command

There are hard-headed military men in Hanoi and Peking who have been realistic commanders in the field. The trouble is that now they are not in the field. Politicians are in command of the war in Viet Nam, and to them there are three vital issues: the conquest of South Viet Nam, the defeat of U.S. forces, and proof that in the current international Communist quarrel the "Peking" interpretation of Marxism-Leninism is correct—that is, that national wars of liberation should be pursued.

There is evidence, gathered from prisoners of war, that the imposition of too much political theory is leading Communist troops to undertake reckless adventures. They are taught that U.S. troops are cowardly and have no motives for fighting. They are indoctrinated with their own invincibility to the point that they ignore the cautions that are fundamental to the military teachings of Mao Tse-tung.

Such misjudgments can lead to serious consequences for both sides.

Independent Canada

If Mr. Bruce Hutchison reads the political signs correctly Canadians had better begin to memorize "The Star Spangled Banner."

He notes that Mr. Pearson's speeches indicate a realization of "the total interdependence of Canada and the United States." He suggests that Mr. Gordon's exit leaves Mr. Pearson free to act on this realization. In other words, Canadians, let us bow to the inevitable; let us not be hostile to American investment in Canada; let us "swim boldly in the stream." With the stream, naturally—twenty million happy souls swimming along with the other 200 million Americans.

Mr. Hutchison describes Mr. Gordon as an ardent nationalist—a narrow, inward-looking, frightened nationalist. He is not really a Liberal at all but a Conservative; he apparently believes in leadership. With him out of the way, the Liberal government will really be able to co-operate with the U.S.A.!

Why can't an old Liberal fossil like Mr. Hutchison understand that if Canada is to play any meaningful role in foreign affairs she must do so as an independent nation. There is nothing inward-looking about Canadians who would like to revive the proud times when Canada, with no financial help from the U.S.A., raised $15 billions through taxes and Victory Bonds to defeat Adolf Hitler. There are many national and international projects of equal importance today that we could tackle with similar enthusiasm—if only we had imaginative and courageous leadership.—David P. Reimer, 1374 Richardson.

LASTING PLEASURES

Pleasures of childhood that still go on in the middle age are endless. . . . Walking on new, crisp dry un-walked-on snow. Particularly when the snow makes that squeak that is at the same time both a sound and a sensation. Walking through dry autumn leaves when they are deep, and the color of corn flakes. This is a sound-and-sensation pleasure too; and a marvellous color to go with it.

Getting, Spending, Go-Go-Go

By RICHARD NEEDHAM
The Globe and Mail

What is this life, full of woe, we spend it all in go-go-go?

Most of the people I know are all right for money; they have enough to fill their stomachs and clothe their calamitous figures, and belt the grape when they feel like it and buy the various things which are offered for sale.

What they're short of, what they're poor in, is time; and that's a poverty problem which seems to me more important, more serious in the long run, than the one the politicians natter about.

I'm thinking especially of people who hold responsible jobs in business, industry, newspapers, television, advertising and such.

These men and women are money-rich, leisure-poor; they don't have enough time to read, to rest, to think, to sit on a bench or a rock and invite the muse. But aren't they just the people who should be doing these things?

Rueful Thought

When I look at their lives (and indeed at my own frenetic one) I think ruefully of what Matthew Arnold said (in the Scholar Gypsy) all of a century ago: "This strange disease of modern life with its sick hurry, its divided aims, its heads o'ertaxed, its palsied hearts . . ."

And it's more than a century since William Wordsworth protested: "The world is too much with us, late and soon; getting and spending, we lay waste our powers."

This is a recent development in man's long chronicle, and one limited to industrial or industrializing societies. Reading about Christmas the other day, I noticed that for some 600 years of England's history (from William the Conqueror to Oliver Cromwell) the whole 12-day period was marked as a holiday—from Christmas Eve to Epiphany.

Many people, indeed, rested and feasted for six whole weeks—from St. Thomas' Day (December 21) to Candlemas (February 2).

To Be, Not Do

Well, what's wrong with this? I'm old-fashioned enough to believe man was put on earth to be rather than to do, to cultivate his own soul rather than tend someone else's machinery.

According to what we are told in the newspapers, automation could give us (or give us back) this desirable state of affairs. But that depends on the use we make of automation.

In an age of leisure, we'd have to consider and treat human beings for what they are, not for what they do or what they have.

Aren't Canadians going to find that rather difficult?

And are our school and university systems, with their tight regimentation, their emphasis on material "success," making it any easier?

Popularity Polls Are Poor Basis For Deciding U.S. Foreign Policy

By JAMES RESTON
The New York Times

WASHINGTON—President Johnson's only consolation about Viet Nam is that the public opinion polls seem to support his conduct of the war.

He keeps them close in his pocket, as a reassurance to himself and a rebuke to his critics, but they really do not prove him either right or wrong.

All they prove is that the American people rally round the flag in trouble.

The more the nation has become involved in the leadership of dangerous and complicated events all over the world, the more the people have tended to back the president's judgment.

They supported Truman on the whole in fighting the Korean War and Eisenhower in ending it.

They backed Kennedy in trying to overthrow Castro (until he failed), backed him strongly even in risking atomic war with the U.S.S.R. to get the Soviet missiles out of Cuba, agreed reluctantly to tolerate Castro's Communist regime so long as Castro did not have weapons that could hit the United States, and would undoubtedly have gone along with Mr. Kennedy if he had decided to bomb, invade and conquer that island.

The popular assumptions in this country about the Dominican Republic and Viet Nam sustain the point.

Landing over 20,000 Marines in Santo Domingo was not unpopular with most people in the United States, but it startled and confused the rest of the Western Hemisphere. And the popular assumptions about Viet Nam have led us into even more serious troubles.

Oppose Reds

It is popular in this country to oppose Communist aggression or expansion wherever it appears. It is popular to assume that whenever Uncle Sam appears on the battlefield the opposition will knuckle under.

It is popular here to believe that even if the French lost 187,000 casualties and a war to the North Vietnamese regulars and guerrillas, we are different and not subject to the same disasters.

But these assumptions, though popular, are not necessarily true.

The Johnson administration has assumed that the Communists would tolerate what it obviously would not tolerate itself—an enemy base of operations right up against its own border, capable of destroying the security of the nation.

If the Chinese Communists had an expeditionary force of almost 200,000 men in southern Mexico and an air force capable of wiping out every city in the United States, we would oppose it for a century, if necessary, but we have assumed that Hanoi and Peking would do otherwise.

Relevant Now

This is a highly relevant and even critical question now, because the American casualties in the battle of the Ia Drang Valley have been much more serious than the official description of "moderate" suggests, and the pressure is on now for another shift in policy to bomb the industrial installations around the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi and the maritime and other transportation facilities in the port of Haiphong.

Maybe this should be done and maybe it shouldn't, but the popularity polls are a poor basis for judgment.

Proved False

Nothing irritates President Johnson and his principal advisers more than the suggestion that they allow popular feelings at home to influence their foreign policy decisions abroad. They defend their support of popular attitudes and deny that they act on these attitudes, but it is perfectly clear from the record that in both Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic they have been influenced profoundly by popular assumptions and have confused popularity with effective policy.

Popular support and sound policy are obviously not the same thing.

Nothing was more popular or more disastrous than the isolationist policy of the United States before the two World Wars. Chamberlain's appeasement policy was not unpopular with the mass of the British people between Munich and the outbreak of the Second World War, but it was not a howling success.

The Lend-Lease Act, the Marshall Plan and American foreign aid were not "popular" when they were introduced, but in the perspective of history they have been much more successful than popular opinion believed at the start.

On the Record

The United States assumed that its air attacks on North Viet Nam, then its commitment of 150,000 men to the battle, then its successful blunting of the Communist monsoon offensive would persuade the Communists to negotiate an honorable settlement, but these assumptions also proved to be false.

If we ask, therefore, as we must, where we went wrong in Viet Nam, we have to examine these popular assumptions. It is a bore to dwell in a crisis on past mistakes, but unfortunately the lesson of these mistakes has still not been learned.

The President is still confusing popularity with policy, and this could easily lead us deeper into the bog.

Minority Government Needn't Mean Paralysis In Canadian Affairs

By THOMAS A. HOCKIN

(Mr. Hockin is a Canadian and a teaching fellow in government at Harvard University. In this article for the Financial Post he maintains that minority government is not alien to the successful practice of parliamentary government in the British tradition.)

The traditional disposition of most Canadians not to think about politics often or for very long has been aided and abetted by our remarkable record of producing majority governments in 23 of 27 elections since Confederation. This has meant, in the past, that we have been able to put politics and politicians safely out of our minds except for the occasional federal election every four or five years.

Now, of course, this has changed. We may get majority governments again but currently we have a House of minorities and we must learn to live with it.

Two strongly held illusions must be dispelled if we are to do so. One illusion is that minority government is a monstrous unnatural way to operate politics under the British Parliamentary system. The second is the notion that minority government is necessarily paralyzed, infirm, indecisive government.

Incorrect

The first assumption is patently false. The second is, to put it shortly, not necessarily so.

Canada has existed as a nation for 98 years. We have experienced minority government in pure form for only eight of these years, (1922, 1924, 1926, 1957, 1962 to 1965).

Britain, however, in a 98-year span from 1834 to 1932 spent one-third, 32 years, of this time under minority government. In Australia, minority governments were the rule before federation and in New Zealand the same was the case until the 1890s.

It cannot be maintained, therefore, that minority government is alien to the spirit of British Parliamentary institutions. Minority governments have been known to last for a very long time too—Gladstone's for eight, Disraeli's for six, Asquith's for five years.

Not Indecisive

Disraeli and Gladstone, the 1957 Diefenbaker and the 1963 and 1965 Pearson governments, whatever else might be said about them, were not paralyzed, indecisive or devoid of legislative ideas. It is not necessarily true that minority government means indecisive, incompetent government.

But what about the present situation? It is widely held that lack of a majority will intimidate the Liberal government from effective and forthright action against economic inflation, provincial intemperances, or American blandishments over our water resources. Not a scrap of evidence supports these timid conclusions.

No Sellout

What party is going to call for capitulation to the U.S. over water resources? And the centralizing NDP and "One Canada" Diefenbaker people are not going to encourage federal sellouts to the provinces, even if the present government had that in mind.

As for moves to counter inflation, immediate government action would probably force at least one of the opposition parties to back down rather than bring about another election. As for other positive programs, medical insurance, aid to education, war on poverty, Bank Act, dairy, railway legislation and so on, if the government will accept some amendments from one party on each it should be able to pass all it wants to pass.

Few Seats

In short, it is not true that minority governments mean disaster and paralysis. A government only a few seats short of a majority faced by opposition parties divided among themselves is no French fourth republic.

It is entirely possible to have good government in this present minority situation. The sombre, sad, disheartened comments from the ministers immediately after the election, intimating that little can be done in the present situation, are far from convincing. If these comments are believed by these ministers, either they are very easily intimidated or are groping for an excuse for inaction. Neither is excusable.

ASIAN DEVELOPMENT BANK ALMOST READY FOR ACTION

By JOHN STIRLING

BANGKOK—At this point in Asian affairs when a Thai citizen cannot cross the border into Cambodia, and when the currency of almost any Asian country is belittled by its neighbors, it seems almost quixotic to talk of a co-operative, inter-governmental Asian bank. Yet the process of setting up such an institution is well advanced.

A meeting in Bangkok of 15 Asian delegations, plus the representatives of 16 non-Asian countries, including Canada, Britain, the Soviet Union, The United States, Australia and New Zealand, has reached agreement on the draft charter of the Asian Development Bank.

It will start with a capital of $1,000 million (U.S.), and its declared purpose is to "mobilize additional resources within the (Asian) region, to attract additional funds from outside the region, and to finance projects either not financed, or only inadequately financed, by existing institutions."

One of the delegates to the Bangkok conference remarked: "The founding fathers (of the bank) are anxious that the infant be as Asian as possible in character." The founding fathers, in this instance, are the back-room boys of a United Nations agency, the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East (ECAFE).

Strong Role

Though it rarely attracts the press spotlight, ECAFE is performing an almost indispensable role in the co-ordination of Asian economies. Among its more dramatic projects are the Asian Highway, which will eventually provide a land link between European cities and Singapore; the Maekong development project, which will exploit the vast latent energy of this river for the benefit of the four riparian states; and the Asian Development Bank.

The bank was one of the many seminal ideas put forward as a contribution to the United Nations "development decade." Last year, a group of banking experts drew up a rough outline of the bank. Asian governments made it clear that they favored the idea only if the bank was in fact in principle free from the dominance of the big powers.

To protect the Asian infant from its rich uncles, it was decided that the non-regional members of ECAFE (Britain, the U.S., and Soviet Union and The Netherlands) should contribute not more than 40 per cent of the total capital. The Asian share of the paid-up capital is permitted to rise above 60 per cent, with a corresponding fall in the non-Asian share.

Asian control is further emphasized by the structure of the bank's controlling body. Seven of the 10 directors must be from regional countries, and the chairman of the board will almost certainly be an Asian.

Unusually swift agreement on these basic points meant that when the banking experts met this month in Bangkok, they had before them a document which most of them had already approved. The delegation which drew the most attention and speculation was the five-man group from the Soviet Union, headed by Mr. S. M. Borisov, "Senior Scientific Worker" of the Research Financial Institute, Moscow. It was the first time the Soviet Union had attended a meeting of bankers since the Bretton Woods conference.

Two Views

Some observers in Bangkok thought the Russians would offer to match the United States, dollar for dollar, in setting up the bank (which would have meant a Soviet contribution of $200 million); or that the Russians would simply denounce the project as a neo-colonialist trap.

But in the closed sessions held to discuss the bank's charter, the Russian line turned out to be remarkably mild and flexible. They indicated that they would be happier if the bank had fewer "developed" members, and expressed fears that the state-controlled economies in ECAFE (for example Burma's and Cambodia's) would not benefit greatly from the bank, as it is now constituted.

The Soviet comments were heard out carefully by the other delegates if only because they represented the anti-capitalist point of view. But the possibility of the bank's being dominated by its non-Asian members is guarded against by the capital structure, and by the fact that Asians will dominate the board. There appears to be no real danger that Asian taxpayers' money will be funnelled into capitalistic schemes.

Entry Ticket

However, it seems at the moment that the Soviet Union is reluctant to plunge headlong into the Asian Bank. At the same time it does no want to dissociate itself from a project which may turn out to be — from Moscow's point of view — a useful ticket of entry into the Asian club.

The most likely course for the Russians, according to banking experts, will be to avail themselves of a clause in the bank charter which permits any country, whether Asian or non-Asian, to lend money through the bank for a specific project. By this device, Moscow can show its benevolent interest in the bank, without the risk of being accused by Peking of dabbling in capitalism.

Relevant to the bank's future is the faith of its members, especially the Asians, in the ideal or self-help and economic solidarity.

Generally, the omens are not favorable; but one encouraging sign is the swift materialization of the charter and working capital of the Asian Bank. There seem to be two reasons for this. One is the widespread feeling among Asians that foreign aid is often "other-directed," and that it grinds underdeveloped axes only as a by-product of big-power rivalries. The second is the perception, even through the fog of Asian rivalries, of a common destiny and common problems.

On the face of it, the prospect of tiny Nepal and Laos lending money to other countries is ludicrous; but only if one forgets the profound desire of Asians to escape by their own efforts from economic thraldom to the West.

Sailors in Port Need to Enjoy Green Trees

Harry Hamm, in Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung:

Within a very few years Shanghai has become prudish and puritanical.

For example, the International Club for Seamen, frequented by sailors from an occasional foreign freighter, used to be the Shanghai Club and featured the longest bar in the world.

Now its moral hygiene suggests a monastery rather than a place of amusement.

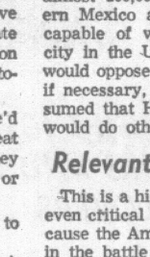
"We know what sailors need when they get to port after weeks at sea," the club's director said. "We organize excursions and walks in the parks for them so that they can enjoy the green trees."

Classes Are Too Big, But What's the Ideal?

By ART STOTT

ALMOST everyone who has thought about it will probably agree with The B.C. Teacher magazine that our schools could do a better job if classes were smaller.

A teacher handling 40 or 50 students at one time can scarcely be expected to give to pupils those short periods of individual attention which can make the difference between understanding and not understanding an important point in instruction.



Stott

"Until classes are reduced to a size in which students can be treated as individuals, society is being completely unrealistic in expecting the schools to achieve ever higher standards," says the teachers' magazine.

There is, in this argument, an underlying idea that if sufficient funds were available for education, the problem could be solved. And money undoubtedly could be an effective element in hiring more people to preside over classrooms.

But the case remains incomplete. Too many questions are left unanswered.

Nobody seems to have produced incontrovertible figures on the ideal size of a class.

Mention is made, from time to time, of classes no larger than 20, frequently smaller. But is this the best? If costs and the availability of personnel were no barrier, would one student with 20 teachers get a better education? How low is it desirable to go in teacher-pupil ratios?

★ ★ ★

The question is not entirely academic. Some of our private schools have very low teacher-pupil ratios in certain classes, but they do not always produce the best students—perhaps because in their restricted enrolments they do not always get the brightest young minds.

Another significant and unanswered question is how far can you go in practical terms in view of the limited number of good teachers available?

As a corollary to that: What percentage of bright high school graduates can be reasonably expected to take up teaching? Every profession, with occasional fluctuations in supply and demand, wants a larger share of the bright high school graduates—nursing, science, medicine, dentistry, engineering, and so forth. Take from the pool a larger number for teaching and obviously the other vocations have fewer candidates.

This raises a related question: If the supply of good teachers, or good teaching candidates, is restricted because there aren't enough naturally endowed among young people to go around, would two classes of 25 with an inferior teacher in charge of each be better off than one class of 50 with a top-notch teacher?

Under this hypothetical case, the bad teacher might have twice the opportunity to give individual attention to his students as would the good teacher with a class of 50. But what would be the result? Teaching that was twice as bad?

It seems obvious that some more particular research is needed on the question—research which applies not only theory but makes a very practical survey of human resources in a given school area.

It seems equally obvious, I think, that the general argument which forecasts better results from smaller classes is justifiable. And as I see it, you get smaller classes, with a reduced student-teacher ratio, if you can raise the money to pay for more teachers.

Where do you turn for the money? To the taxpayer, sometimes called the municipal home-owner, sometimes called the provincial citizen—and the ranks include teachers.

Municipal taxpayers in this district found that half their taxes this year went to school accounts, including teachers' salaries, and teachers asked for 10 per cent raises in 1966.

On that basis, the raises of 10 teachers would be equivalent to one full teacher's salary on the 1965 scale—11 teachers for the price of 10. That might reduce the student-teacher ratio . . .

Whoa up, there boy! Where is this kind of research leading?

AGGRAVATES PROBLEM OF ALCOHOLISM

'Gov't Depends on Liquor Revenue'

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) The federal government is hearing more and more demands that it stop the growth of alcoholism in Canada while at the same time depending on revenue from the sale of alcoholic beverages, the convention of the Canadian Federation on Alcohol Problems was told Monday.

Dr. John Linton of Toronto said a larger effort by the federal government is called for if the growth of alcoholism is to be stopped.

But this increasing problem is being aggravated "with more people involved directly and indirectly with the trade and . . . government depending more and more upon revenue from the sale of alcoholic beverages to balance their increasing budgets."

Dr. Linton, retiring as federation secretary, said the organization would be naive to assume that the government does not find itself at odds with liquor concerns who bring pressure when it considers liquor legislation.

"It is not a problem of prohibition, but one of sale and how it relates to society and how society relates to it," Dr. Linton said.

NUMBER IS INCREASING

There are more than 100,000 alcoholics in Ontario alone and the number if increasing every year across the country, he said.

Dr. Gordon Porter, chairman of the federation's long - range committee, said the church has "backed away" from strong emphasis on total abstinence and given only "token support" to programs dealing with alcohol problems.

Health Minister Judy Marsh said in a letter read to the convention that efforts are being made to prevent the spread of alcoholism by treating the potential alcoholic before his problem becomes total addiction.

Arthur Blair, general manager of the Abstainers Insurance Co. of Simcoe, Ont., said more non-drinkers are taking advantage of his company's benefits.

His company has offered a 25-per-cent reduction in car insurance to abstaining driver in Ontario since 1956, and recently has done the same in Alberta and Manitoba.

The reduction applies to drivers 25 years old or more and the insured person must sign a declaration that he does not drink alcohol and will not do so during the life of the policy.

Bingo Operators Warned on Mainland

VANCOUVER (CP) — City Prosecutor Stewart McMorran Monday warned bingo operators they face prosecution if their games are not changed to conform with the law.

"Several organizations, including a couple of Legion branches, several social clubs, a lodge or two and some churches are continuing to conduct their bingo operations in the manner they have been in the past or close to it," the prosecutor said.

Legion Branch 177 and its secretary-manager, Elmer MacDonald, were fined a total of $1,100 by Magistrate Gordon Scott earlier this year after being found guilty of keeping a common gaming house in connection with bingo games.

A Provincial Court of Appeal ruling quashed the conviction but, last month, the Supreme Court of Canada, upheld Magistrate Scott's original finding.

EXTRA CHARGE

The Supreme Court said any member of the public was admitted to the games upon payment of 50 cents. But if he wished to participate in the prize money, another 50 cents had to be paid.

Evidence against the Legion branch showed that it retained the 50 cents admission fee and returned all other money as prizes.

Mr. McMorran said it was obvious that the operators of some 24 bingo games, now known to be operating in the Vancouver area, had not read the Supreme Court judgment.

Reds Urge Left Alliance In Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—The British Communist party decided Sunday to try to build a broad left-wing alliance in opposition to the Labor government.

It overwhelmingly approved at its party congress here a report calling for such an alliance based on the co-operation of Communists, socialists and left-wing labor union members.

Party secretary John Gollan said they must show they aim to win the British people to their views by ordinary democrat methods. "In the meantime I have more modest ambitions—give us half a dozen Communist MPs now."

(None of the 630 members of the House of Commons is a Communist.)

The party shook up its leadership today to pension off old party wheelhorses and kick out pro-Chinese militants.

Nominations before the party's 29th national congress showed more than a quarter of its 40-man executive council is being dropped. Those ousted include Reg Birch, leader of the executive's pro-Chinese faction, and the party's best known theoretician, R. Palme Dutt.

The 700 delegates to the congress were told that party membership has declined during the last year by 500 to 33,734, and the sale of The Daily Worker was down to 60,245, the lowest in two years.

Esquimalt Avoids Panhandle Stand

Esquimalt council Monday night avoided taking a stand on amalgamation with the View Royal Panhandle by deferring the vote until after the municipal elections.

The request for the opinion came from Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell through a letter to council from assistant deputy minister J. D. Baird.

Council's recommendation was that "if the area to be annexed by Esquimalt is to be changed then the same procedure as was carried out more than a year ago should be followed."

At that time a petition was approved by Panhandle residents favoring amalgamation with Esquimalt.

In another petition presented to the municipal affairs department Nov. 11 a group of View Royal ratepayers confirmed that "we are still of the opinion the Panhandle would fare much better as a part of Esquimalt."

The petition also suggests that before moves are made to form a town of View Royal "the time is now appropriate to investigate the forming of a much larger municipality embracing View Royal, Colwood, Belmont and Langford areas."

SUN SPY FROM U.S. RETIRES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency has shut down one of its most widely travelled satellites — the sun — seeking OSO-2, which made 4,100 orbits around the earth.

Equipped to gather data about the sun, the OSO-2 relayed 2,200,000 bits of information back to earth on each orbit. The satellite exceeded its life expectancy by more than 50 per cent. It was launched Feb. 3.

It was shut down because it depleted its gas supply for position control that enabled researchers to keep it pointed at the sun.

Disciplinary Action Halted By Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver police commission was restrained by a Supreme Court injunction last week from proceeding with disciplinary charges against police union president Ronald G. Magill.

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan said he was granting the order reluctantly but said matters of such importance should be decided after arguments from both sides.

He said the order, sought by the Vancouver Policemen's Union, could be set aside on 24 hours' notice by the police commission, which was not represented at the hearing.

The commission had been scheduled to meet Wednesday to hear the charge against Magill, who earlier this month proposed a non-confidence vote in Chief Constable Ralph Booth and Deputy Chief John Fisk. The vote is scheduled to go to the union membership Dec. 1.

The commission alleges Magill acted in a manner prejudicial to good order and discipline by telling other members he did not have any confidence in the chief constable or the deputy and by attempting to elicit active support for his expressions from other members.

A secondary disciplinary charge relates to causing concern and unnecessary unrest among auxiliary police members who were allegedly interviewed by another constable on Magill's instructions.

VIET ACTION PROTESTED

CANBERRA (Reuters) —An Australian diplomat, Gregory Clark, announced today he had resigned his post because he disagrees with Australia's policy in Viet Nam.

Clark, 29, former first secretary in the Moscow embassy, claimed that the sending of Australian troops to Viet Nam jeopardized Australia's position with uncommitted Asians.

Australia has 1,300 men in South Viet Nam.

PORCH LIGHT DRIVE NETS $28,000

Victorians were "lit up" for Kiwanis Monday night.

Kiwanis Village Society president Sam Swetnam said the annual porchlight campaign was "one of the most successful ever."

"With $28,000 to midnight, the mail and three districts yet to count, we could go as high as $32,000, which is $2,000 more than last year."

Nearly 2,000 Kiwanians and friends canvassed in the Greater Victoria area. Their efforts were the major fund-raising offensive in Kiwanis' year-round drive to find money for new construction at Kiwanis Village, a home for old people on Cook Street near Cedar Hill Road.

The Kiwanis home, cottages and residence building cost a total of $900,000.

Kiwanis clubs, through direct contributions and commitments, are responsible for half that.

Society president Swetnam says "we can't stop here. There is a growing demand for housing for elderly people."

Mr. Swetnam said donations to the Kiwanis fund will be most welcome at any time, porchlight night or any time money can be found to make good places to live for old people who want to look after themselves.

Warnings Criticized By Loffmark

VANCOUVER (CP) — Trade Minister Loffmark of B.C. told businessmen not to believe warnings of overproduction of pulp and paper products.

He said the dire forecasts of overproduction will prove as groundless as earlier claims that simultaneous development of two giant hydro-electric projects in B.C. would glut the market with unwanted generating capacity.

In a talk to the Associated lower mainland, the minister Chambers of Commerce of the said increased world demand for pulp and paper products in the next five years will far exceed new production capacity in B.C.

World demand for wood-derived products would increase by 50,000,000 tons in the five years. But new capacity in B.C. was keyed to a growth rate of about 3,000,000 tons a year.

"There are warnings of overproduction — don't you believe it."

MISS OPPORTUNITIES

The minister said B.C. businessmen are overlooking opportunities to get United States defence orders.

He said British Columbians could get orders in the Los Angeles manufacturing area for both defence and non-defence woodworking and metal products.

The goods would enter the U.S. as semi-finished and the tariff would be in the range of 10 to 15 per cent. The tariff on finished goods was 20 to 50 per cent.

Defence contracts "go abegging in southern California."

If the U.S. tariff wall could be lowered enough for Canadians to compete for those contracts small industry would spring up in such centres as Kamloops and Chilliwack.

FINANCING PROBLEMS

Heavy Water Contract Out

OTTAWA (CP)—Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. announced today that plans for a heavy water plant at Estevan, Sask., have fallen through.

The brief announcement said Dynamic Power Corp. of Calgary had been unable "to obtain adequate assurances of financing" to meet terms of its proposal to build the plant.

An additional source of heavy water in Canada is needed for "known future domestic requirements and foreign sales," the announcement added, and AECL will make a recommendation to the government on this matter "at an early date."

Dynamic was to have supplied 300 tons of heavy water a year at $16 a pound. The Estevan plant would have cost about $40,000,000.

However, financial difficulties apparently delayed final approval of the contract and Atomic Energy set a Monday deadline for Dynamic to indicate adequate financing was available for the project.

Western Deuterium Ltd. was the original low bidder on the contract at $14.65 a pound. When it failed to obtain the necessary financial backing, Atomic Energy gave the contract to Dynamic, second in the bidding.

Others originally in the field were Imperial Oil Ltd., which later withdrew its third-ranked offer, and Deuterium of Canada Ltd., now building a heavy water plant at Glace Bay, N.S., under a contract to supply atomic energy with 200 tons a year.

Heavy water is used as a coolant and heat transfer agent in nuclear power reactors.

AVERAGE PAY $5,195

OTTAWA (CP) — Average family incomes rose to $5,195 in 1963 compared with $4,815 in 1961, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

The figures covered both families of two or more persons and unattached individuals, but did not include families living on farms.

The report said more than nine per cent of all families and unattached individuals had incomes above $10,000 a year. This was a substantial increase over previous years.

Families and individuals whose incomes came mainly from wages and salaries recorded a 6.6-per-cent gain in the two-year comparison. But larger gains were made by those whose principal sources of income were from unincorporated businesses or other sources.

'Vancouver Grain Elevator Capacity Should Be Hiked'

CALGARY (CP)—Capacity of grain elevators at Vancouver should be increased to 30,000,000 bushels a month from 20,000,000 bushels a month, W. C. McNamara, chief commissioner of the Canadian Wheat Board, said Monday.

"Vancouver grain movement should be a round-the-year capacity operation," Mr. McNamara told the annual meeting of the Alberta wheat pool.

While expanded elevator space is necessary to prevent further grain handling delays, the railways must also provide more boxcars, more diesel units and more yard trackage, Mr. McNamara said.

Delays in grain movement from the port of Vancouver are injuring sales of Canadian grain abroad, he said.

The commissioner said that as soon as navigation closes at Fort William, the board "will remove the ban on out-of-condition grain being shipped east and will dry as much as possible there during the winter."

Boxcars being used on eastern hauls will be switched to west coast movement to "help relieve the poor shipments out of Alberta and improve the ship loading record at Vancouver."

GOOD MARKET

Assistant chief commissioner J. B. Lawrie said a new long-term agreement with China will assure Canada of a minimum Chinese market of 37,000,000 bushels of wheat a year for the next three years.

This market could amount to 93,000,000 bushels a year for the next five years, Mr. Lawrie said.

"This, along with our other long-term agreements and our traditional customers, should almost assure us of achieving annual exports of 400,000,000 bushels a year over the next few years," he said.

B.C. Formula Offered Other BA Strikers

TORONTO (CP)—The British American Oil Co. says the managers of its six strike-bound refineries offered Monday as a basis for settling the strikes—recommendations made last week by the British Columbia government.

The company said Monday that talks are under way at the plants—in Clarkson, Ont., Brandon, Man., Moose Jaw, Sask., Saskatoon, Kamloops, B.C., and Vancouver—on local issues that must be settled before contracts can be signed enabling striking employees to return to work.

The B.C. formula includes an increase of 35 cents an hour over two years, six months notice of layoff or discharge due to technological change and severance pay equal to one week's pay for each year of service up to a maximum of 26 weeks.

J. Ronald Duncan, Canadian director of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (CLC), which represents the workers, said Monday he is pleased the strikes can be settled on the basis of the B.C. formula.

"I hope they (the refineries) take the same kind of realistic position on local issues, which will allow us to get the thing settled as quickly as possible," Mr. Duncan said.

In Vancouver representatives of the oil workers and three major oil companies were hopeful they can reach agreement on new contracts by the end of the week.

The negotiating committee of the oil workers met with representatives of the British American, Imperial and Shell Oil companies to discuss establishment of a company-union automation committee.

Both sides have accepted the broad terms for such a committee set out last week in a provincial government formula for ending the oil industry dispute.

However, they must still hammer out the final details.

Picket lines remain at BA refineries throughout the province and at the nearby Imperial Ioco refinery.

The union said it would maintain picket lines until the contracts are formally signed.

Concentrate Trips Start

PINE POINT, N.W.T. (CP)—The first shipment of lead-zinc concentrate from Pine Point Mines Ltd. left Monday for Trail.

Twenty railway cars loaded with between 70 and 80 tons of concentrate were to haul the initial load to the smelter of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Ltd.

J. M. B. Scarborough, superintendent of the Pine Point project, said he expects the mine will continue to ship concentrate on a twice-weekly basis.

Pine Point began shipping high grade ore last November. Shipments have been going out on Mondays and Thursdays.

A concentrator was completed this fall and with power newly available from the Taltson River hydro project has been undergoing shakedown tests.

Special 100-ton cars have been ordered to haul the mine's production now that it is going out as concentrate rather than ore.

Should you invest now?

That all depends.

It depends on which stocks or bonds you buy—

It depends on your reasons for buying them—whether you're buying for investment purposes or in the hope of selling tomorrow for a quick profit.

Certainly, there are uncertainties in the present situation—political and economic.

In some degree, that's always the case, but our basic position never changes a bit.

We think some securities are always better buys than others . . .

We believe that sound opportunities for investment always exist for the man who's looking ahead—for the man who's a lot more interested in just where he'll stand in five or ten years—not five or ten months.

If you feel you belong in that category yourself, we'll be happy to help you select the stocks or bonds that seem most suitable to your own situation.

Just tell us about your circumstances, your investment objective—growth, liberal dividends, or safety—and we'll do the best we can to help with your problem.

CANADIAN IMPORTS CONTINUE TO RISE

$15 Million Trade Deficit

OTTAWA (CP)—Exports fell and imports continued to rise in September, creating a commodity trade deficit of $15,800,000 in the month compared with a surplus of $126,000,000 in September last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The bureau said exports in September amounted to $719,100,000 compared with $742,400,000 in September last year, and imports amounted to $734,900,000 in value compared with $616,300,000 in September last year.

Exports in the first nine months of this year were 1.2 per cent higher than a year earlier at $6,232,000,000, while imports for the same period were 12.2 per cent higher at $6,198,000,000.

This left Canada with a commodity trade surplus in the first three quarters of 1965 amounting to $33,900,000, down sharply from $635,900,000 for the same period last year.

EXPORTS TO U.S. UP

Exports to the United States in September were nearly eight per cent higher at $424,400,000. They were 12 per cent higher in the nine-month period at $3,645,400,000.

But imports from the United States at $503,800,000, rose nearly 20 per cent in September from a year earlier, and in the nine months they were up 13.6 per cent at $4,356,300,000.

This created a larger than usual trade deficit with the United Sates, amounting to $710,900,000 in the first nine months of 1965 compared with $577,400,000 in the same period of 1964.

Sales to the United Kingdom amounted to $90,200,000 in September, down more than 15 per cent from $106,400,000 in September last year. Exports to the U.K. were off nearly four per cent in the nine-month period at $868,700,000.

Imports from the United Kingdom rose 23.8 per cent in September this year, amounting to $46,600,000 compared with $37,600,000 in September last year. In the nine-month period, cumulative purchases were four per cent higher at $447,100,000.

SURPLUS TRADE SAGS

This meant that the usual trade surplus with the U.K. was smaller both in the month of September and in the three quarters. The nine-month surplus this year was $421,600,000, compared with $474,300,000 in the same period last year.

The bureau of statistics also reported September exports to other Commonwealth countries and countries to which Canada accords preferential tariff treatment were down nearly 17 per cent in September but were higher than a year ago in the January-September period. Imports from these countries were off both in the month and in the nine-month period.

Sales to all other countries were also down, but purchases from them rose.

WORK NEEDED

Look Into Sewers Shows Split Pipe

By RON SUDLOW

Oak Bay works committee Monday night looked at part of the municipality's sewer system and the result wasn't pleasing.

Council was shown pictures taken from a closed-circuit television screen.

The video survey is part of the area-wide sewer study in which Oak Bay is participating.

"It looks like somebody's gall bladder," one council member said. "I don't think it will ever replace the Bob Hope Show."

"It shows we've been just getting by with substandard maintenance," said municipal engineer and planner Geoffrey White.

He was referring to video photos of sections of the main Uplands sewer system.

Pictures showed poorly-joined sections, cracks in the concrete pipe and tree roots growing in the sewers.

Mr. White told the committee more money for sewer maintenance will be needed in future years.

He said preliminary pictures were worse than those he had seen of city and Esquimalt sewer mains.

Committee also learned a partial blockage in the 3500 block Beach Drive caused water to flow through a home at 3575 Beach.

Cause was a combination of tree roots in the sewer and a heavy rainfall Nov. 19.

The water did extensive damage to wall-to-wall carpeting and to basement ceilfng and furniture.

BOOTLEG BUILDING

The municipal adjuster has not completed his report but damage is believed to be "a thousand dollars or more."

A lot of flooding sorrow is caused by "bootleg building in the basement" (building without a permit,) said Coun. William Wade.

Cedar Hill Cross Rd. To Get More Lights

Oak Bay works committee Monday night agreed to give Cedar Hill Cross Road top priority in the 1966 lighting budget.

The area between Henderson and Crestview was termed a "dark and miserable stretch" by Coun. Douglas Watts.

Coun. Mrs. Frances Elford noted poor lighting in the area causes a hazard to pedestrians from University of Victoria.

Committee also agreed to switch Monterey Avenue from Oak Bay Avenue to McNeill Avenue from resurfacing to rebuilding program.

The road surface will be maintained by patching until funds are available to rebuild the stretch.

The municipality's new public works yard will be open for public inspection Wednesday and Thursday between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m.

The yard, at the foot of Elgin Street, was started in 1964 and completed this year. It cost $135,000.

Traffic committee agreed to change tourist route indicators from yellow lines to yellow dots.

The idea was proposed at an earlier meeting of area municipal engineers and the chamber of commerce.

"Yellow lines confuse American visitors because they are now used on the sides of our highways," commented Coun. Bill Wade.

Committee also agreed to exchange traffic signal controllers with the city and install one which provides advance and extended green lights for Foul Bay and Oak Bay intersection.

Windsor Park Pavilion May Cost Too Much

An elaborate pavilion proposed for Windsor Park may be too expensive, Oak Bay parks committee found out Monday evening.

But municipal planner and engineer Geoffrey White was given permission to prepare preliminary sketches and estimates.

He will travel to Vancouver tonight to view three park pavilions.

The proposed concrete block stucture would have two storeys providing 4,400 square feet of floor area.

Cost is estimated at $10 per square foot or $44,000.

Entire parks budget for this year is only $20,000, committee was told.

Plans were prepared Thursday night at a meeting of Oak Bay Recreation Commission and representatives of various sporting groups.

Plans included provision for a resident caretaker.

The building would provide four dressing rooms, two shower rooms, meeting room, cloak room, referee's room, drying room and two storage rooms.

The equipment-meeting room would have seating for 60 persons and include a movable stage.

Committee also:

Agreed to trim rather than chop an oak tree at the home of Miss Jean Smith, 524 Victoria Avenue;

Decided to remove two oaks outside 1250 Newport Ave. as the root stucture had become damaged by blasting, and

Voted to request Oak Bay Marina to prepare a plan to screen off its marine ways.

FRAUD CHARGED

Played Agent's Role, Accused Tells Court

One of two men charged in Victoria County Court Monday with defrauding the Royal Canadian Navy denied selling a photographic enlarger for his own benefit.

Charles Whyte, former civilian employee with the photographic section at HMCS Naden, said he borrowed the enlarger from Saanich police.

Mr. Whyte said he thought the photographic section might have some use for the enlarger, but they found it unsuitable.

He then loaned it to J. A. McVie, a section head in the supply department at HMC Dockyard.

Mr. McVie also found the enlarger unsuitable.

"If he had wanted the enlarger, he would have bought it from me and I would have bought it from Saanich police," Mr. Whyte testified.

He said he was never more than an agent between Saanich police and anyone who wished to buy the enlarger.

The enlarger, valued at about $75, is now entered as an exhibit — one of 102 exhibits — in the three-week-old trial of Charles Whyte of Sidney and Lieut. Eric Haywood, former head of the photographic section at HMCS Naden.

Both men have pleaded not guilty to acquiring photographic equipment for their own use at the expense of the navy.

FIFTH CHARGE

Specific charges against the accused include four counts of fraud, involving a total of more than $550, and a fifth charge of theft of more than $50 in photographic supplies.

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy called 37 witnesses, including navy officers from HMCS Naden, navy officials from Ottawa, RCMP and Saanich police officers, civilian dockyard personnel and representatives of Victoria photographic supply firms.

Much of the Crown evidence hinges around the navy's intricate accounting system.

Mr. Whyte is represented by W. E. Whitley and Lieut. Haywood by Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre. The case is being heard by Judge Montague Drake.

Divorces were granted in Victoria Law Courts Monday to:

Hellyer Beats Target Date On Forces Cut

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer has attained his goal — 10 months ahead of schedule — of reducing the strength of the armed forces to 110,000 and thus achieving annual administrative savings designed to reach $100,000,000 by 1970.

Authorities said Monday the forces officially numbered 110,180 at Oct. 31, last date for which figures are available, but that this number included at least 180 personnel on retirement leave.

The goal of 110,000 was set for August, 1966, two years after integration of the armed forces' top command structure went into effect. Strength of the services is expected to sag to some 107,000 early next year but then gradually rise again to about 110,000 where it will presumably level off.

RECRUITING DIFFICULT

However, with the economy booming, recruiting for the armed forces is difficult.

Lt.-Gen. Frank Fleury, comptroller - general at Canadian forces Headquarters, said last month that recruiting had been "very poor" in the previous six or seven months.

Recruits numbered 8,237 in the same period in 1964, a drop of 747.

The navy with 19,130 men, the army with 44,840 and the RCAF with 46,210 now are at their lowest numerical strength in 12 years. At March 31, 1954, less than a year after the Korean war ended, the forces numbered 112,529.

When Mr. Hellyer took over the defence portfolio in 1963, the forces stood at 123,270. When integration took effect in August, 1964, they were at 118,823.

13,000 LOPPED

In lopping the names of more than 13,000 men from the military rolls, Mr. Hellyer compulsorily retired about 2,500. The reduction was mainly achieved through normal retirements, slowing down recruiting temporarily and abolishing many adminstrative posts.

Officials said strength of the combat forces has not been greatly affected by the reduction in personnel. The cut was meant to apply among administrative people.

However, they added, some weaknesses still remain to be corrected. The navy is still short of technicians at sea, the army could use more infantrymen and many RCAF pilots are being lured back to civvy street by attractive commercial flying jobs.

VIOLINIST Yehudi Menuhin was honored today by Queen Elizabeth who made him an honorary knight commander of the Order of the British Empire (MBE). Although a U.S. citizen, Menuhin now lives in Britain and has taken a leading part in the founding of the Bath Musical Festival.

SAYS TV ROAD REPORT SLANTED

Bennett Furious Over Story

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

The CBC Monday night denied an angry charge by Premier Bennett that it tried to slant a news report to leave an impression that the federal government contributed to construction of the Deas Freeway.

In a stunning outburst of temper, the premier rushed up to press gallery reporters on his way to a cabinet meeting and furiously denounced the CBC as a "political bureau of the federal Liberal government."

Reporters could barely keep up with the stream of angry statements from Mr. Bennett who, all the while, kept pushing away or turning his back on a CBC reporter attempting to explain a Sunday night newscast of a ceremony at the Blaine, Wash., Peace Arch.

The premier took objection to a statement in the television newscast that said:

"After the ceremony many Canadians drove south on the new super highway recently completed and linked with the Canadian federal and B.C. government system of freeways throughout B.C."

The CBC maintains the statement was merely a general reference to the B.C. road system including the federally-assisted Trans-Canada Highway.

"That's completely false," the premier said of the newscast.

"I believe the CBC is the political bureau of the federal Liberal government.

HIGHWAY LINK

"While the U.S. federal government paid 90 per cent of the highway in Washington State, the Canadian federal government paid nothing for the highway it links to in B.C. but Ottawa collected sales tax on it."

The premier said he was so angered by the newscast that "for the first time in my life I phoned in to demand a correction of a news report."

He said he spoke to the newscaster and demanded that the impression be corrected even if it required interrupting a sportscast that was in progress by then.

"He said he hadn't the power to change it. . . That proves political control.

"I asked them to do it forthwith but they didn't do it.

"I want to say to the people of this province that the premier of B.C. believes the CBC is nothing but the political arm of the federal government."

Reporters, who were confused at first whether the premier was joshing or in dead earnest, had no time to ask questions when the outburst ended. The premier immediately strode through the cabinet dor and slammed it behind him.

He said he will leave Dec. 11 on the Empress of Canada. It will make only three stops on the cruise—Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Jamaica.

Recording Bet Charge Dismissed

A man accused of recording bets was acquitted of the charge Monday in central court.

Magistrate William Ostler said the Crown failed to establish even a prima facie case against James Spencer, 1723 Denman.

Key to the dismissal was that Spencer was alleged to have recorded bets "on July 16." To establish this the Crown introduced pieces of paper found at Spencer's home in a police raid July 16.

Detective Constable Lorne Shandley testified that in his opinion notes on the papers were records of bets. But under cross-examination by defence counsel Dermod Owen-Flood, he agreed that these bets could refer to races held on any day, in any year and in any place.

Mr. Owen-Flood argued there was no evidence that Spencer registered bets on July 16, there was no evidence of who made the notes on the papers in his home and there was not even admissible evidence that on that day a race was being held.

Crown Prosecutor Peter Birkett tried to have the charge amended to read that Spencer recorded bets "on or about July 16" but Mr. Owen-Flood opposed the amendment and Magistrate William Ostler refused to allow it.

The magistrate asked "If the Crown wanted to say 'on or about' why didn't it say so in the first place?"

The magistrate said it was up to the Crown to prove that Spencer recorded bets on the date alleged and it "failed entirely" to do this.

INGENUITY

In summing up, the magistrate congratulated police on the "commendable ingenuity" they showed in making the raid on the Spencer residence.

Detective-Constable Cliff Harrison gave evidence that he drove up in a truck and went up to the front door of Spencer's house carrying a parcel.

When the door was opened by the accused the policeman reached into the box, pulled out a search warrant and handed it to Spencer.

Det. Cons. Harrison said Spencer told him, once they were inside the house, "You fellows are getting too smart for me: coming up here in that truck. You sure fooled me. I thought it was something that my wife had ordered."

While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks

While shepherds watched their flocks by night,
All seated on the ground,
The Angel of the Lord came down,
And glory shone around.

"Fear not," said he, for mighty dread
Had seized their troubled mind;
"Glad tidings of great joy I bring
To you and all mankind.

"To you, in David's town, this day
Is born of David's line
A Saviour, who is Christ the Lord;
And this shall be the sign.

"The heavenly Babe you there shall find
To human view displayed,
All meanly wrapped in swathing bands,
And in a manger laid."

Thus spake the seraph; and forthwith
Appeared a shining throng
Of angels, praising God, who thus Addressed their joyful song:
"All glory be to God on high,
And to the earth be peace:
Goodwill henceforth, from heaven to men
Begin and never cease."

—19—

It Came Upon The Midnight Clear

It came upon the midnight clear,
That glorious song of old,
From angels bending near the earth
To touch their harps of gold:
"Peace on the earth, goodwill to men
From heaven's all gracious King."
The world in solemn silence lay
To hear the angels sing.
Still through the cloven skies they come
With peaceful wings unfurled;
And still their heavenly music floats
O'er all the weary world:
Above its sad and lonely plains
They bend on hovering wing,
And ever o'er its Babel-sounds
The blessed angels sing.

Yet with the woes of sin and strife
The world has suffered long;
Beneath the angel-strain have rolled
Two thousand years of wrong;
And men, at war with men, hear not
The words of peace they bring:
O hush the noise, ye men of strife,
And hear the angels sing.

And ye, beneath life's crushing load,
Whose forms are bending low,
Who toil along the arduous way
With painful steps and slow:
Look now, for glad and joyous hours
God's messengers will bring:
O rest beside the weary road
And hear the angels sing.

For lo! The days are hastening on
By prophet-bards foretold,
When with the ever circling years
Comes around the age of gold;
When peace shall over all the earth
Its ancient splendors fling,
And the whole world send back the song
Which now the angels sing.

O Come, All Ye Faithful

O come all ye faithful,
Joyful and triumphant,
Come ye, O come ye to Bethlehem;
Come and behold Him,
Born the King of Angels;

Refrain

O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
Christ the Lord.

True God of true God,
Light of light eternal,
Lo, He abhors not the Virgin's womb,
Son of the Father,
Begotten, not created.

Sing choirs of angels,
Sing in exultation,
Sing, all ye citizens of heaven above,
Sing, ye, all glory
To God in the highest!

Yea, Lord we hail Thee,
Born this happy morning;
Jesus, to Thee be glory given,
Word of the Father,
Now in flesh appearing.

Hark, The Herald Angels Sing

Hark! The herald angels sing,
"Glory to the newborn King,
Peace on earth and mercy mild,
God and sinners reconciled."
Joyful, all ye nations rise,
Join the triumph of the skies;
With angelic hosts proclaim,
"Christ is born in Bethlehem."

Refrain

Hark! The herald angels sing,
"Glory to the newborn King."

Christ, by highest heaven adored,
Christ, the everlasting Lord;
Late in time behold Him come,
Offspring of a Virgin's womb.
Veiled in flesh the Godhead see;
Hail the incarnate Deity.
Pleased as man with man to dwell,
Jesus, our Emmanuel.

Hail the heaven-born Prince of Peace,
Hail the Sun of Righteousness.
Light and life to all He brings,
Risen with healing in His wings.
Mild He lays His glory by,
Born that man no more may die,
Born to raise the sons of earth,
Born to give them second birth.

Angels From The Realms of Glory

Angels from the realms of glory,
Wing your flight o'er all the earth;
Ye who sang creation's story
Now proclaim Messiah's birth;
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

Shepherds in the field abiding,
Watching o'er your flocks by night,
God with man is now residing,
Yonder shines the infant light;
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

Sages, leave your contemplations,
Brighter visions beam afar;
Seek the great desire of nations,
Ye have seen His natal star:
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

Saints before the altar bending,
Watching long in hope and fear,
Suddenly the Lord descending,
In His temple shall appear:
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

Silent Night

Silent night! Holy night!
All is calm, all is bright;
Round yon virgin mother and child
Holy Infant so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace,
Sleep in heavenly peace.

Silent night! Holy night!
Shepherds quake at the sight!
Glories stream from heaven afar,
Heavenly hosts sing Alleluia.
Christ, the Saviour is born!
Christ, the Saviour is born!

Silent night! Holy night!
Son of God, love's pure light
Radiant beams from Thy holy face,
With the dawn of redeeming grace,
Jesus, Lord at Thy birth,
Jesus, Lord at Thy birth.

The First Nowel

The first Nowel the angels did say,
Was to certain poor shepherds in fields as they lay;
In fields where they lay keeping their sheep,
On a cold winter's night, that was so deep.

Refrain:
Nowel, Nowel, Nowel, Nowel,
Born is the King of Israel.

They looked up and saw a star
Shining in the East beyond them far,
And to the earth it gave great light,
And so it continued both day and night.

And by the light of that same star
Three wise men came from country far;
To seek for a King was their intent,
And to follow the star wherever it went.

This star drew nigh to the northwest,
O'er Bethlehem it took its rest,
And there it did both stop and stay
Right over the place where Jesus lay.

Then entered in those wise men three
Full reverently upon their knee,
And offered there in his presence
Their gold and myrrh and frankincense.

Then let us all with one accord
Sing praises to our heavenly Lord;
That hath made heaven and earth of nought,
And with His blood mankind hath bought.

Adeste Fidelis

(Latin Text—English, No. 20)

Adeste, fideles,
Laeti, triumphantes;
Venite, venite in Bethlehem;
Natum videte
Regum angelorum.

Refrain

Venite adoremus, venite adoremus.
Venite adoremus Dominum.
Deum de Deo,
Lumen de lumine
Gestant puellae viscera:
Deum verum,
Genitum non factum.
Centet nunc Io
Chorus angelorum,
Cantet nunc aula coclestium;
Gloria!
In excelsis Deo!
Ergo qui natus
Die hodierna.
Jesus, tibi sit gloria;
Patris aeterni,
Verbum caro factum.

Away In A Manger

Away in a manger, no crib for a bed,
The little Lord Jesus laid down his sweet head;
The stars in the bright sky looked down where He lay,
The little Lord Jesus, asleep on the hay.

The cattle are lowing, the Baby awakes,
But little Lord Jesus no crying He makes;
I love Thee, Lord Jesus; look down from the sky,
And stay by my side until morning is nigh.

Be near me, Lord Jesus, I ask Thee to stay
Close by me forever and love me, I pray;
Bless all the dear children in Thy tender care,
And fit us for heaven to live with Thee there.

O Little Town Of Bethlehem

O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie,
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting light,
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

For Christ is born of Mary;
And, gather'd all above
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wandering love.
O morning stars, together
Proclaim the holy birth
And praises sing of God the King,
And peace to men on earth.

How silently, how silently
The wondrous gift is given,
So God imparts to human hearts
The blessings of His heaven.
No ear may hear His coming,
But in this world of sin,
Where meek souls will receive him still
The dear Christ enters in.

O Holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin and enter in;
Be born in us today.
We hear the Christmas angels
The great glad tidings tell;
O come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord, Emmanuel.

Christians, Awake!

Christians, awake, salute the happy morn
Whereon the Saviour of the world was born;
Rise to adore the mystery of love,
Which hosts of angels chanted from above:
With them the joyful tidings first begun.
Of God incarnate and the Virgin's Son.

Then to the watchful shepherds it was told,
Who heard the angelic herald's voice, "Behold,
"I bring good tidings of a Saviour's birth!
"To you and all the nations upon the earth!
"This day hath God fulfill'd His promised word;
"This day is born a Saviour, Christ the Lord."

To Bethl'hem straight the enlightened shepherds ran,
To see the wonders God had wrought for man;
Then to their flocks, still praising God, return,
And their glad hearts with holy rapture burn;
To all the joyful tidings they proclaim—
The first apostles of the Saviour's name.

Oh, may we keep and ponder in our mind
God's wondrous love in saving lost mankind;
Trace we the Babe, who has retrieved our loss,
From the poor manger to the bitter cross:
Tread in His steps, assisted by His grace,
Till man's first heavenly state again takes place.
Then may we hope the angelic hosts among.
To join, redeemed, a glad, triumphant throng;
He that was born upon this joyful day
Around us all his glory shall display.
Saved by His love, incessant we shall sing
Eternal praise to heaven's almighty King.

Brightest And Best

Brightest and best of the sons of the morning,
Dawn on our darkness and lend us Thine aid!
Star of the East, horizon adorning,
Guide where our infant Redeemer is laid.

Cold on His cradle the dewdrops are shining,
Low lies His head with the beasts of the stall:
Angels adore Him in slumber reclining—
Maker and Monarch and Saviour of all!

Say, shall we yield Him, in costly devotion
Odors of Edom and offerings divine?
Gems of the mountains and pearls of the ocean,
Myrrh from the forest and gold from the mine?

Vainly we offer each ample oblation,
Vainly with gifts would his favor secure
Richer by far is the heart's adoration;
Dearer to God are the prayers of the poor.

Brightest and best of the sons of the morning,
Dawn on our darkness and lend us Thine aid!
Star of the East, the horizon adorning,
Guide where our infant Redeemer is laid!

We Three Kings

We three kings of Orient are Bearing gifts; we traverse afar
Field and fountain, moor and mountain
Following yonder star.

Refrain

O star of wonder; star of night,
Star with royal beauty bright,
Westward leading, still proceeding,
Guide us to the perfect light.

Solo (Melchior)

Born a King of Bethlehem's plain,
Gold I bring to crown Him again,
King forever, ceasing never,
Over us all to reign.

Solo (Casper)

Frankincense to offer have I,
Incense owns a Deity nigh;
Prayer and Praising, all men raising,
Worship Him, God most high.

Solo (Balthazar)

Myrrh is mine; its bitter perfume
Breathes a life of gathering gloom;
Sorrowing, sighing, bleeding, dying,
Sealed in the stone-cold tomb.

Glorious now behold Him arise,
King and God and Sacrifice;
Alleluia, alleluia,
Earth to heaven replies.

—10—

Infant Holy

Infant holy, infant lowly,
For His bed, a cattle stall;
Oxen lowing, little knowing
Christ the Babe is Lord of all.
Swift are winging, angels singing,
Nowels ringing, tidings bringing,
Christ the Babe is Lord of all.

Flocks were sleeping, shepherds keeping
Vigil till the morning new
Saw the glory, heard the story,
Tidings of a gospel true.
Thus rejoicing, free from sorrow,
Praises voicing, greet the morrow,
Christ the Babe is Lord of all.

—11—

God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen

God rest you merry, gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay,
Remember Christ your Saviour
Was born upon this day,
To save us all from Satan's power
When we were gone astray.

Refrain:

O tidings of comfort and joy, comfort and joy,
O tidings of comfort and joy.

In Bethlehem, in Jewry,
This blessed Babe was born,
And laid within a manger
Upon this blessed morn;
The which His mother Mary
Did nothing take in scorn.

From God our Heav'nly Father,
A blessed angel came,
And unto certain shepherds
Brought tidings of the same;
How that in Bethlehem was born
The Son of God by name.

"Fear not then," said the angel,
"Let nothing you affright,
This day is born a Saviour
Of a pure Virgin bright,
To free all those who trust in Him,
From Satan's power and might."

The shepherds, at those tidings,
Rejoiced much in mind,
And left their flocks a-feeding
In tempest, storm and wind:
And went to Bethlehem straightway
The Son of God to find.

And when they came to Bethlehem,
Where our dear Saviour lay,
They found Him in a manger,
Where oxen feed on hay;
His mother, Mary, kneeling down,
Unto the Lord did pray.

Now to the Lord sing praises,
All you within this place,
And with true love and brotherhood
Each other now embrace;
This holy tide of Christmas
All other doth efface.

White Christmas

I'm dreaming of a white Christmas
Just like the ones I used to know
Where the tree tops glisten
And children listen to hear sleigh bells in the snow.

I'm dreaming of a white Christmas
With ev'ry Christmas card I write
"May your days be merry and bright
And may all your Christmases be white."

Jingle Bells

Dashing thro' the snow,
In a one-horse open sleigh;
O'er the fields we go,
Laughing all the way;
Bells on bobtail ring,
Making spirits bright;
What fun it is to ride and sing a sleighing song tonight!

Chorus:

Jingle bells, jingle bells,
Jingle all the way!
Oh, what fun it is to ride,
In a one-horse open sleigh!

A day or two ago,
I thought I'd take a ride;
And soon Miss Fannie Bright was seated by my side;
The horse was lean and lank,
Misfortune seem'd his lot,
He got into a drifted bank and then we got upsot!

Now the ground is white,
Go it while you're young;
Take the girls tonight
And sing this sleighing song;
Just get a bobtail'd nag,
Two-forty for his speed,
Then hitch him to an open sleigh and crack! you'll take the lead.

Good King Wenceslas

Good King Wenceslas looked out
On the Feast of Stephen.
When the snow lay round about,
Deep and crisp and even;
Brightly shone the moon that night,
Tho' the frost was cruel,
When a poor man came in sight,
Gath'ring winter fuel.

"Hither, page and stand by me,
If you know'st it, telling,
Yonder peasant, who is he?
Where and what his dwelling?"
"Sire, he lives a good league hence,
Underneath the mountain;
Right against the forest fence,
By St. Agnes' fountain."

"Bring me flesh and bring me wine,
Bring me pine logs hither:
Thou and I will see him dine,
When we bear him thither."
Page and monarch forth they went,
Forth they went together,
Through the rude wind's wild lament,
And the bitter weather.

"Sir, the night is darker now,
And the wind blows stronger;
Fails my heart, I know not how,
I can go no longer."
"Mark my footsteps, good my page;
Tread thou in them boldly;
Thou shalt find the winter's rage
Freeze thy blood less coldly."

A Visit From St. Nicholas

(Tune—Chopsticks)

(1st Strain)

Twas the night before Christmas, and all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care
In the hope that St. Nicholas soon would be there.

(2nd Strain)

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter
When what to my wondering eyes should appear
But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer.

With a little old driver so lively and quick
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick,
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came
And he whistled and shouted and called them by name.

"Now Dasher! Now Dancer! Now Prancer and Vixen!
On, Comet! On Cupid! On Donner and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch, to the top of the wall,
Now dash away, dash away, dash away all!"

And then in a twinkling I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head and was turning around
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.

His eyes how they twinkled! His dimples how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry.
He was chubby and plump—a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him in spite of myself.

He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work
And filled all the stockings, then turned with a jerk,
And laying a finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.

He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle.
But I heard him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight:
"Happy Christmas to all, and to all a good-night."

Here We Come A-Wassailing

Here we come a-wassailing among the leaves so green;
Here we come a-wandering, so fair to be seen.

Refrain

Love and joy come to you and to you our wassail, too,
And God bless you and send you a Happy New Year!

We are not daily beggars that beg from door to door;
But we are neighbor's children whom you have seen before.

We have little purses made of matching leather skin;
We want a little sixpence to line it Well within.

God bless the master of this house, likewise the mistress, too!
And all the little children that round the table go.

Santa Claus Is Coming To Town

Oh, you'd better not pout,
Better not shout,
Better not cry,
I'm telling you why,
Santa Claus is coming to town.

He's making a list,
Checking it twice,
Going to find out
Who's naughty or nice,
Santa Claus is coming to town.

He sees you when you're sleeping,
He knows if you're awake,
He knows is you've been bad or good,
So be good—for goodness sake!

Oh, you'd better watch out,
Better not pout,
Better not cry,
I'm telling you why,
Santa Claus is coming to town.

THEME OF SKATE SHOW

Around the World on Ice

Ice Capades 1966 will take Victoria audiences on a 2½-hour tour around the world when the show opens Dec. 15 at Memorial Arena.

Seven production numbers will feature romantic places — Paris, in 1890 with When Paris Was Young — Japan, for the tale of a Japanese princess and her prince in The Night of the Thirteenth Moon — Spain, romanticized to the driving music of Ravel's Bolero — and New York with visits to the World's Fair and Broadway in New York's Got It.

Comedy routines, specialty acts and solo performances will be included in the program.

County Fair, designed especially for the children, will feature a skating cow, skating chickens and "prize-winning vegetables."

The show's opener, All of Us, features original music and score by Hollywood composer Gordon Jenkins.

The show of champions features a dazzling array of stars: Olympic bronze medallist Guy Revell and his partner, Canadian champion Gertrude Desjardins; junior European champion, Brigitte; adagio artists, Jeanne and Dick Maxfield; Norwegian champion, Per Larsen; German champion, Inge Paul; Boston's Ann Christy; Swedish champion, Gisela Head, and Canada's Bill Neale.

Last year's was the last of the John Harris-produced Ice Capades. The producer of the 1966 show is Sid Smith of New York. Mr. Smith directed several ice shows for television before joining Ice Capades.

The producer was chosen by the three U.S. television networks to produce and direct the first international telecast via the Telstar satellite.

He also produced the Elizabeth Taylor Special from London. He was a nominee for television's Emmy award.

Tickets are now available for the five performances at Memorial Arena and Eaton's.

Rolling Stones Won't Stop

VANCOUVER (UPI) The Rolling Stones won't gather much moss during a visit to the evergreen playground Wednesday night.

Their schedule calls for them to be in Vancouver exactly one hour, says promoter Howie Bateman.

After arrivnig from Phoenix by private plane, at an unrevealed location, and an undisclosed time, they will be rushed by helicopter or car to the Vancouver Agrodome.

Cleverly disguised, the plan is to secretly usher them into the building where 5,500 rock-and-roll fans have paid $20,000 to hear the English quintet (the show has been sold out for weeks).

After caterwauling for 20 minutes, at $1,000 a minute, the group again will be spirited to their waiting helicopter.

Museum Finds Birds

TORONTO (CP) — The Royal Ontario Museum announced Monday it has been successful in an eight-year search to purchase specimens of two long-extinct birds — the great auk and the Labrador duck. The museum collected more than $11,000 in public contributions and the specimens were purchased from Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y. Even specimens of the birds are rare, museum officials said. The last great auk was seen off the coast of Iceland in 1844. The Labrador duck has been extinct since 1875.

Vatican Compromises Over Birth Control

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Experts revising the Vatican ecumenical council's draft statement on birth control have produced a compromise version following suggestions by Pope Paul that the council should specifically recall traditional papal bans on contraception. The statement backs the idea of "responsible pareuthood" but says Roman Catholic couples must follow conscience and not use methods forbidden by the church.

Pope Paul set up a special commission to study possible changes in church rules against contraception and whether, for example, birth control pills can be permitted for Roman Catholic couples. The commission has not yet reached a conclusion.

The Pope, meanwhile, suggested changes in the ecumenical council's interim statement that would stress the continuity of church teaching.

Usually well-informed council sources said Saturday the commission handling the draft decree held long talks to produce a text which would follow the Pope's suggestion without giving the impression of closing the door to future developments such as possible approval of the pill.

CALGARY STAMPEDERS PLACE FIVE . . .

. . . DICK FOUTS SOLE LION ABOARD

Six Tiger-Cats Named to All-Canada All-Stars

TORONTO (CP) — Six members of the Grey Cup champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats, five from Ticats' great defensive unit, were named today to the 1965 all - Canada all - star football team.

The 38 selectors of the Football Reporters of Canada also named five Calgary Stampeders to the team. Ottawa Rough Riders and Saskatchewan Roughriders each won four spots, Winnipeg Blue Bombers three and Edmonton Eskimos and B.C. Lions one each.

Only Montreal Alouettes and Toronto Argonauts, also rans in the four-team Eastern Conference, failed to place a player on the 1965 team.

Western Conference clubs snared nine of the 12 offensive positions, headed by fullback George Reed, the only unanimous selection.

The EFC held a 7-5 edge on the defensive team, thanks to the power in this department displayed all season by Tiger-Cats and again last Saturday in their 22-16 Grey Cup victory over Blue Bombers at Toronto.

THE OFFENSIVE TEAM
Half—George Reed, Saskatchewan.
Half—Lovell Coleman, Calgary.
Half—Bo Scott, Ottawa.
Flanker—Hugh Campbell, Saskatchewan.
Quarter—Kenny Ploen, Winnipeg.
Centre—Ted Urness, Saskatchewan.
Guard—Al Benecick, Saskatchewan.
Guard—Tony Pajaczkowski, Calgary.
Tackle—Bronco Nagurski, Hamilton.
Tackle—Frank Rigney, Calgary.
End—Tommy Joe Coffey, Edmonton.
End—Ted Watkins, Ottawa.

THE DEFENSIVE TEAM
Half—Garney Henley, Hamilton.
Half—Billy Wayte, Hamilton.
Half—Dick Thornton, Winnipeg
Half—Jerry Keeling, Calgary.
Half—Gene Gaines, Ottawa.
Interior linebacker—W. Harris, Calgary.
Corner linebacker—Zeno Karcz, Hamilton.
Corner linebacker—K. Lehmann, Ottawa.
Tackle—John Barrow, Hamilton.
Tackle—Pat Holmes, Calgary.
End—Billy Ray Locklin, Hamilton.
End—Dick Fouts, B.C. Lions.

Reed's unanimous choice completed an outstanding season for the former Washington State star. He rushed for 1,768 yards in the regular season—the second player in Canadian Football League history to gain more than a mile rushing in one season — and set a one-game WFC rushing record of 268 yards.

GEORGE REED
. . . unanimous choice

His performance, despite injuries which sidelined other Roughrider runners who normally share the rushing load with him, earned him a unanimous selection as a WFC all-star, the WFC's most valuable player award and Canada's outstanding player of the year award.

Three players appeared on 36 of the 38 ballots. They were fullback Lovell Coleman of Calgary, Canada's outstanding player in 1964; defensive tackle John Barrow of Hamilton, an all-star in each of his nine seasons with Tiger Cats and named the oustanding player in Saturday's Grey Cup battle; and Garney Henley, another member of the vaunted Hamilton defence who was named the EFC's outstanding player this season.

Several others got more than 30 votes, though like Barrow, some were named to more than one position. Hugh Campbell and Al Benecick, both of Saskatchewan, were run-away winners as flanker and offensive tackle; Wayne Harris of Calgary and Ken Lehmann of Ottawa were easily the pick among linebackers; while Tommy Joe Coffey of Edmonton was named on all but three ballots to one of the end positions on the offensive unit.

Tony Pajaczkowski of Calgary, like Barrow the only player named to each all-Canada squad since voting for this honor began in 1962, was the only player who made the team despite missing all-star honors in his own conference.

KENNY PLOEN
. . . at quarterback

He was beaten out by Herb Gray, Winnipeg's great lineman, for the second guard spot on the 1965 WFC team. In the all-Canada voting he reversed the record.

Pajaczkowski joined Zeno Karcz of Hamilton and Ted Urness of Saskatchewan as the only native-born players named to the all-Canada team. It was the first appearance on the squad for Urness and Karcz, the quiet Hamilton corner linebacker who was voted the top Canadian - born player in the CFL this year.

One WFC player, who this year played out his option and is expected to join an American club for the 1966 season, was named to the team.

He is the huge but agile Pat Holmes, second to Barrow in the voting among defensive tackles.

Quarterback Kenny Ploen, given much of the credit for guiding Blue Bombers to the Grey Cup final after a dismal 1964 season when Bombers could win but one game, snapped a two-year [illegible] by Joe Kapp of B. C. Lions as Canada's top quarterback. Kapp failed to get a vote this year.

Halfback Bo Scott and end Ted Watkins, both of Ottawa, joined Reed, Campbell, Urness and Ploen as the six offensive players appearing on their first all-Canada team.

Coleman and Coffey, long terrors in the WFC, each made their third team, while tackles Bronco Nagurski of Hamilton and Frank Rigney of Winnipeg, Grey Cup opponents this year, were named for the second time.

Hal Malone
LOOKS AT SPORTS

That was certainly tasty crow Jim Coleman and y'r operator ate on the weekend. The main course followed our selection, in a moment of extreme giddiness, of Winnipeg to prevail in the Grey Goblet warfare by three points.

JOE ZUGER

Our joint operation "Hot Air" spread all the way to Toronto. Gusts of up to 50 miles per hour were recorded during the game on the anemometer. After Hamilton pricked our bubble, expelling more wind, the guests hit at least 100 mph.

So much for foresight. Now for a little hindsight and, ahem, incisive analysis.

The contest was not won by Hamilton due to the gale forces or mad Mother Nature. As Winnipeg's Harry Peter Grant said, "The wind doesn't score touchdowns."

Nor were the Tiger-Cats triumphant because of what Jack Sullivan, sports editor of Canadian Press, laughingly referred to as "voluntary contributions to the Hamilton cause."

Sullivan post-mortemed that Winnipeg's tombstone merits the inscription: "They gave up three safety touches . . . and lost by six points. Serves them right. RIP."

This "fact of football logic was apparent to all," Sullivan says. Well, not quite all, Jack. This agent doesn't buy that sheep-dip.

For one thing, Sully, old boy, you're knocking the strategy of Canada's coach-of-the-year when you suggest that giving Hamilton six digits was better than trying to kick into the teeth of a storm.

Punts this day were not travelling much farther than Hamilton's Angelo Mosca can throw people. Had Winnipeg kicked instead of conceding, Hamilton might easily have scored 21 points or at least a cumulative nine points on field goals by the sure-footed Don Sutherin.

What Grant's cerebellum devised was a means of controlling the ball. You can't score touchdowns when the other guy has his paws on it.

Passing With the Breeze Dangerous

The play that wrapped its fingers around Winnipeg gullets occurred in the opening minutes of the third quarter. Oddly enough, it was a call that Ralph Sazio, the Hamilton resident genius, had specifically instructed quarterback Joe Zuger NOT to use.

Fifteen yards inside his own territory, Zuger elected a long pass.

Everybody knows it's more difficult and chancy to throw with the wind than against it.

If you get the ball up too high, it might take off and land in North Bay. If you keep the trajectory low, one of those walking mountains playing defence can intercept it and you're dead.

An experienced quarterback like Bernie Faloney probably would never have attempted it. But Zuger sent Willie Bethea deep down the sideline and hung the ball up there.

The Winnipeg defender, No. 54, let Bethea get behind him, presumably on the grounds that nobody in his right mind was going to go deep for a pass with a tornado blowing.

When the ball came down, Bethea, who had clearly outraced his man, had to lunge to make the catch. The race to the goal-line was anticlimactic. Great pass, great catch. But predesigned strategy? No.

Much has been said about the terrorizing tactics of the Hamilton defence, notably the work of John Barrow. There is no disagreement here with their masochistic tendencies. They do not stop you; they pulverize you.

What Was Karcz Doing In That Spot?

But turn the clock to the last quarter. One minute 14 seconds left. Winnipeg has the ball, third down, in Hamilton territory.

Ploen drops back in the cup, looks downfield. Wary of the long pass, the deep backs drop off. The middle is vacant. But wait.

Leo Lewis cuts across and Ploen spots him and rifles the ball. One second it's headed for Lewis' lap and with nobody near . . . But what's this? Zeno Karcz comes roving into the picture. Sticks out a long arm and bats the ball down. Winnipeg gives up the ghost.

Tremendous defensive manoeuvre? Certainly. But as Annis McStukus, the television voice, said: "I don't know honestly what Karcz was doing inside. He's supposed to be covering the outside."

Surprisingly, none of the battalion of CBC interviewers asked Grant about his second-half choice-of-ends decision. If he had taken the wind in the third quarter, Winnipeg, riding the crest of its second-quarter momentum, would almost assuredly have widened its lead.

That would have put the pressure on Hamilton. They would have had 15 minutes, all uphill.

History shows that Hamilton was fond of fumbling. Even without the pressure of advancing the ball in the last quarter they fumbled six times. Grant inadvertently deprived them of exceeding this record.

Twenty-four hours later another football classic was fought with as much zest, emotion and zing.

St. Louis College won the western mud bowl, otherwise known as the Norm Fieldgate Bantam Football League hardware, by outgunning Gordon Head Chargers on the slippery slopes of Macdonald Park.

There were no stands, no program hawkers, no majorettes tempting pneumonia by prancing in goose pimples.

Just head-busting, belly-down-and-go football.

Finesse? More than you would expect. The St. Louisans even use audibles—prolonged counts at the line to change the play in the light of "reading" the Gordon Head defence.

Lapping it all up were scouts from older teams. Only one team was unrepresented. B.C. Lions.

Whatever became of them, anyway?

GETTING A-HEAD IN THE GAME

There's no doubt about it, nine-year-old Sarah Lindsay has a head for soccer. After two years of lobbying she broke male monopoly on juvenile soccer in West Vancouver. She plays various positions and is more than adequate in each. But she had to give up Brownies to keep in training.

SARAH'S LIVING PROOF

Soccer Is for Girls—

WEST VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP) — Brown-eyed Sarah Lindsay, 9, has broken the male monopoly on juvenile soccer in West Vancouver.

It took just about two years of lobbying around school before she fastened successfully onto a guy whose dad coaches one of the teams.

"I could find nothing in the rulebook covering this," says Tom Guy, mentor of the West Van Spartans, "so I said she could play."

Play she has. In her first five games she scored a goal and made openings for two others.

Guy says he has decided to trade Sarah to another coach in the loop.

"She needs the benefit of his good coaching," he said soberly.

"She could be made into a wonderful player if she stays at it."

Sarah likes to give credit to her first soccer teacher.

"You see, we had a maid and she was sort of a tomboy herself and she taught me."

Sarah's mother reports that in order to keep up her training and game schedule, Sarah has quit Brownies.

How long will she stay in the game?

"I'll play till I have to leave," she says.

. . . BUT NOT HERE RULE U.K. NABOBS

LONDON (AP)—Britons take their soccer seriously and it's one preserve they are keeping—for men only.

This emerged today with the banning of the captain of the Featherby Junior School soccer team in Gillingham, Kent.

Featherby, led by Lynn Baker, has run roughshod over all opposition to reach to the top of its league.

Lynn is a girl.

The Medway Schools Football Association, in imposing the ban on the 10-year-old star, said:

"We are affiliated to the Football Association and they don't countenance women playing football." The Football Association is the ruling body for all soccer in England.

There had been complaints that vivacious Lynn, who plays centre half on her team, was distracting the boys on the opposing teams and they weren't concentrating on their game.

Santa Claus, Easter Bunny Are for Real in Pro Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody cheated in the pro football draft this year and both Santa Claus and the Easter Bunny are for real.

Everything was on the up and up all the way. There wasn't a single signing announced before the player was drafted. No hidden bodies were spirited from New Orleans to Las Vegas to Waikiki.

It was so pure and wholesome that three young men from Illinois popped up at the American Football League draft with their lawyer and announced they had been brought to New York by the National Football League but were open to offers.

Oakland Raiders passed the first six rounds of the AFL draft and finally announced in the seventh round that it had drafted and signed Tom Mitchell, an end from Bucknell. There were reports in early morning that Mitchell had signed but these, of course, were erroneous and exaggerated.

Many players who went home to see the folks for Thanksgiving wound up in unexpected places—such as a New York hotel.

If the NFL's army of recruiters took an interest in a collegian, the AFL teams couldn't seem to locate him on the telephone. If the AFL bird dogs were hot for a prospect, they neglected to call up the NFL and tell them where they were.

There was much banter about an early sneak draft by the AFL Nov. 2, with sharp denials and counter - accusations that the NFL had drawn up a list of 13 players who must be signed to maintain prestige. There was a remarkable resemblance between the actual draft and the advance stories.

'Homers' Have Edge In AHL-WHL Games

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Victoria Maple Leafs play two of their next three games against American Hockey League opposition, and this seems to be as good a time as any to assess the merits of professional hockey's first interlocking schedule.

Generally, it must be conceded, the results are most favorable from the Western League side.

After 19 games, the AHL holds a 10-9 edge in games with the WHL teams.

The margin is the one great reason WHL officials are particularly pleased with the early-season results of the interlocking games.

While all promised to win "our share of games," few, if any, WHL executives refused to predict anything more than a split with their AHL rivals. And even hopes for a split had to be considered an optimistic outlook.

ROAD SHOW WILL TELL

So far, interlocking games have been "homer" affairs. AHL teams have an 8-1 advantage on home ice while Western clubs have won eight out of 10 on their sheets.

In the final analysis, the road showing of the two top teams from each league may well determine the final won-lost spread.

Quebec Aces and Rochester Americans, rated the powers in the east, have yet to hit the road. Ditto Victoria, the WHL leaders. Second-place Portland is in the midst of its swing through the east but has failed to win in three outings.

The added expense of the tough and long interlocking trips, according to various WHL moguls, "is balanced by the benefits." Among the benefits the WHL feels it enjoys is the greater variety of competition and a chance to prove the western circuit has made tremendous strides forward in recent years.

The improvement is particularly noticeable in Victoria, which was without pro hockey for three years until the Leafs skated into town last season.

The 9-10 record with the AHL supports the WML's claims of an "improved league."

ICE CHIPS: Los Angeles Blades have acquired Ed Johnston, Boston Bruins' goaltender for the past three seasons until he was displaced by the brilliant Bernie Parent this year . . . Johnston's shift to Los Angeles is subject to immediate recall . . . Blades have sent rookie Doug Favell to Oklahoma City of the Central League and will keep Marcel Pelletier as their standby goalie . . .

Also on the move today is Bobby Taylor . . . the hard-rock defenceman with the Leafs last year has been assigned to Tulsa of the Central League . . . He was scheduled to leave Victoria today for the Texas city . . . Defenceman Fred Hucul is due to rejoin the Leafs for Wednesday's game with the Springfield Indians . . . Leafs will play Seattle Totems in a home-and-home series at the weekend and then will be back on Memorial Arena ice to play Hershey Bears next week . . .

YANKS GET AMARO

Linz Tootles Off to Phils

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers and Minneapolis Twins, 1965 league champions, may be forced to stand pat during the annual baseball meetings.

There were no indications two days after the opening of the meetings that any of their challengers wants to make any trades with the champions that might help them win successive pennants.

Trading was under way between other clubs, however, with New York Yankees swapping utility man Phil Linz to Philadelphia Phillies for shortstop Ruben Amaro, and New York Mets buying Al Luplow, Cleveland Indians outfielder, for a reported $30,000.

The Mets also sent pitcher Tom Parsons to Houston Astros to complete a previous deal for catcher Jerry Grote, and California Angels signed veteran pitcher Lew Burdette.

Burdette, longtime star with Milwaukee Braves, has been a free agent since posting a 3-5 record with Chicago Cubs and the Phillies last summer.

Neither the Dodgers, World Series champions, nor the Twins took any players in Monday's draft of minor league prospects, although 23 players were picked by other American and National League teams. (See also story on Page 17.)

Many of those drafted were veterans trying to win another chance to make the big time in the major leagues, such as Gary Geiger and Moe Drabowsky.

A few were youngsters, including 17-year-old Guillermo Montanez, a first baseman for Sarasota, Fla., who was drafted by the Angels.

Drabowsky, dropped by Kansas City Athletics to Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast League last summer, won eight of 10 games to gain his way back to the majors. He was drafted by Baltimore Orioles.

Marg Paces Vikette Win

Vikettes finished a slim one basket lead over First United in junior women's basketball Monday. Score was 35-33, Marg Maysmith pacing the winners with 14 points.

First United "A" bantam girls shot down the "B" team, 33-8; First United midget girls took Metropolitan, 32-10, and Metropolitan pre-midget girls won by default from Cordova Bay.

Bantam boys league-leader Esquimalt licked Capitals, 57-20, with top Esquimalt hooper Don Burrows connecting for 15.

Kansas City Names Alvin Dark Manager

ALVIN DARK

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Alvin Dark, who guided San Francisco Giants into baseball's World Series in 1962, was named manager of Kansas City Athletics.

Dark, 43, replaces Haywood Sullivan, who resigned shortly before to become vice-president and director of player personnel with Boston Red Sox. Sullivan had served eight months as the Athletics manager.

The changes were announced in successive press conferences at the start of the annual minor league baseball meetings.

Dark was given a two-year contract to attempt to lead the Athletics out of the American League cellar. He has served the past few months as assistant to president Charles A. Finley at Kansas City.

Dodgers Can Use Slugger

By MILTON RICHMAN

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Like everyone else at these baseball meetings, Walt Alston is quietly walking around looking, although you'd think he'd merely be sitting back and still accepting world championship congratulations.

Alston readily concedes his Dodgers will be pretty much the same type of club next season that they were this past one.

That means nothing much at the plate again but more than enough on the pitching mound and on the base paths.

"We can use a .300 hitter who can run, throw and hit with power," laughed the understandably-relaxed Dodger manager. "We don't care where he plays. We'd find a place for him."

★ ★ ★

Alston didn't spell out the name of the player he had in mind although if you had to make a wild guess, Detroit's Al Kaline wouldn't be a half-bad choice.

The Tiger outfielder's name actually was mentioned in preliminary trade talks by the Dodgers. Detroit officials backed off in a hurry, however, as soon as it was.

"We're going to have to rely on pitching and speed again next year," said Alston, realistically.

"We won't be known as a home run hitting club. I don't think fellows like (Wes) Parker, (Jim) Lefebvre, (Ron) Fairly and (Maury) Wills will start hitting home runs all of a sudden although that kid Parker fools you at times."

Whenever a man is wishing, there's no sense putting a ceiling on his daydreams, and that could account for the reason Alston talks hopefully of securing another starter also.

"I don't even have any preference whether he's a right-hander or a left-hander," he smiled. "Either way I'll be glad to take him if he can help us."

It became more and more apparent as Alston talked that Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale will have to shoulder the brunt of the job for the Dodgers again next year just as they did this past season.

"I can't see any reason why they would go back next year," said Alston thoughtfully. "It certainly isn't a question of age with them. They're both young enough, and I never worry about their physical condition.

"Those two fellows take as much pride in their work as any two ballplayers I've ever known. They're great competitors, they run on their own and I never have to worry about them one bit."

If Alston has any worries, they revolve around Tommy Davis, now playing in the Arizona Instructional League after having been out most of the year with a broken ankle.

"When he started out down there (in Arizona), he didn't do very good," said Alston. "The last reports I received were good, though.

"He's running better, they tell me, and he doesn't have any more pain.

★ ★ ★

"We sure could use him next year. Funny thing, he started out great for us last April. He was attacking the ball and was looking like the same player who led the league two years in a row."

Then came that broken ankle and everyone said the Dodgers had had it.

It turned out everyone was dead wrong.

TWO SPOTS OPEN

Koreans Create Sticky Situation

LONDON (AP) — Fourteen teams have reached the 16-team World Soccer Cup finals in England next July and only two places remain to be filled.

The two left involved the match between Italy and Scotland in Naples Dec. 7 ad a play-off between Bulgaria and Belgium.

A win for Scotland over Italy would put the Scots through to the finals. A win for Italy would do the same for the Italians.

A draw will force a playoff on a neutral ground.

Bulgaria and Belgium finished equal on points in the first qualifying section and now a site has to be found for the playoff.

The fourteen teams in the World Cup finals are defending champion Brazil and host country England, Mexico, Uruguay, Argentina, Russia, Hungary, Portugal, Chile, West Germany, France, Spain, Switzerland and North Korea.

POSE PROBLEM

North Korea's defeat of Australia took place in Cambodia. The North Koreans won the first match 6-1 and the second match 3-1, providing a big problem for the British government.

The North Korean government is not recognized in London. The problem is: will the North Koreans be given visas to travel to England for the World Cup finals?

Officials of the English World Cup organizing committee think there will be no problem in North Korea getting visas.

SKIERS MEET

Victoria Sno-Birds Ski Club will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday, starting at 8 p.m., at Williams Hall, 749 Broughton St.

St. Louis Bantam Champs

Gordon Head Chargers took the lead but St. Louis College took the football game, 19-8, and the Norm Fieldgate Bantam League championship at Macdonald Park Sunday before 800 shivering onlookers.

A single by quarterback Dennis Somner gave Gordon Head a first quarter 1-0 lead. But St. Louis roared back under quarterback Danny Jordan and with Ted Kissinger carrying the mail seized the cup.

Kissinger, a vicious defensive tackler, scored all three touchdowns for St. Louis. Vince Orr added an extra point.

Mike Woods scored Gordon Head's TD and Somner added another single.

St. Louis went into the final with 10-1 won-lost record, Gordon Head was 9-2 on the season.

The game marked the end of the bantam season. A mooted Island final between St. Louis and Duncan will not be played because of an age discrepancy between the leagues.

Waggoner Rolls To Burnaby Trip

Top trundler in Capital City Lanes' 25-game rolloff Sunday was Reg Waggoner. His 6,383 total wins him a trip to a 50-game tourney Dec. 18 in Burnaby.

Bill Cool was a close second in the rolloff with 6,257; followed by Harry Cool, 6,012; Doug Mann, 5,845, and Jack Plant, 5,825.

Bill Cool had the high five-game block of 1,365, and Doug Rowse the high single of 360.

Munich Joins Bidding For '72 Olympic Games

BONN (CP)—Munich has decided to seek the 1972 Olympic Summer Games, the first Olympic bid by a German city since the Second World War, Agence France - Presse reported here Monday.

The decision was announced by Mayor Jochen Vogel of Munich after a meeting in West Germany's capital with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and Willi Daume, chairman of the West German Olympic Committee.

FULL SUPPORT

Erhard promised the full support, including financial support, of the West German government, Vogel said. The beer-and-carnival metropolis also received a guarantee of full support from the state of Bavaria, whose premier, Alfons Goppel, accompanied the Munich delegation to Bonn.

Montreal is also a contender for the 1972 Summer Olympics. The bid by Canada's largest city was announced earlier this month by Mayor Jean Drapeau and the Canadian Olympic Committee subsequently gave its approval.

BANFF IS FIRST

Canada is also putting in a bid for the 1972 Winter Olympics, however, on behalf of Calgary and the nearby rocky mountain resorts of Banff and Lake Louise in Alberta. While announcing support for Montreal as a summer site, the Canadian Olympic Committee said that if it comes down to a choice of one or the other for Canada, the committee will give priority to Calgary's winter bid. The Calgary bid was announced much earlier and is, in fact, a third Olympic attempt, coming after unsuccessful bids for the 1964 and 1968 winter games.

HOSTED BOTH GAMES

Germany was the last country to play host to the summer and winter Olympics in the same year. The 1936 summer games were held in Berlin and the winter games in the Alpine resort of Garmisch - Partenkirchen.

There was some talk here of a German bid for the 1972 winter games also, but no decision has been announced.

The Olympics have not been held in Germany since 1936. They have never been held in Canada.

The International Olympic Committee will decide the 1972 sites next year, either at its spring or its fall meeting.

Besides Montreal and Munich, Moscow, Vienna and Sydney are also expected to bid for the 1972 summer games.

The 1968 summer games have been awarded to Mexico City and this fact could weaken the chances of a Western Hemisphere city for 1972. As the 1964 games took place in Tokyo, it would mean holding the summer Olympics outside Europe for a third successive time.

Nairobi Runner Tops World Mark

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuters) Kipchonge Keino of Kenya clipped 1.6 seconds off the world 5,000 metres event here tonight.

Keino, who holds the world 3,000-metre record, clocked 13 minutes, 24.2 seconds. The previous best was 13:25.8 by Australia's Ron Clarke, set in Los Angeles earlier this year.

Keino, 25, a Nairobi policeman, is due to run against Clarke in Melbourne Dec. 21.

Keino became the first African Negro to run a sub-four-minute mile when he clocked three minutes, 54.2 seconds in London in August.

Only world record - holder Michel Jazy of France (3:53.6) and New Zealand's Peter Snell (3:54.1) have run a mile faster.

New Zealander Bill Baillie finished second in 14:01.2, more than half a minute behind the Kenyan. Franc Cervan of Yugoslavia was third in 14:02.0.

In an international mile race, Jurgen May of East Germany, holder of the world 1,000-metre record, was beaten by New Zealander John Davies.

Davies clocked 3:59.0, 5.4 seconds off Jazy's record. May was timed in 3:59.5.

No one tobacco blend is right for every pipe smoker.

That's why SAIL offers you four.

Pipe smokers are individualists. That's why we blend Dutch Sail tobacco four different ways. Each blend is composed from the same 14 selected tobaccos—so they're all exceptionally mild, cool and slow-burning. Only the taste varies.

One of them is just right for you.

Sail Natural (in the Ivory Pouch) is completely non-aromatic—just about the purest tobacco you can buy. Sail Regular (Yellow Pouch) is non-aromatic; with a nut-like flavour. Sail Light Aromatic (Red Pouch) has a touch of Dutch heather honey. And Sail Aromatic (Green Pouch) offers full-bodied flavour and a delightful aroma.

BELGIUM REMEMBERS

ANTWERP (AP) — An interview with space scientist Wernher Von Braun has been kept off television in Antwerp, Belgium, because of protests over his part in the development of German missiles during the Second World War.

Von Braun, born in Germany, went to the United States after the war.

More than 6,000 persons were killed by the German V-1 and V-2 rockets in the final months of the war, city councilman Roger de Keyzer said. He said he resented any publicity given to Von Braun.

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE

Non-Aggression Treaty Proposed With Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—A non-aggression pact between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Soviet-led Warsaw Treaty Organization was proposed today to the White House conference on international co-operation.

The conference's committee on arms control and disarmament, which made the suggestion in a report, also said that in the long run China will have to be included in any system for international security and disarmament. But it added that "the long run can be very long."

The committee reported to the conference, which was called by President Johnson in support of the United Nations' International Co-operation Year. The report was submitted for discussion along with other conference papers concerned with keeping the peace.

The committee said an agreement between the rival military alliances in Europe would recognize "that the situation in central Europe—including the situation in Berlin — can be changed only by mutual consent, not by force."

The committee also argued that the United States need not wait for better relations with mainland China before seeking agreements with the Russians on such things as reducing strategic forces, or freezing nuclear stocks.

IMPLEMENTATION SAFE

For years to come, the report said, such agreements could be "safely implemented while the Chinese continue their efforts to develop their own nuclear force."

But the committee said the United States should try to open bilateral talks with China on arms control, find out the conditions under which China might qualify for and accept the responsibility of UN membership, and support efforts to bring the big Communist country into a disarmament conference.

A conference committee on international law, meanwhile, recommended that the United States drop an existing limitation on its acceptance of the jurisdiction of the World Court.

Under the so-called Connolly amendment, which the committee recommended deleting, the United States itself determines which matters are essentially domestic and therefore outside the purview of the international court.

Other conference reports presented today ranged over a wide variety of social problems.

—One proposal was for the United States to establish an international research laboratory and institute on urban problems to help handle the world-wide movement of populations to cities, especially the phenomena of families migrating from rural areas to squat on the fringes of cities, in crowded, unsanitary slums.

De Gaulle to Give NATO Plans in '66

PARIS (AP) — President de Gaulle plans to make known his plans for reorganization of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization some time in January, informed sources said Monday.

They said the French leader's proposals most likely will be presented in confidential notes to the United States and the other members of the alliance as a basis for discussion.

This presupposes de Gaulle's re-election Dec. 5, of which there seems little doubt. One factor, however, presents a potential problem. The same sources said that if de Gaulle does not get a satisfactory first-round majority and is forced into a second round of balloting he will refuse to run and go into self-imposed political exile.

The informants talking on the assumption he will obtain the vote he wants, said the NATO proposals probably will not be made in detail in the initial note.

"They will offer a basis for discussion," one said. "After all, we have three years in which to discuss them." Under existing rules, 1969 is the date set for any member country to withdraw from NATO. De Gaulle, opposed to integration of NATO command, already warned that if it is not abolished, France will not stay in NATO after that date.

The sources saw some light in the gloom of French-American relations in the coming year. Without saying why, one said:

"The worst between us has passed. There have been some brutal things said, but that is over."

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1965 —PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

What this corner offered on Saturday, although I wouldn't expect anyone to realize the sorry fact, was my lay-away column, the spare which I counted upon for a day off to be squandered on any of several amiable pursuits.

That run-anytime piece, doggone it, might have meant the difference between a leisurely you-know-what shopping session and the usual frantic Dec. 24 scurry to get under the wire.

It would have bought my wife and me a run to Nanaimo for lunch, over the back roads we like to loaf along.

Or I might have badgered one of this newspaper's fisherman printers into taking me out for a needed lesson in catching winter spring salmon.

Even just lying snug in its envelope, it was comforting insurance. On days when the word-machine was slow to mesh gears, I liked to know that rescue lurked a mere snatch away.

Of course, a provident columnist, if any such bird exists, would have several spares in reserve. But I had only one; and now, thanks to a graceless bug that couldn't wait till the weekend for its bite, haven't any.

Write another? Sure, as soon as may be. I don't feel happy without one.

Since we've rambled this far, we might as well declare a make-and-mend day and continue to explore the world of the columnist, a fellow who has existed in one form or another since man first undertook to communicate.

As an individualist who undertakes to speak his mind—and he isn't worth shucks if he doesn't—he is not always well-used by his community. Back when he aired his views on broadsheets cried through London town, he frequently paid for his boldness by losing ears or other portions of his anatomy to the public hangman.

If lucky, he might escape with a spell on the pillory and a jail term as did Daniel Defoe, who between bouts of hellfire columnizing, gave us "Robinson Crusoe."

While he can still go to jail for libel, his present risks run lighter. He may be threatened, and a columnist I once knew got himself slugged with a bottle. However, reprisals now tend to take more genteel forms.

From our three-year association, I have learned that you, friend reader, tend to chaw me out by phone if I have over-taxed your patience.

When your toes have been more heavily trampled, I get a letter. This may radiate a mere gentle warmth, or it may be hot enough to crisp the paper.

Extreme annoyance — the sort that might once have cost me my ears—fetches a stern Letter to the Editor, who with a grin plastered all over his austere mug, hustles it into print.

(I also get calls and letters that convince me mine is the finest job on earth, and for these, let me take this chance to thank you.)

★ ★ ★

Not everyone I meet understands that a columnist speaks strictly for himself. He's a loner, occupying a spot between hard news and features on the one side, and the editorial page on the other.

That page is the heart of any journal, and the editorials beneath its "masthead" convey your newspaper's voice.

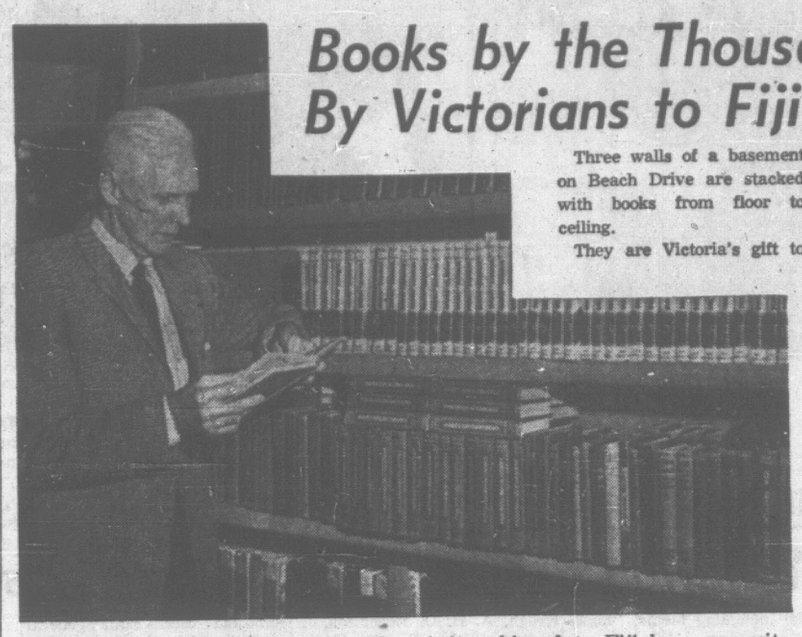
Returning to my own weedy little garden patch, I have learned that a general columnist, as distinct from the political, medical or heart-throb specialist, must deal in variety.

Since life is by no means confined to big, thundering issues. I don't offer a constant diet of them here. I even write about fishing sometimes . . . but never twice in a row. If I did, you'd scalp me!

Why, since we're talking shop today, do columnists deal generally and freely in the vertical pronoun?

Because, one supposes, while one might fill this strip without using the word "I," one would look quite ridiculous should one attempt to.

That's it: and now to replace my spare column!



Books by the Thousands Sent By Victorians to Fiji Islanders

Three walls of a basement on Beach Drive are stacked with books from floor to ceiling.

They are Victoria's gift to the Fiji Islands and, as fast as they are shipped, more will take their place.

Some 7,000 books—most of them educational—have been donated by members of the Victoria branch, English Speaking Union. Nearly 2,000 have already been shipped to Fiji and thousands more will soon be on their way.

The Victoria effort has been organized by a committee of three comprising Mrs. T. G. Keir, Miss Marjorie Holmes and Mrs. W. F. Jermy. Mrs. Keir is convener and the basement of her home at 1224 Beach Drive has been converted into a storage depot for books waiting to be shipped.

The shelves were built by her husband, who retired here from Montreal about six years ago.

Mrs. Keir, who was formerly librarian at McGill University, says the Victoria drive is part of a Commonwealth movement started by the English Speaking Union in London.

It was initiated by Lady Ranfurly, a member of the union's international board.

BOOKS SCARCE

"The idea is to send informative books to parts of the Commonwealth where books are scarce," Mrs. Keir said. "Eastern Canadian branches of the union are collecting for the Caribbean area; western Canada is providing for islands of the South Pacific.

"In Victoria we decided to concentrate on the Fiji Islands."

Distribution of the books in Fiji is being handled by Robert Pearce, formerly on the staff of Victoria Public Library, and the board of education in Suva.

VOLUNTARY

The whole operation is on a voluntary basis. The books are crated in tea chests by Dowell's Cartage and Storage of Victoria and several shipping companies have offered free transportation.

Mrs. Keir said local members of the ESU and the B.C. educational department have responded generously to the appeal.

"We require books in fair condition that will be of educational value to the people of Fiji. Naturally we don't want sex novels or books of the off-beat variety.

"So far we have been fortunate in getting the kind of literature we want."

DOCTOR FIRES BACK

Lydia's Remarks 'Twilly Twaddle'

Anti - fluoridationist Mrs. Lydia Arsens today was denounced for spreading false statements.

Oak Bay councillor, Dr. Harold R. Carter, said her published remarks on fluoridation were "superstitious twilly twaddle from a health faddist."

Mrs. Arsens, a former Social Credit MLA who operates a "health food" store here, maintains that fluorides are harmful. An executive member of the Individual Rights Association, she opposes a Dec. 11 Oak Bay referendum on fluoridation of Oak Bay drinking water.

Dr. Carter said in an interview today, "If the people of Oak Bay want to listen to the twaddle of a food faddist, that's what they deserve."

He said 25 per cent of Canadian communities now fluoridate their water supplies to prevent tooth decay. Ottawa is the latest city to take this step. Brantford, Ont., has had artificial fluoridation since 1945 with excellent results.

"None of these things mentioned by Mrs. Arsens are happening," said Dr. Carter.

Mrs. Arsens said fluorides artificially harden bones, nails and teeth causing internal weaknesses that lead to their early collapse and fractures.

"It is just the exact opposite," said Dr. Carter, "teeth and bones are strengthened. Where there are fluorides present in water, there are less fractures. Fluoridation helps people for their entire lives."

Mrs. Arsens also blamed cancer, weak muscles and tendons, heart attacks and miscarriages on fluoridation.

All these charges have been proven false right in our own country, said Dr. Carter.

He noted that Mrs. Arsen's group is distributing anti-fluoridation literature in Oak Bay. He said those favoring fluoridation will also circulate literature prior to voting day.

'PURE BALONEY'

Dr. M. J. T. Dohan, president Victoria branch, Canadian Dental Association, also was appalled at Mrs. Arsen's statements, describing them as "pure baloney."

He said 49 million people in the United States and 4 million in 250 countries in Canada now have fluoridated water supply.

In Connecticut, he said, every centre of over 20,000 population is required by law to fluoridate its water.

And he said fluoridation is endorsed by Canadian and American dental and medical associations, Canadian Public Health Association, U.S. Public Health Service, American Heart Association, international labor organizations the AFL and CIO, World Health Organization and the British Ministry of Health.

Sentences Increased In Assault

Two prisoners convicted of assaulting a guard at Colquitz Jail have had their sentences considerably increased by the B.C. Court of Appeal.

John L. Smith's sentence was increased from four months to 18 months and a one-month term given Gerald Brune was increased to a year.

The sentences were originally fixed by Magistrate William Ostler in Saanich court. The Crown appealed and asked for the sentences to be increased.

Both men were convicted of assault on guards at the jail. The fight started when Guard Frank Bedford ordered Smith to give up a writing board that he was using in his cell.

FOUL LANGUAGE

Smith claimed he had special permission to use the writing board and refused to hand it over. He used foul language at Bedford who ordered him to solitary confinement.

Brune said he interfered to try and stop the fight by restraining another guard but he too was convicted.

Brune was being held in the jail awaiting trial and Smith was serving a sentence for attempted breaking and entering. The Crown has started proceedings to have Smith declared to be an habitual criminal and the hearing on this matter will begin next week.

Woman Fined

Verna Phillips, 1615 Belmont, was fined a total of $400 today when she pleaded guilty in central court to impaired driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Evidence was that she hit a car parked at Johnson and Vancouver early this morning and kept on going. She was arrested later at her home.

CALLERS SUPPORT PETITIONER

A man organizing a petition protesting car insurance premium increases said today he received more than 20 telephone calls Monday night.

Hospital orderly Thomas Moran, 4155 Barber, said many of them offered help in getting the petition going.

"It will take some days to get the petition organized and worded properly and distributed," he said. "I have had offers of help from schoolteachers and construction workers."

WRITE MPs, MLAs

He urged interested persons to write to their MPs and MLAs to protest the 10 per cent increase announced Friday and effective after January.

At the annual meeting of the Victoria New Democratic Party Monday night, members criticized the premium increase and referred to "inquities" of the present system. The party favors government car insurance.

TREES HAVE RIGHTS, TOO

Should boulevard trees be chopped down because they drop leaves on private property?

Victoria city council parks committee says no. Definitely.

Committee members discussed a complaint today from George E. Bennett, 208 Cross, dealing with two trees in front of his James Bay home.

City manager Dennis Young noted the writer apparently disliked raking leaves.

"NO VALID REASON"

"The fact that trees drop leaves on another person's property is no valid reason for removing the trees," the manager said.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow suggested a letter be sent to Mr. Bennett expressing regret that his request could not be granted.

"We would ruin beautiful Victoria," he said, if parksmen acceeded to all such bids.

Holdback Fund Voluntary, Students Told

University of Victoria students will have a choice of putting $56 of their second term fees into a trust fund, student president Paul Williamson said today.

The money, which students plan to withhold in January as a protest against rising tuition fees, may be put into a trust fund set up by the students' council.

But the fund is not mandatory, said Mr. Williamson.

He said not every student would wish to put his $56 into the fund, and "I expect very few will."

Several students, he said, received the wrong impression and thought they had no choice in the matter.

"But it is entirely a voluntary fund," said Mr. Williamson.

Cabin Cruiser Still Aground

The 30-foot cabin cruiser of Capt. Ernest Beaumont today was still high and dry on Mary Tod Island.

A crew from Oak Bay Boat Works Ltd. were patching gaping holes in its port side.

The boat was pounded on to the island during a southeast gale Friday when it broke from its moorings at the captain's Discovery Island home.

Plans are to refloat the motor launch Discovery Isle III Wednesday morning.

PLAY SAFE THIS WEEK, EVERY WEEK

The B.C. Safety Council asked today for support of Safe Driving Week Dec. 1-7 in the face of steadily mounting deaths in motor-vehicle accidents.

A statistical report of accidental deaths in B.C. to the end of October noted that car accidents took 314 lives in the 10-month period in 1963, 322 in 1964 and 368 this year.

The council also reported that the number of accidental deaths caused by firearms to the end of October fell to three from 17 last year.

AUSTIN RUNS IN SAANICH

He's Had 'Little Rest' And Rarin' to Go Again

The dean of Saanich council until five years ago is a candidate in the Dec. 11 municipal election.

George Austin, 4482 Tyndall, resigned in 1960 after a total of 21 years as a councillor saying "I need a little rest."

Today, the retired dairy farmer said he has plenty of time if elected to serve as a councillor again.

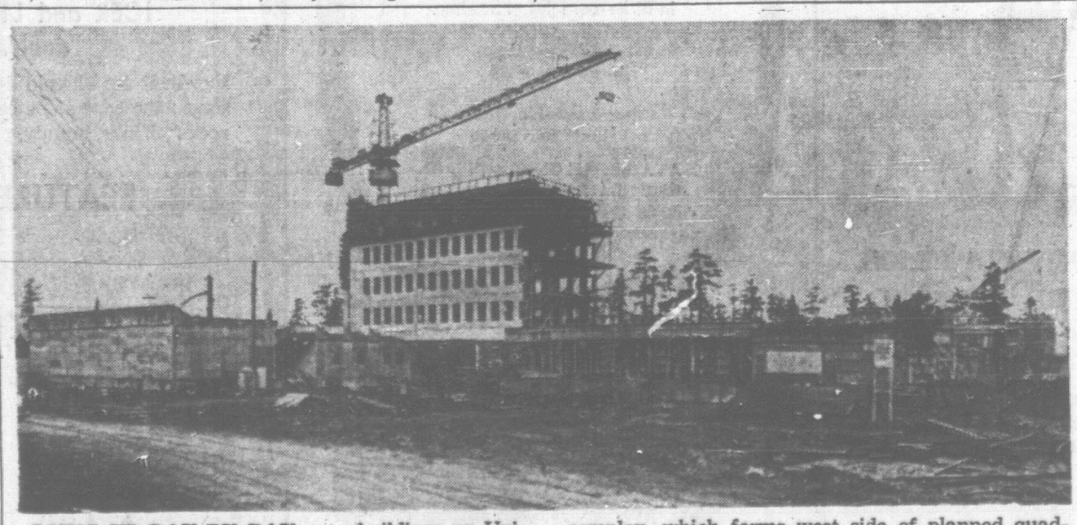
Mr. Austin will seek the one-year term caused by the recent expansion of council to eight members, plus the reeve.

He is apposed by school principal Alan Newberry.

Not seeking re-election are Couns. Gregory Cook and Douglas Crosby, both of whom said they are too busy outside council to devote sufficient time to municipal affairs.

Seeking re-election is Coun. William Campbell, chairman of the public works committee.

Ten candidates are seeking the four two-year seats.



GOING UP DAY BY DAY, new buildings on University of Victoria campus change Gordon Head landscape. Under construction on west side of Finnerty Road is arts and education complex, costing $2,017,000. Classrooms, lounges, curriculum library and 300-seat lecture theatre will be included in complex, which forms west side of planned quadrangle. To right but out of picture is social sciences complex. Construction on both, scheduled for completion in September, 1966, is so far proceeding without snags, say officials. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Topics of the Day

A Victoria man has been elected president of the Canadian Technical Asphalt Association.

He is J. W. G. Kerr, 1352 St. Patrick St., who is senior paving engineer with the provincial highways department.

Mr. Kerr was elected at the association's annual meeting held at Quebec City.

The association's next annual meeting will be held in Vancouver.

Retired electrical worker Fred Bevis was elected president of the Victoria New Democratic Party Monday night at the annual meeting. He succeeds Jack Groves.

Other new members of the executive include Neil Hindle, first vice-president; Rev. H. T. Allen, second vice-president; Edna Bowden, secretary, and John Barbillion, treasurer.

A passing motorist stopped a runaway car Monday night as its owner raced behind in hot pursuit of his vehicle.

Carson Humber, 17, of 1695 Howroyd, said he saw his car start to slip away down a hill on Cadboro Bay Road. When he came out of a house the car was about 100 yards away and gaining speed.

He ran after it and another car came along. The driver saw the situation, speeded up and got in front of the runaway vehicle.

Then he slowed down and let the Humber vehicle run in back of his car. The two vehicles pulled to a stop in about 50 feet.

A 19-year-old youth who put on a shirt that he picked up in a store and then walked out wearing it, pleaded guilty today to theft.

David Johnston, 944 Easter, was remanded in central court today to Dec. 8 for sentence.

Detective Harry Adams said Johnston bought $14 worth of clothes from Woolco Department Store Nov. 4 and then took a shirt and went into a dressing room with it.

He put on the shirt, covered it with his jacket and left the store. Johnston told police he did not have enough money to pay for this last item he wanted.

City Calls Hospital Meeting

Ministers, Officials Asked to Friday Talks

Victoria city council plans a special meeting Friday to clear the air on the forthcoming vote on a regional hospital tax.

The decision, reached this morning, reverses plans for a private discussion on the issue.

Council now will ask hospital and government officials to attend—and place all their cards on the table.

Health Minister Eric Martin and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell should be specifically invited, a council committee recommended to Mayor R. B. Wilson.

(Mr. Campbell said Monday he would not be able to attend the private meeting which had been scheduled.)

The decision to try once more to clarify the hospital question followed receipt at City Hall of a letter from two ratepayers, Misses E. M. Kerr and S. F. Lees, of 264 Memorial Crescent.

PAMPHLET ASKED

They wrote asking that a pamphlet be issued by the city outlining the purpose of a referendum to be held Dec. 11.

Council has so far offered no leadership to the public on the question.

The situation is that on Dec. 11 Victoria and all other organized areas within the capital region will be formed into a regional council established by provincial statute.

The regional council will have jurisdiction over an area-wide sewer study, a regional parks plan, a common policy on fireworks and a $13.5 million expansion of district hospital facilities.

Each area within the capital region, which extends from the waterfront to Sooke and Sidney, has opportunity to "opt out" of any of the four joint projects. The contentious issue is the hospital plan which calls for a two-mill levy against all property owners.

Ald. A. W. Toone said, "We will probably reconcile the thinking of council at the Friday meeting."

He noted the hospital planning council of Greater Victoria plans to publish information.

The letter writers said they contact "a good cross section of the public" in their work as physiotherapists.

"With regard to the hospitals, there are many of us who are completely puzzled.

"In the first place, why are the ratepayers expected to pay for hospitals which are for the use of every member of the public?

"In the second place, what is the point of more buildings when there are not enough nurses (we were told a year or two ago) to man the still empty floor at the Royal Jubilee Hospital? How do you propose to run the buildings?" the Misses Kerr and Lees wrote.

They hoped Victoria would publish a pamphlet as planned by Saanich.

EXPLAIN SEWERS

It should also explain the sewer situation, which is also to become part of the regional district administration, they felt.

Sewers are of such importance that they should be considered separately, the letter said. (Ratepayers are not being asking to vote on this as the survey has been under way nearly a year.)

"The sewer matter is for a survey only," Ald. Edgelow pointed out. "Victoria has no intention of paying for sewers for the whole southern Island."

WELL-TAKEN

The alderman said the point about a pamphlet is well taken.

"It is hard to stomach why the floor (at Jubilee) has not been opened to the public. Why haven't they used it since the new wing opened?" (It will open in January, the hospital explained last week.)

Ald. Mooney said such questions should be answered by the people responsible on Friday.

Boys Stole Cars, Attacked Cyclist

A tale of crime committed by two 15-year-old boys after they escaped from Brannen Lake School was told in central court today.

The youths, transferred from juvenile court, pleaded guilty to four offences.

Because they are juveniles their names cannot be published.

Saanich Detective Harry Adams said they stole a car in Parksville Nov. 13, drove it to Duncan and abandoned it. Then they stole another car and drove to Victoria in it.

Arriving in the city they spotted a youth riding his bicycle along Douglas between Cloverdale and Audley. They hauled the boy off the bike and went through his pockets but were scared away by a motorist who stopped to see what was going on.

Later that evening the pair went into a department store and stole two pairs of trousers and two sweaters. They were arrested a short while later by Saanich Sergeant Bob Coleman who spotted them as he drove home after going off duty.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded both accused to Dec. 8 for pre-sentence report.

If Space Is Cramped You Need This Lamp

By Penny Saver

Every so often in the course of the year, I get a sudden burst of energy and enthusiasm, and decide to redecorate the whole house. Like one of those wind-up dolls, I work with seemingly endless vigor, then slowly begin to unwind until I come to a dead halt. Usually, there are millions of little finishing touches that have not been added — for example, the replacing of lamps.

Lamps are very touchy items. If they are put in the wrong place, they can kill all the work that you have put into your decorating. It takes careful planning and manoeuvering to place them in their most beneficial spots. By the time I get around to placing my lamps, I'm too exhausted to care where they go.

In the peaceful atmosphere of one shop, I found a type of lamp that eliminates this confusing aftermath. They're intriguing items that hang like Japanese lanterns. Actually, they are just shades suspended from a hook on your ceiling. You can place them in any spot, and at any height you desire. They look "right" no matter how they are placed.

The owner of the shop claims that with a table lamp, one must have a table. With a wall lamp, height is limited. With a floor lamp, space is limited. With the hanging lamp there are no limitations at all.

This shop is the sole agent for one type of Danish lamp, which sells for $15. These are intricate pleated paper creations coated with plastic so that they can be washed.

Fabric lamps, coated with plastic, range from $10 to $20.

An import from the Republic of China was another of the hanging lamps. Delicately thin wood-shavings dyed yellow are the materials used for these. They sell from $8.95 to $18.

A piece of artistry in the lamp field was the result of bamboo strips pasted together. This one is priced at $19.50.

If you are a novice at interior decorating, this shop is for you. Being in this business, the proprietors offer their assistance so that you can have the best results with your furnishings.

If you are wound up in redecorating, give Penny a call at 382-3131. She'll tell you where to shop.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Man of the House Should Be Sensitive to Appearance

I don't want to break up any happy homes so, once in a while, I give a day to the men who read Why Grow Old? So many women are interested in fine nutrition, weight control, exercise, complexion and hair care, and are so adept with makeup and hairdos. The man in the house will certainly want to balance the picture, in appearance and in the right to hope for fine health.

Lowman

I once read in a newspaper that a man, 44, broke his leg jumping over a book. Don't laugh until you try it! Place a large book on the floor. Stand flat-footed and jump over it. Now jump back. That's what our hero was doing. If you are not in good condition paste the ambulance number on the telephone or mark it in the directory before jumping. In fact, I don't advise trying it at all.

Champion skiers and boxers could tell you how important leg strength is in sports. Many men who sit at a desk most of the day may fail to realize that leg weakness is partly responsible for the fatigue they experience when playing golf or when called upon for some activity which keeps them on their feet for a fairly long period of time.

Of course walking is one of the best all-round exercises. However, few men have time to indulge in a walk of any length during weekdays. The following exercise will build strength in the legs. Stand tall, toes pointing forward and arms at sides. Bend both knees all the way down as you raise your arms sideward, shoulder-height. Heels leave the floor. Be sure to keep your trunk erect. Straighten knees and return to starting position.

The traditional favorite masculine fare has been steak and French fries, and pie a la mode. However, today I am sure that many men, as a habit, are substituting a baked potato for other kinds and skipping dessert or taking one which is lighter in calories. They have become aware of the importance of nutrition in health and success, and also of the hazards of overweight and a high cholesterol diet. They know, also, that too much tension and too little relaxation may play parts in the production of heart attacks and strokes.

If any of you men wish to balance the picture with a loss of a few pounds you may want my Tubby Hubby Diet which gives you a loss of from seven to 12 pounds in 12 days time. If so, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Red and White Decor For Wedding Service

Arrangements of chrysanthemums and carnations at the altar of St. Aidan's United Church set the colorful theme of red and white at the recent marriage of Beverley Caroline Robinson and Lloyd Walter Sutton.

Rev. A. G. MacLeod officiated at the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Leonard Robinson, 830 Seymour Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sutton of Salt Spring Island. Mr. Robinson gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's sheath gown of taffeta was floor-length, styled en train. The bodice featured a round neckline and three quarter-length sleeves. A white floral headpiece held her lace-trimmed net veil. She carried red roses and ivy, backed with lace, in her cascade bouquet.

Her attendants added to the theme, wearing A-line gowns of red velvet, complemented with toning rose headpieces and cascade bouquets of white chrysanthemums. They were matron of honor, Mrs. F. Sutton; and Mrs. G. Hanson and Mrs A. Hayward, bridesmatrons.

J. H. Sutton was best man for his brother. Ushering guests were B. Robinson and Henry Sutton, brothers of the principals.

Repeating the red and white theme was a three-tier wedding cake, surrounded with candles and arrangements of carnations and chrysanthemums in red and white, which centred the head table at the reception in the Club Soho. R. J. Cush proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple will make their home at 102 Glenterra Road, following a honeymoon trip to Saskatchewan. A two-piece suit of royal blue, accented with black accessories and gardenia corsage, was the choice of the bride for travelling.

CANDY DANCERS TWIST AT BAZAAR

The wonderful world of the teenager has influenced many style and idea changes over the years. But Saturday afternoon, the younger set even invaded the realm of "Candyland," a stall at the Christmas bazaar and tea of St. Mary's Church Women's Guild.

The invasion took the form of the Twist, a dance still popular with the young, with dancers made entirely out of candy! They stood on pedestals of striped peppermint sticks and had moveable bodies of sugar-frosted jellies, with sparkling hard candy faces and hands.

Even Santa decided to come to town a little earlier, through the booth convened by Mrs. C. W. Duck. The welcome roly-poly visitor was a huge red apple, with marshmallow legs and arms and smiling sugared face.

Perhaps the most popular of all the stalls at the event held in the church hall was the gift stall supervised by Mrs. J. H. W. Pope. Here, saucy-faced golliwogs, curly-tailed pigs and dolls of every description entranced "youngsters" of all ages. Moms and children alike eagerly crowded around the booth, designed like a fire-place on Christmas Eve, complete with stockings and yule log.

At one corner stood a silver-sprayed tree, from which dangled the "king" of nursery rhyme himself, Humpty-Dumpty. This well-loved character was available in just about every shape and size and was hand-made by members of the auxiliary.

At the other corner was arranged a child's own table setting of mat and napkins. Some were fat and round pigs—others were little donkeys—all were the happiest way of keeping a child's place at the table clean.

Smart home-makers went immediately to the home-cooking stall to snap up the home-made Christmas baking offered there.

Rich plum pudding, bursting with fruit flavor and other delicious additions; delicious dark Christmas cake, decorated with holly and filled with crunchy nuts and fruits; moist and spicy fruitcakes, all were eagerly sought after at the stall convened by Mrs. R. A. Gonnason and Mrs. D. W. Stoneham.

A novel note to this booth were the handy little chefs hats perched atop the heads of the workers.

The tea room proved to be a wonderful resting place and a decorative one, too. It was fenced off from the rest of the room by pedestals of silvered fir boughs and flowers, strung together with streamers of green crepe paper.

Inside, guests relaxed at tables centred with sea-shells filled with gold-tipped holly and tiny red candles, and were served with seasonally-decorated cookies and sandwiches by members of the guild and hostesses, Mrs. S. Petley-Jones and Mrs. A. H. Bamford.

Mrs. H. J. Jones opened the affair which realized the sum of $1,350. Guests were greeted by Mrs. K. Dixon and Mrs. G. Gould, conveners of the event.

In charge of the other stalls were Mrs. C. J. Bunbury, books; Mrs. H. Harman, woollens; Mrs. T. W. Kensington and Mrs. W. Redford, superfluities; Mrs. T. S. Whitmore, plants; and Mrs. H. V. Littler and Miss V. K. French, children's corner.

Mrs. J. Fraser arranged decoration and Mrs. W. Arthur and Mrs. J. Bamborough were in charge of the grocery hamper contest. Mrs. E. V. Cowie and Mrs. J. Fehler handled tickets.

Chaplin-Matte Vows Exchanged In St. John's Anglican Church

A three-tier wedding cake, flanked with pink rosebuds and white candles, made and decorated by the bride's mother, centred the bride's table at the reception in Gorge Vale Golf Club following the ceremony uniting Barbara Louise Matte and Evan Arthur Chaplin. R. Huddleston proposed the toast to the bride.

St. John's Anglican Church was decorated with arrangements of chrysanthemums and carnations in pink and white tones when Dr. J. Sandys-Wunsch heard vows exchanged between the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Matte, 850 Lampson Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Chaplin, 1058 Summit Avenue. Mr. Matte gave his daughter in marriage.

The bridal gown of white embossed brocade featured a sheath skirt. The bride's three-tier veil misted to shoulder-length from a headpiece of white nylon roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink rosebuds and white carnations.

The bride's attendants, maid of honor Miss Janet Huddleston, and bridesmaids the Misses Adele Sinnott and Phyllis Wheeler wore identical sheath dresses of two-toned pink brocade. The bodices featured scoop necklines and three-quarter-length sleeves. Their headpieces were bows of the same material as their dresses. White carnations were in their cascade bouquets.

James E. Chaplin was best man, and guests were ushered to pews marked with pink and white bells and satin ribbons by Ken Watson and John J. Matte.

The couple is now living at 630 Gorge Road.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. K. Edwards and Mrs. A. Edwards of Kamloops, Mrs. J. Ryan of Langley, Mr. and Mrs. J. Chaplin and family of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Chaplin and family of Nanaimo.

Woman Councillor Speaks At Oak Bay Beach Hotel

The hospitality extended to the visiting women of Quebec by the city was a cause for more understanding between the provinces of British Columbia and Quebec, noted Mrs. Daryl Elford when she spoke to the meeting of the Lady Laurier Club recently. The meeting was held in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

This mutual understanding existing between the provinces, she said, effects a better appreciation of what it means to be a Canadian.

Miss Elizabeth Forbes introduced the guest speaker who gave serious and humorous highlights of her career on the Oak Bay municipal council.

Mrs. Elford said she believed the woman's angle in municipal affairs is a step forward in women taking their place in world affairs. Mrs. E. Peden thanked the guest speaker.

During the meeting, chairman, first vice-president Mrs. J. W. Gillis introduced new member Mrs. O. G. Gallaher.

Reports were given by Mrs. A. B. McNeill, phoning; Mrs. Peden, membership; Mrs. A. Worthington, hospitality and Mrs. Harold Menzies, publicity.

It was announced that the club would host a Christmas coffee party for members on Thursday, Dec. 16 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the home of Mrs. G. McPhee, Rudyard Kipling Apartments, 1420 Beach Drive.

A lunch preceded the meeting.

Sidney Bazaar Raises $1,000

More than $1,000 was realized at the recent bazaar of St. Andrew's Church Guild, held in Sanscha Hall.

Fir boughs festooned the walls of the hall and gay Christmas coverings on stalls added to the holiday theme of the affair. Mrs. Walker Taylor officiated at the opening and was presented with a corsage by little Michele and Suzanne Melville.

Featured were stalls of work, home cooking and candy wreaths, convened by members of the guild and a special stall was the display of work by Arbutus Craft, of items made by handicapped and disabled persons.

A Victoria woman is helping to safeguard the interests of all Canadians when they go on spending sprees. She's Mrs. P. R. A. Coombs, who takes an active part on the national level of the Consumer's Association of Canada. She's also a member of the Victoria branch, one of more than 80.

Recently returned from a board meeting in Ottawa, Mrs. Coombs reports a mounting increase in subscribers to Canadian Consumer, CAC's official magazine. It brings up-to-date news in buying trends, advice on brands and reports of studies made on various goods.

Sparked by a lively annual meeting at which Mme. Kirkland-Casgrain, Quebec minister of transport and communications spoke on better safety features in cars, the current edition deals with this subject and also gives a guide to better "road manners."

Results of recent tests on five brands of batteries are also published, as well as a list of recommended toys. Including more than 130 toys, the list recommends toys that have been tested by the Canadian Toy Testing Council, the tests being carried out in the home, at school or in hospitals.

The Canadian Consumer is available to all CAC members and membership costs $3 a year. Details can be obtained from Victoria president, Mrs. G. Brown, 2481 Central Avenue, 382-0175, or from the national office, 100 Gloucester Street, Ottawa 4, Ont.

RAN RHODESIAN HOSPITAL

Doctor-Nun Leaves Africa

SALISBURY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Dominican order is scouring the world for a replacement for a doctor-nun famous in Rhodesia for her work among 50,000 Negroes in the drought-stricken Chilimanzi reserve.

She is Sister Cecilia, a German nun who worked so hard for three years at St. Theresa's tiny bush hospital she had to be flown to Munich for a rest.

Sister Cecilia came to Rhodesia to work at the Harari Negro Hospital in Salisbury. She impressed everyone with her surgical and medical skill and devotion to her patients. Then she took over St. Theresa's Hospital as the first and only doctor in the Chilimanzi reserve.

She worked from 7 a.m. until long after nightfall, 365 days a year. The hospital grew from its original 50 beds to 125, but regularly had 175 patients at a time.

Mattresses were put on the floor and sometimes two patients with the same disease shared the same bed.

CAME IN WHEELBARROWS

Patients came to stand or sit outside the hospital all night, waiting for Sister Cecilia's attention. Some were brought in 20 miles or more by wheelbarrow. Others walked up to 50 miles.

"Even the local witch doctor came for treatment, and then announced he had to hurry back to see his own patients," said Mother Auxilia, the Dominican vicaress general in Salisbury. "Later on, he came back again."

DEAR ABBY . . .

Watch Out

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Every time I see a letter in your column from a mother grieving because some nasty boy got her "innocent" little daughter in trouble, my blood pressure rises. My 16-year-old son is dating steady (and I DO mean steady) a 15-year-old girl. He practically lives at her house. We've tried to impress upon him the pitfalls of too much familiarity. But about the time we get the message across to him, and he breaks away from her for an evening, the girl's mother invites him to dinner or for a day-long outing. The girl is available any time of night or day on a moment's notice. She seems to have no restrictions. They go to school together, eat lunch together, come home together, and if they don't spend the evening together, they're on the phone talking. When they're here, they're constantly holding hands, scuffling or necking. I assume they behave the same way at her house. Perhaps this girl's mother doesn't know what she is doing. Your publishing this letter might wake her up.

ONE BOY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: In the absence of restrictions from the girl's parents, YOU should set up a few. I'll publish your letter not only to awaken that girl's mother, but to awaken countless other parents who need it.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a hostess who asks, "Would you like a cold drink, a sandwich, coffee or something?" Then she sits on her bottom without making a motion toward the kitchen? Shouldn't a hostess place the refreshments in front of her guests without any hemming and hawing? I know that 99 out of 100 people would really like to have something, but when it is put to them like this they say, "No, thank you, don't go to any bother."

OFTEN A GUEST

DEAR OFTEN: The hostess who "offers" refreshments in such a half-hearted gesture is hoping she'll be turned down because she's too lazy to move. Yes, the hostess who sincerely wants to serve her guests doesn't "inquire"—she acts.

DEAR ABBY: We have to do a "career book" for school and my chosen career is modeling. (Fashion modeling.) I have always wanted to be a model, Abby, and I don't think that is anything to be ashamed of. People snicker when I say I want to be a professional model as though modeling were not much of a profession. Some have even hinted that it isn't very respectable. Others say there is no future in it. I have been told I have the figure for it. I am 5 ft. 8 inches tall and weigh 112. I am 17 years old and have done some amateur modeling, and people in the fashion business have told me I am good. Will you please tell me the truth about modeling?

WANTS TO MODEL

DEAR WANTS: Modeling is a respectable profession. (It's the "part-time" models with sidelines that give it a bad name.) And as for the future: Grace Kelly, who married the Prince of Monaco, was a model. Does that answer your question?

CONFIDENTIAL TO G. S. J.: Your motives are admirable, but the man who doesn't have what it takes to ask for his own job rarely keeps it long.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Double-Breasted Suit Turns Out Single—Great

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I think your method of making bound buttonholes is the greatest yet, but I thought I'd let you know about the boo-boo I made. Perhaps it will help someone else. I just finished a new suit which was supposed to be double-breasted. Without thinking about this, I automatically made my buttonholes beginning at the centre front, instead of using the buttonhole marking shown on my pattern. Now I have a single-breasted suit, but I've learned a big lesson. I'll never again go ahead without checking details.

Mrs. M. B.

Dear Eunice:

I just love the new skirts with more ease in the front. My favorites are the ones with a centre front panel, slightly gathered in the centre front panel only. But why, oh why, do the skirts always have those pockets at the front? My stomach, as well as most women's, doesn't need emphasizing!

Mrs. B. G.

Dear Mrs. B. G.:

I, too, love the new skirt styles, with the extra ease for comfort as well as appearance. The pockets probably would look well only on a thin figure. You would need plenty of ease in the skirt or they would bulge out in front when you sit down. This type of skirt would be just as attractive if the pockets were eliminated. Stitch on the seamline, continuously from the hem to the waist.

BE SMART—

They're irresistible . . . like cookies in Grandma's cooky jar . . . and they disappear from the stores as fast, too! The Granny dresses, what else? Teen-agers love them anywhere . . . adult girls love their old-fashioned charm for at-home anytime.

don't skimp on the dry cleaning

You've bought a new suit. Smart, fashionable, expensive—and spotlessly clean.

A few weeks from now it will still look as good as new. But there will be one big difference.

From the day you take it home, unseen particles of dust begin to collect around the fibres. Dust attracts grime and shelters bacteria. Gradually it grinds its way in and the longer it stays the more damage it does. It weakens the weave, lessens the durability of the cloth.

Ordinary dry cleaning will remove most of this life-stealing dust and grime. But Daisy-Fresh Dry Cleaning (exclusive to Nelsons-New Method) will remove all of it. In effect, every time your new suit or any other clothing is dry cleaned by Nelsons-New Method it is restored to the same spotless condition it was on the day you bought it. It will stay cleaner, last longer, keep fresher.

So whatever you do, if you take pride in your wardrobe and want to protect your investment, don't skimp on the dry cleaning. Make it a promise to send your clothes regularly to Nelsons-New Method.

DEPENDENTS TO SPLIT $1.3 MILLION AWARD

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. has agreed to a $1,300,000 settlement in the deaths of 17 miners at the firm's potash mine at Moab, Utah, a federal judge said Monday.

Eighteen miners were killed two years ago when an explosion ripped through the mine, near the Four Corners area where Utah, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona meet. A lawyer said one of the miners had no dependents.

Judge Willis W. Ritter said Texas Gulf lawyers agreed $1,312,000 is to be distributed among 17 widows and their 49 children. Four of the 17 widows live in Canada.

Delbert M. Draper, a lawyer for the widows, said the money will be parcelled on a formula based on the number of children in a family, projected wages and ages.

Strength at Ottawa Advocated by Roblin

TORONTO (CP) — A plea for a strong central government, one able to carry out maximum response to the changes of the 1960s, was voiced today by Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba.

In a speech to the Canadian Club he said criticism had been heard that federal leaders sometimes differed while porvincial leaders "make off with the realm."

But federal-provincial considerations responded in the first degree to the need for national survival, said Mr. Roblin. Some provinces, including Manitoba, would not have survived at all without help given by a strong central government.

He asked for an urgent determination of national priorities.

"Maximum upgrading of human resources is the greatest problem as we cope with the rolling revolution of the second half of this century."

Learning When to Keep Silent Part of Toastmaster Training

By GLEN ALLEN

A group of would-be orators meets every week in Victoria to learn how and when to keep quiet.

It isn't easy, Victoria Toastmasters have learned, to say just what you have to say.

"The gift of the gab isn't enough," says president of Toastmasters Thunderbird No. 39 John Fraser. "The aim of the Toastmaster program is to have people talk as well and as precisely as they can. It's as simple as that."

Thunderbird Toastmasters made it look simple Monday at the Empress Hotel. They spoke about tin cans, the desirability of shorter or longer skirts for women and the uses of voting by referendum.

They spoke lucidly, clearly, often with wit.

One notable couclusion to an impromptu treatment of the subject Domestic Finance was "I let my wife handle the money. She can have the ulcers and I'll be happy as I am."

BASIC COURSES

Newer members of the club are trained through practice and the advice of their elders. They take several basic courses in composition and delivery.

They learn how to make a table-thumping speech or a quiet earnest one. They learn how to use their eyes and their hands, how to modulate their voices and use unfamiliar words.

"Above all" says Mr. Fraser, "we learn to have confidence in our own abilities. And that's the greatest battle."

Toastmaster is International.

"It's in every country where speech is free," says Mr. Fraser. "The first meeting was in a man's basement, and not all that long ago."

"It's organization is based on the assumption that men can teach each other to speak well."

Speakers evaluate each other. A general evaluator evaluates the evaluators.

BUZZZER SIGNAL

"The only non-human thing about our meetings is the buzzer that goes off when a member is talking too long," he said.

There weren't many buzzers Monday night.

Miners Reject Pact

SANTIAGO (AP)—Union leaders, in a surprise move, rejected Monday night the government's proposals to end a strike that has paralyzed Chile's copper industry for more than a month.

Owned By State

ROME (AP)—Cuba's delegate to the world conference of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization said Monday that 70 per cent of all his country's land now is owned by the state. Mario Garcia Inchaustegui, director of the international organizations department of the Cuban ministry of foreign trade, told the FAO the remaining land belongs to small farmers.

Naval Park Project Backed by Esquimalt

Esquimalt council Monday night endorsed a plan for establishing a naval park at Esquimalt Road and Lyall Street.

Capital Improvement District Commission informed council the proposed Naval Centennial Park project has been approved by the provincial cabinet.

The CIDC will pay a maximum of $35,000 towards the park. Esquimalt will maintain and operate it.

The municipality will obtain a 99-year lease for the lands from the Department of National Defence.

The park will have a 50-foot monument featuring a plaque inscribed with the names of all the naval ships which have used the harbor in the past 100 years.

SPCA ASKS BOOST

In other business council referred a request by the SPCA for an increase in contract rates to the Inter-municipal Committee.

The SPCA is making the request "in the light of increased costs." The society says its taxes over the years have climbed from $700 to $2,100 and its wage bill has increased by $4,000.

LEN WILSON

Physical Fitness Director

Says . . .

There are not many 95-pound weaklings left. Most Canadians suffer from the opposite, too many push-buttons and conveniences—most of the physical weaknesses come from the overly-blubbered, the puffed and the flabby, who seldom do more exercise than drive the car around the block.

Yet it's not hard to get back in good physical condition; all it takes is desire and a little will power. Palm Springs and European Health Club lets you enjoy your road back to fitness in luxurious surroundings—with only the latest and most modern methods—also such relaxing pleasures as Hot Mineral Swirlpool, Finnish Sauna Baths, Ultra Violet Sun Room, Steam Baths and many other facilities.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

"The Saskatchewan," the first of a series of 12 one-hour-long specials being shown as a prelude to the Canadian Centennial, proved that the Prairies of Western Canada can be a lonely place.

Stephen

The CBC-TV production pointed this up without a shadow of a doubt in one of the best studies of Canadian locales seen to date.

It surpassed even the National Film Board's motion picture, "The Drylanders," in painting a portrait of an area of Canada so few have seen.

Jack Long's masterful camera work brought the areas of the Prairies, from the Bow River Valley in the Rockies, to The Pas, Man., into clear perspective.

The eerie sounds of the whistling Prairie winds, the swirling dust and lines etched on the faces of long-time residents told their own story.

There was gaiety provided in Calgary by youngsters dancing on a rooftop or bathing along the river, but I'm sure there was more life in Mudville the night Casey struck out at bat than there was along the main street of Elbow, Sask.

It showed that life on the Prairies has not been all one big bowl of cherries.

But things are beginning to take on a rosier hue with the construction of the mammoth Saskatchewan River dam. It should assure future prosperity needed in a country that tore the heart out of people bent on existence alone.

It is here Daryl Duke's production proved the worthy starter in this series of Centennial specials.

For no matter what has been created in the past, there is a brighter future in a young country growing prodigiously though not yet 100 years old.

Kudos, too, to Ian Tyson, whose narration and newly-composed music added the touch needed for the tour.

Another bright note was added to viewing on CBC-TV earlier the same evening with the showing of the musical-fantasy, Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, for the youngsters.

The complete capture of the attention of the two moppets in our house was proof that the program, seen the second time since 1963, was indeed a success.

Why, though, could it not have been held back for showing on an evening nearer Christmas? This, like the much-to-early Christmas decorations on the streets and in the stores, provided the only sour note.

APPEAL COURT RULING

Police Union Chief Told to Stand Trial

VANCOUVER (CP)—The right of the police commission to try the president of the police union for moving a vote of non-confidence in the chief constable in a closed union meeting was upheld Monday by the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

Mr. Justice Victor Dryer upheld the right by quashing part of an injunction obtained last week that stopped a hearing into the actions of Ronald Magill.

But the justice left for future debate in the courts another section of the injunction which prohibits senior police officers from compelling union members to break the oath of secrecy they took when they joined the union.

Legal authorities said the outcome of the argument will be watched by unions across Canada because it deals with the question whether a union member can refuse a management order on the grounds it violates a union rule he has taken his oath to uphold.

At a union meeting Nov. 2 Magill moved a motion on non-confidence in Chief Ralph Booth and deputy chief John Fisk. The motion was not dealt with at that meeting.

REVEAL DETAILS

Shortly afterwards several union members were paraded before Supt. B. W. Jelley and were formally asked to reveal details of the meeting.

Magill was subsequently charged with violating the police code and was ordered to appear before the commission last week. An hour before the hearing the injunction halting it was obtained.

H. A. D. Oliver, union lawyer, said the commission and its officers or agents broke the B.C. Labor Relations Act. He said there was illegal interference with the administration of the union as a result of attempts to "induce and intimidate" union members into revealing union affairs. Members were being asked to break their oath of secrecy.

John Farris, representing the commission, said in his application to set the injunction aside Magill's non-confidence motion could in no way be considered union business and the commission had the right to take disciplinary measures.

Under the city charter the commission had the right to take sworn evidence at disciplinary hearings and policemen appearing before those hearings had the same obligation to answer questions as they would in a court of law.

Mr. Justice Dryer said he had "not overlooked" labor's right to complain about the quality of management but added "I do not think that members of a disciplined force should comment on the quality of management in this way."

Burned Shirt Covered Head Of Nude Girl

NANAIMO — A burned shirt and slacks were found over the head of a 16-year-old girl whose nude body was found July 22.

A folder of matches was also found entangled in the hair of Martha Violet Jones, Cpl. Robert Dean of Nanaimo told an Assize Court jury here Monday.

He was testifying at the non-capital murder trial of Jackson Ginger, 25.

Ginger is charged with the slaying of Miss Jones last July.

The girl's naked body was found near CPR tracks at Port Alberni.

Cpl. Dean said Miss Jones had a nylon stocking around her neck when found.

When he removed it, dark bruises were found near her jugular vein, he said.

Various articles of her underclothing were found near the body.

Nanaimo pathologist Dr. Stanley Grant testified there was a deep groove in Miss Jones' neck and there were burn marks on her shoulder.

The trial is being heard before Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan, with Tom Berger, Vancouver, as defence counsel and Ted Strongitharm appearing for the Crown.

Certain Abortions Should Be Legalized

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The American Medical Association was urged Sunday to endorse abortion and sterilization under certain conditions—and to call for uniform state laws regarding those two subjects and the allowance of contraceptive information.

A report asking that the AMA go on record as recommending amendments to state laws concerning contraception, abortion and sterilization, "so as to reclect medical conscience and public opinion," was submitted to the organization's policy-making house of delegates at the opening of the AMA's clinical convention.

The report, prepared by the organization's committee on human reproduction, was formally submitted to the delegates by the AMA's board of trustees which endorsed it.

The document was immediately referred to a reference committee which will make its recommendation—either for endorsement or disapproval — to the house Wednesday.

The action was urged at a time when various health officials have said that more than 1,000,000 abortions are being performed illegally in the United States annually — although all states except Louisiana allow "therapeutic" abortions under certain conditions, many of them varying from state to state.

RC Bishops Condemn Smith Action

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Rhodesia's five Roman Catholic bishops Sunday condemned the Ian Smith government's seizure of independence from Britain, Johannesburg's Rand Dail Mail says in a report from its Salisbury correspondent.

In a pastoral instruction, the bishops, headed by the archbishop of Salisbury, most Rev. F. W. Markall, accused Prime Minister Smith of making "a hideous mockery" of the words "Christian and Western civilization," the South African newspaper reports.

The bishops said civilization in Rhodesia could only be defended by recognition of individual dignity, irrespective of race.

Biblical Revision

VATICON CITY (Reuters) —Pope Paul has set up a new commission to revise the Vulgate, the Latin version of the Bible, it was learned today.

Trial Postponed

WINNIPEG (CP) — The case against Steven Kenis, accused of possessing an illicit still, was postponed today. "Your worship, I think this man is intoxicated," said the clerk of the court." . . . there is a distinct smell of homebrew." Kenis was led away under a charge of being drunk in a public place—provincial magistrate's court.

Admiral Inspects Weapons Range Near Nanaimo

Rear-Admiral M. G. Stirling, flag officer Pacific Coast, today inspected the RCN's underwater weapons range near Nanaimo.

The range is located at Winchelsea Island, northeast of Nanoose Harbor.

The admiral and a party of five journeyed to the island in a Beaver aircraft which took off from a float at HMCS Naden.

Accompanying him were Commodore R. M. Battles, commodore superintendant, Pacific; Lieut.-Cmdr. G. W. Baker, manager of civilian engineering at HMC Dockyard; Lieut.-Cmdr. Ward Palmer, officer-in-charge of the navy's diving unit; Lieut.-Cmdr. Ralph Newstead, officer-in-charge of the underwater weapons range and flag lieutenant A. R. Horne.

Boy, Girl Shot; Murder-Suicide Try Alleged

OSOYOOS, B.C. (CP)—Police described as attempted murder-suicide the fatal shooting of a 20-year-old boy and the wounding of a girl the same age during the weekend.

Valentine Locke died of bullet wounds while he was being taken to hospital. Police had found him lying in the middle of the road.

Glenna Johnson suffered two shoulder wounds. She was in a parked car in a driveway with Melvin Heidt, 20, also of the Osoyoos area, when she was shot.

She was in satisfactory condition in hospital Sunday.

Police seized a .22-calibre pistol.

PENSION PLAN FOR NEW TYPE WAR VICTIMS

ROME (AP) — A bill was before the Italian legislature today to give lifetime pensions to at least 60,000 Italian women who were reported raped by soldiers during the Second World War.

The proposal, introduced in the Chamber of Deputies by Monarchist Alfredo Covelli, estimated the pensions would cost the government 5,000,000,000 lire ($8,500,000) a year.

Covelli's bill said the women should be pensioned as victims of war even if he criminal assault did not cause pregnancy, disease or lasting psychological shock.

The bill referred to rape victims of "armed forces operating" in Italy, without specifying Allied or Axis armies.

Restroom Smoking Ban Lifted

DENVER (AP)—A smoking ban extending even to restrooms and parking lots was modified Monday at the Samsonite Corp., only four hours after it went into effect.

Jesse Shwayder, 83, chairman of the board who issued the order in a letter to employees last Wednesday, announced he had changed his mind.

However, a no-smoking ban in working areas will remain in effect as a safety measure. It has been in effect for nearly 20 years because of the use of inflammable materials.

Shwayder said in a statement "the suggested no-smoking regulation will not be enforced because of my great concern for the viewpoints as well as the welfare of my employees."

He had said earlier the prohibition also was ordered at company plants at Murfreesboro, Tenn., and Loveland, Colo.

He lifted the ban after the United Rubber Workers Union protested.

In ordering the ban, Shwayder, who quit smoking 15 years ago, cited insurance company statistics saying that $10,000,000,000 is lost to American families annually because of the premature deaths of wage earners as a result of smoking.

School Report Pages Feature Student Art

Art students of Oak Bay Senior Secondary School were major contributors to this year's annual report of the Greater Victoria School Board.

The students, under the direction of their art teacher, William D. West, produced black and white designs to accompany articles which convey the mental climate of the school year.

The report itself is a departure from the form of previous years, said school board chairman John Porteous.

The report consists of two parts. To produce part one, a reassessment of values, teams of writers collaborated with school officials to convey the mental climate of the school year.

The second part contains figures about each deparmtent.

Triple theme of the report is action, re-action and interaciton.

District superintendent John Gough said in his report the school year featured new projects.

Among these:

- Family life education program.
- Saturday morning tuition classes.
- Development of 103 vocational teaching areas.
- Provision of equipment for new curriculum.

Mr. Gough said a highlight of the board's activity involved continuing building projects in the face of rising construction costs.

Other articles included a foreward look at teaching, by assistant district superintendent J. Chell; a playlet stating the importance of creativity in education; and articles dealing with the curriculum.

U.S. Holding Defector Against Will?

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has accused the United States of preventing a Soviet defector from returning home and has lodged a protest through the Soviet embassy in Washington with the state department, the news agency Tass said Monday.

The defector, smelter worker Gregory Sarapushkin, 29, landed in a walrus-skin boat on the Alaska coast Aug. 7. With him was another smelter worker from Laurentia in Soviet Siberia, Peter Kalishenko, 35.

U.S. accounts said they at first asked to return home, then changed their minds, choosing to remain in the United States. They explained their decision in Anchorage to Vitautas M. Zenuevichus, second secretary of the Soviet embassy in Washington, who went to see them.

Tass Saturday broke Soviet press silence on the case by reporting that Sarapushkin recently tried three times to meet a member of the Soviet embassy in order to arrange for his repatriation. Tass did not mention Kalishenko.

The news agency maintained Sarapushkin turned up in Alaska "as a result of a calamity at sea."

City Participates In Oxfam Campaign

Hundreds of Victoria men and women are now helping to raise $5,500,000 a year to help feed the hungry peoples of the world.

They are supporters of a local committee set up 18 months ago on behalf of the Oxford Committee for Famine Relief—popularly known as OXFAM.

"Our task is to fight famine and hunger in more than 90 countries," said Henry Fletcher, international director of OXFAM, now visiting Victoria from his headquarters in Oxford, England.

"While we distribute huge quantities of food every year, this is no more than temporary relief. The only real remedy lies in teaching and equipping hungry peoples to produce more food.

"The need becomes more urgent every year with the frightening increase in the world's population."

In Victoria Mr. Fletcher has been conferring with Robin Skelton, president and member of the local committee, on ways and means of raising funds for OXFAM.

BETTER CROPS

Mr. Fletcher said OXFAM is extending its operations in Mexico and South America, where there is widespread poverty. It is also arranging loans to farmers in Rhodesia to help them raise better crops.

"So far the political situation in Rhodesia has not interferred with our operations, but there is a danger we may run into difficulties soon."

OXFAM was started in England 23 years ago to aid starving children in Greece. Today it is a permanent international charity which last year raised more than $5,000,000 and contributed to more than 40 projects in 75 different countries.

One of its cheif aims is to establish agricultural colleges where farmers can be trained to improve production. Their wives are encouraged to take courses in economics, nutrition and food preparation.

"We have had encouraging results," Mr. Fletcher said, "but overall we are fighting a losing battle against hunger. It is a battle between famine, war and disaster and the daily increase in the world's population."

BRIDGE RESULTS

Winning pairs of the Victoria Unit of the American Contract Bridge League games played Saturday at the Broughton Building were:

Funeral Wednesday For Heroic Sealer

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. at McCall Bros. Chapel for one-time sealer Louis Morell of Sooke.

The 91-year-old Victoria native died Sunday in Veterans' Hospital.

He spent his early days on sealings schooners which operated out of Victoria.

Mr. Morell became a hero in 1937 when he rescued a neighbor's family when their Rocky Point home was rocked by a coal oil explosion.

The explosion sent the neighbor woman racing from her home in flames.

Mr. Morell grabbed a blanket from her kitchen and smothered the flames then went into the burning home and rescued her two children.

The woman died 12 hours later.

AWARD

For his bravery, Mr. Morell received a Royal Humane Society decoration.

He is survived by a neice, Mrs. Lilliam Maria Jones, and two nephews, Frederick and Edward Minnie, all of Victoria.

The Wonderful World of Animals

By DR. FRANK MILLER

In the spirit of the season, there is frequently the temptation of gift wrap that new puppy, kitten or other pet. Kittens have suffocated when stuffed into a small box, or been strangled by pretty red ribbons tied around their necks. Birds have escaped when boxes were opened by the unsuspecting. (Always leave new birds in a cage, properly protected from drafts and temperature extremes.)

A small puppy can safely be presented in a large box (with air holes if the lid it down). There are many advantages to this method as it gives the puppy sanctuary and keeps him out of trouble at the same time. For those few planning to wrap a reptile, most of them — turtles excepted — are escape artists and require strict security measures. (Of course such precautions are unnecessary for that large percentage of reptiles who are "busy" hibernating this time of year.)

Rodents cannot long be successfully confined to gift boxes made of cardboard and are best confined in their proper cage from the beginning. Fish, too, are obviously better off when allowed to remain in their tank or bowl. (Watch water temperature.) For those of you contemplating a gift-wrapped equine under the tree — go to it . . . Lots of luck!

DEAR DR. MILLER: My 10-year-old tom cat, Rip, is always scratching his ears. They get quite black inside. The veterinarian once said it was ear mites. But he keeps getting them back. He tries to wash them out himself but can't do a very good job. Is there anything I can do myself to clear them up?

— G.F.

DEAR G.F.: The D.V.M. would have to clean the ears out the first time, otherwise medication couldn't penetrate the waxy plugs to reach all the mites. Once properly cleaned (and Rip can't do the job right no matter how hard he tries), the ears can be treated at home to prevent recurrence. The doctor can show you how to treat around the ears as well as other possible areas that might be sources of reinfestration. (Treatment could be complicated by a secondary bacterial infection. In this case, there would usually be actual drainage from the ear, and probably considerable odor.)

★ ★ ★

DEAR DR. MILLER: I just found that my big package of birdseed has weevils in it. Can I kill them by sterilizing the seed in the oven?

— R.F.

DEAR R.F.: Yes, a temperature of 140 degrees for 30 minutes will kill the pests. (They may be true weevils, small beetles, or moth larvae.) Unfortunately, the combined attack of "weevils" and heat will greatly reduce the value of the seed. While it is adequate as an extra snack for wild birds, your caged kids better have a fresh supply.

DEAR DR. MILLER: For future reference, how big a shot of penicillin is good for a salt water tank? I have heard this is the thing to use if I have any more trouble with tail rot in my cowfish. Is this right?

— J.B.

DEAR J.B.: Because tail rot in the sea aquarium is commonly caused by bacteria, antibiotics definitely are indicated for treatment. Penicillin is best combined with streptomycin and chloromycetin. Add 100 mg. of each to the tank per gallon of water. This single dose will last seven to 10 days. (Cowfish are encased by "armor-plating" and present a poor target for a needle anyway.)

★ ★ ★

DEAR DR. MILLER: One of my dog's favorite treats is plain bread or toast. He is getting somewhat heavy and I wondered if toast has more or fewer calories than plain bread?

— E.D.

DEAR E.D.: The number of calories in a slice of bread is the same, whether plain or toasted.

★ ★ ★

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have been offered a parrot but am afraid to take him because he feels so light. His chest is narrow but the owner says this kind of parrot is built this way. How do I tell if he is naturally streamlined or just a skinny bird?

— H.H.

DEAR H.H.: A parrot with a prominent breastbone is malnourished, not modern. It could be a simple case of malnutrition, but a specific infectious disease may be involved. Don't invest in this featherweight unless a local veterinarian gives his approval.

★ ★ ★

DEAR DR. MILLER: Napoleon, our male cat, has gone mad! He showed up with a young kitten the other day and has been smothering it ever since. We feed the baby from a bottle, but Napoleon lies contentedly while it tries to nurse him. Isn't this crazy? I once had a male cat that killed any kitten it could find, and have heard of others doing that too.

— A.A.

DEAR A.A.: Some male cats (more than you might suspect) make good fathers. (True, very few make good mothers.) It would be difficult to determine whether this behavior is due to a strong sense of responsibility or a weak batch of hormones. In any event, as long as you are now stuck with the kitten, you may as well accept whatever help Napoleon has to offer.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Lynn Diemer, age 16, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, for her question:

Which is the biggest native cat of the New World?

Biologists suspect that the fur-coated cats originated in the polar regions. But long ago they left their chilly homes and found more comfortable quarters for themselves. Cats, of course, are creatures of comfort and most of them settled in the kindly climates of the tropics and semi-tropics.

All the members of the catty family Felidae are meat-eating carnivores. They are well armed with tooth and claw and as hunters there are none to match them. Like all animals, these prowlers must live where they can make a living—and the giant cats must live near sizable game animals. The lions of a neighborhood are far out-numbered by the plant-eating animals on which they feed. For if a region becomes over-populated with lions, the game dwindles and the lions starve.

The cats, large and small, tend to keep to their own hunting grounds. In the New World jungles, the little ocelot may hunt high in the trees while the giant jaguar takes larger game nearer the ground. In the Old World, the tiger rules in Asia and the lion is lord of Africa. The big cats seem to have parceled out the hunting grounds of the world between them. In the wild state, the lion and the tiger rarely if ever come face to face.

The lion and the tiger are bigger, but not much bigger than two native cats of the New World. One is our honey-colored mountain lion, alias the puma. He is a hunter of the rocky mountain slopes, the deserts and open prairies. His range extends from Patagonia northward to western Canada. The other is the spotted jaguar, who does his hunting in the jungles of South and Central America.

New World's Largest Cat

The body of the agile puma may be five feet long, plus three feet of catty tail. The jaguar has a five-foot body plus only two feet of catty tail. Measured from the nose to the tip of the tail, the puma may be a foot longer, but the 300-pound jaguar outweighs him by about 40 pounds. There is more of the jaguar and hence he can claim to be the largest of the New World's native cats.

The big jungle cat is spotted like the Old World leopard and may equal the weight of two leopards. However, a lion or tiger may measure nine feet and the tiger may weigh 500 pounds. The biggest lion is 550 pounds which equals the weight of a pair of jaguars.

The Old World leopard and the New World jaguar look like a pair of brothers. The ground color of their furry coats is buff and their black spots are arranged in round rosettes. Sometimes a pair of spotted parents give birth to a jet black cub. This black panther may be the offspring of Old World leopards or New World jaguars.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Larry Harder, age 12, of St. James, Manitoba, Canada, for his question:

Why does dead wood glow in the dark?

Many substances living or non-living have a talent for glowing with a spooky light in the dark. When certain sulfide minerals are placed under a bright lamp, they glow in the dark with colored phosphorescent light. Some substances can make invisible ultraviolet rays give visible light. This quality is called fluorescence.

Certain plants and animals give off their own light in the dark and this talent is called bioluminescence. Certain bacteria give off a blue glow. Certain bioluminescent fungi give off their own yellow light. These non-green plants are likely to set up housekeeping in logs and rotting wood. During the day, their pale light is lost in dazzling sunlight. But after sunset, they make the old wood glow in the darkness.

The firm has christened its newest refrigerated ocean-going vessel The Okanagan Valley, in honor of the interior fruit producing area.

The ship is about 6,000 tons deadweight and has a carrying capacity of 300,000 cubic feet.

B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. made presentations to have the cargo-carrier named after the Okanagan when the ship was still on drawing boards in 1964.

Experts Probe Sexual Response

By WICK TEMPLE

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Twelve years of sex research by two scientists at Washington University here may provide answers to what they call some of the most perplexing problems of the 20th century.

Dr. William H. Masters, a gynecologist, and his assistant, Mrs. Virginia Johnson, will publish a book early next year on their findings in the heretofore unexplored field of human sexual response.

Just as Alfred C. Kinsey explored sex statistically they have explored it physiologically, in the laboratory, with 690 volunteers.

Some of the problems to which their research may find answers are the sex life of older persons, sexual inadequacy, and a safe sex life for cardiac and hypertension patients. They say they also have developed the first natural contraceptive that can be injected.

"The most important thing to come out of this research is knowledge that human sexual response can be directly investigated," Masters said.

TELL 'HOW' OF SEX

Kinsey's research answered questions on the what and why of sex. The research of the Washington University team answers the "how" questions.

"Medicine has never before tackled the problem of what happens to the body during sexual experience," Masters said.

The volunteers, primarily married couples from a cross section of the population of this metropolitan area, are carefully screened and interviewed. Half are rejected. Those accepted attend orientation sessions with Masters and Mrs. Johnson.

During the research, the team has treated frigidity and impotence, which Masters calls basic factors of divorce. Results of these treatments will not be announced until the scientists have completed five-year histories of a meaningful number of patients.

The laboratory contains color movie cameras and considerable scientific apparatus, including electrocardiographs and brain - wave and biochemical equipment.

After observing 7,500 female sexual stimulations and 2,500 in men, the team believes it now can advise doctors what to tell cardiac patients about their sex lives. They can tell members of the growing "over 50" population that they can have normal sexual experience. They can advise pregnant women on sexual problems.

In their study of conception and contraception, the researchers said they discovered a sperm-killing vaginal substance in certain women. When injected, it kills sperm in 10 seconds, Masters said. Since this would be a natural contraceptive substance, Masters believes it might meet some religious objections.

Masters, 50 and bald, did pioneer work in sex steroid field before beginning research on sexual response. He is married and has two children. Mrs. Johnson, 40, studied psychology and sociology but has no advanced degree. She has two children, was divorced a year before she joined the research group.

Masters and Mrs. Johnson, with the aid of dozens of scientists and St. Louis civic leaders, have founded the Reproductive Biology Research Foundation, a non-profit agency financed by private donations and grants.

Their book to be published in April is entitled Human Sexual Response. A second book, Human Sexual Inadequacy, will include their findings on frigidity and impotence.

Mrs. Virginia Johnson and Dr. W. H. Masters study frigidity.

OAS MAY INCORPORATE ALLIANCE

Hemisphere Pact Change Studied

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The conference of 19 American republics ends today after laying the groundwork for a sweeping overhaul of the inter-American system.

Chief U.S. delegate Averell Harriman said the meeting's most significant action was a proposal to incorporate into the charter of the Organization of American States the social and economic principles of the Alliance for Progress.

The conference early today approved by acclamation an "economic and social act of Rio de Janeiro" containing a series of proposed amendments to the OAS charter. It is a companion to political recommendations approved Sunday.

Both will be submitted to another conference in Buenos Aires next July for incorporation into the OAS charter.

The act states that "it is essential to incorporate into the economic and social fields of the inter-American system, as juridically binding, principles of mutual security, solidarity, co-operation and assistance.

The act calls for more equitable distribution and better use of land, better cities, stable prices and an end to inflation, fair prices and access to markets for exporters; reduction in barriers to trade, and economic integration of the hemisphere with a Latin American common market as the goal.

For the first time the more developed nations of the hemisphere will have a binding obligation to aid their less advanced neighbors.

The act also calls on all OAS members to refrain from carrying out any economic policy likely to affect another member adversely.

The act urges joint action to beat down barriers against Latin American products abroad.

The next hurdle for the proposals in the act will be a conference in Panama City early next year at which amendments to the 17-year-old OAS charter will be drafted. If these are adopted by the foreign ministers in July, they will be submitted to the legislatures of the OAS nations for ratification.

The political proposals approved Sunday are designed to strengthen the OAS machinery. They include annual inter-American meetings and creation of political, economic and social, and educational and cultural councils for the organization.

Diplomats at the conference agree that the meeting marked a major turning point in hemisphere relations.

Pair Charged In Coquitlam Bank Robbery

COQUITLAM (CP) — RCMP Sunday charged two men in the $5,900 holdup of a branch of the Toronto - Dominion bank here Friday.

Police said about $3,000, believed part of the bank loot, was recovered.

Charged with armed robbery is Robert Lewis, arrested during the weekend in Penticton.

Arnold Johnson, arrested in Coquitlam, is charged with possession of stolen property.

Both were to appear in police court this morning.

A warning shot was fired by one of two men, masked and armed, during the robbery of the bank branch in a crowded shopping centre here.

Six customers were made to lie on the floor while two women tellers were ordered by one of the men to empty their tills.

The men escaped in a stolen car that was later recovered.

Censorship Eased By Smith Regime

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Censorship in Rhodesia, imposed when Premier Ian Smith's white-minority regime seized independence from Britain two weeks ago, appears to be relaxing.

Both daily newspapers, the Rhodesian Herald in Salisbury and The Chronicle in Bulawayo, appeared on the weekend without any of the blank spaces which have indicated the censor's cuts in the last two weeks.

Most of the cuts had been of items referring to world reaction to the Smith government's independence proclamation. All reference to Sir Humphrey Gibbs as British-appointed governor of Rhodesia were deleted.

The censors still are at work in the newspaper offices, however, although more and more world news about Rhodesia is appearing.

Outgoing press reports are not censored. But many correspondents are having difficulty in pre-paying press cables since the withdrawal of collect facilities a few days after the seizure of independence.

Rhodesian Negroes Have a Long Wait

OSLO (Reuters)—A prominent Negro nationalist in Rhodesia is quoted as saying he does not think a Negro-majority Rhodesian government would be established for a long time—either in Salisbury or in exile.

Enoch Dumbutshena, journalist, lawyer and life-long friend of restricted Rhodesian nationalist leader Joshua Nkomo, is reported to have told the newspaper Dagbladet's Salisbury correspondent he does not think such a government would bt formed in white-minority Premier Ian Smith's lifetime.

"The sanctions against Rhodesia must be 100-per-cent effective; if not they will be of no use. Britain does not intend to make them effective and we Africans (Negroes) think we have been deceived.

"It was wrong of the British to state immediately that they would not be sending troops. If they had done so, there would have been no resistance. We now have strong doubts that they will be sending troops and that goes for the other African states as well."

IN BANGKOK

Mother, Daughter Reunited by Story

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) A news dispatch from the United States and a newspaper man's memory reunited a worried American mother and her runaway 16-year-old daughter in Bangkok Monday.

The girl, Mary Wilson, had slipped from the Encino, Calif., home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. George Wilson, Nov. 19. They believed she had gone to Bangkok to work for an orphanage.

Mrs. Wilson arrived in Bangkok early today to try to pick up her daughter's trail. Meanwhile, Alan Darby, a reporter at the English - language Bangkok Post read an Associated Press dispatch about the Pierra Foundation, a Bangkok orphanage.

Darby called the orphanage and learned Mary had been working there a week. He called the U.S. Embassy, by chance found Mrs. Wilson there and told where Mary was.

"I'm so thankful that she's safe and sound," said Mrs. Wilson after the reunion with her daughter. "She's a do-gooder and a rather religious girl."

Friends whisked the pair off to their home and refused to allow reporters to see them.

A spokesman at the Pierra Foundation said Mary came to the institute last Tuesday inquiring about adoption of a child.

She was asked to wait until an official of the foundation could be located but left before the official arrived.

She returned the next day with her luggage and after a conference with Dr. Pierra Vejabuo, head of the orphanage, moved into the establishment.

CENTENNIAL PROJECT

New Beach Planned at Ladysmith

By DON DINGWALL

LADYSMITH—The town's centennial project will likely be development of a new public beach.

Council learned Monday night Pacific Logging Ltd. is willing to sell 4½ acres at Transfer Beach for $12,000.

Mayor Kathleen Grouhel said after the meeting: "The centennial committee will be thrilled to know we can buy this land.

"Beach development will probably be the project now but it would have been difficult to apply centennial grants to leased land."

Ladysmith and Diamond expect a combined grant of $11,000.

The town's centennial committee has made it clear none of the grant can be spent on acquiring land.

The acreage in question has 500 feet of waterfront, and the total cost to council will include an extra $4,000 for demolition of Transfer Wharf.

Members reserved a decision on the sale offer which is good until the end of the year.

M. J. Ayers, manager of properties and development for Pacific Logging, gave council an assurance about plans for a sawmill.

He said: "All sawmills have to have burners but if we build at Ladysmith the burner will only be used in emergencies."

Pacific Logging, with T. W. Mackenzie Logging and Doman Industries have plans for a $300,000 sawmill in the town.

Council has still to give final approval to rezoning the site for industrial development.

But Mayor Grouhel said: "I think talk of council being against a sawmill can be dismissed as election gossip.

Council favors new industry if it's good for the town."

BIDS SOON ON DUNCAN FIRE TRUCK

DUNCAN—The city will get a new fire truck.

It will be an adidtion to the present fleet of two trucks and a rescue unit.

The volunteer fire department was given council authority Monday to invite bids.

City clerk Gordon Berry said the new truck will cost over $20,000.

With three pumping units the city fire department will have a capacity of 1,800 gallons a minute.

Motorist Absolved

DUNCAN—A coroner's jury here Monday absolved the driver in a Nov. 17 accident which took the life of Mrs. Alice Hillyard, 86.

Mrs. Hillyard was hit on Lakes Road when returning from her roadside mailbox.

She died in hospital eight hours later.

The driver was Kenneth Bjolverud, Campbell River.

Coroner Dr. Robert Wilson made a recommendation for greater care in posting speed-limit signs.

It was said at inquest the last sign Bjolverud met before the accident scene said "40-mph speed zone ends."

DUNCAN — Mayor Jack Dobson today called for a vigorous program of urban renewal and development of recreational facilities.

He was outlining his plans for his next two years as chief magistrate of the city.

UP-ISLAND, MAINLAND

Nematode Curbs Relaxed

The export ban has been lifted on nursery stock (with soil attached) for all farms on the mainland and most of Vancouver Island.

Plant protection officer Neville Mayers said Monday mainland nurserymen and those above the 49th parallel (Ladysmith) can now ship their nursery stock with soil to any part of Canada.

But the ban on exports of potatoes and other root crops is still in force, he said.

The ban was imposed by Ottawa this summer to prevent the spread of the golden nematode worm discovered in Saanich.

The plant quarantine was designed to protect Canada's export markets.

REDUCES CROPS

Nematodes attack the roots of potatoes, tomatoes and eggplants, causing a serious reduction in crops.

While the worm does not affect nursery stock, it can be carried in the soil in the roots of these plants. It is harmless to humans.

Mr. Mayers said no evidence of nematodes has been found in nurseries or on farms on the mainland or on the Island north of Ladysmith.

"A survey of nursery stock in these areas has been completed," he said. "But on south Vancouver Island soil-testing crews are still surveying farms."

PRETORIA HOTEL DUE TO REOPEN

LADYSMITH—Closed for five years, the Pretoria Hotel will be renovated at a cost of $35,000.

The hotel was closed because it did not meet the building requirements of the Liquor Control Board.

Owner Mrs. Nellie Chernenkoff told council Monday night plans called for complete renovation of the interior including a dining room.

Marshal's Coming! Guess Who's Worried?

LADYSMITH — Firemen here are keeping their fingers crossed.

The provincial fire marshal is due in town this week and there's a two-storey building without a fire escape.

It's the fire ball.

An escape is compulsory on two-storey buildings.

"It's just one of those things we hadn't got around to," commented Chief Harry Blair.

The need for a fire escape was still a secret until Monday night's council meeting.

Ald. Bernard Churchill said the fire committee is investigating cost of installing an escape ladder on the building.

"There's been no one pushing at us to get this second escape," added the chief.

DOT MAKES IT SIMPLE FOR NANAIMO SEAFARERS

NANAIMO—The Oregon Rock hazard, long-time navigational nemesis here, has been eliminated — transport department officials hope.

The hazard, submerged at high water, had been marked with a spar-buoy in previous years.

But pleasure craft and trollers continued to run aground despite the warning.

It has been regarded as the biggest navigation hazard in Nanamio Harbor.

Painted markings on the buoy indicated the side to pass the hazard.

Those who did not understand the markings usually got hung up.

So DOT oficials put traditional marine markings aside and placed a good old-fashioned arrow on a new day beacon.

The beacon was placed squarely on top of the hazard as a further safeguard.

The tricky underwater engineering job was completed recently by the crew of the Victoria-based buoy tender Sir James Douglas.

Now mariners will have to bump the beacon before they can get stranded.

'TEACH-IN' BEGINS

Great Debate On Medicare Looms Again

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Storm warnings of a major medicare controversy that will rock Canada, just as Saskatchewan was shaken in 1962, were sounded here Monday by medical men addressing the health services conference.

The great medicare debate which has been raging off and on, quietly but with increasing strength across Canada was transported to the main ballroom of the Chateau Laurier Hotel here.

An officer of the Canadian Medical Association and a commissioner of the Saskatchewan medical care plan put forward the opposing views.

There were no fireworks, no heated debate. Both men were soft spoken and set out their arguments for the health services teach-in sponsored by 21 national organizations.

Aim of the conference is to inform church, labor, private welfare and other groups about health issues and proposal for medical care insurance.

However the warnings of the great storm to come came through clearly.

The representatives of the 21 national organizations sponsoring the conference heard the warnings. But whether the storm can be averted only time will tell.

'Doctors Must Be Able to Opt Out'

Dr. Victor Goldbloom of Montreal, chairman of the economic policy committee of the CMA insisted that doctors must have the right to opt out of participation in any national or provincial medicare plan. He pointed out that the Saskatchewan program gave them that right, but the doctors there had to fight to get the right.

Only four per cent of the claims are being paid thorugh opting out arrangements in Saskatchewan said Dr. Goldbloom. He added: "As long as that door is left open—as long as doctors are free to walk out—they'll walk in. If you bar that door, they'll break it down to walk out.

"This," he said, "is the major lesson of Saskatchewan. If it is not learned we will be in danger of going through the same thing again and that would be very unfortunate for Canada."

'. . . A Lot of Nonsense Spoken'

Dr. Samuel Wolfe, medical director of the Saskatoon community clinic in Saskatchewan and a commissioner of the Saskatchewan medicare program opened fire with this statement:

"There has been a lot of nonsense spoken in recent years about government-sponsored medical care plans and their supposed evils."

He defended the government plan in Saskatchewan. And he said. "There is no reason why we in Canada cannot have the best of all medical worlds — a national plan run by the provinces, an intelligent and informed public and satisfied, self-governing health professions."

However Dr. Wolfe said that having lived through the Saskatchewan fight he was not naive enough to think that the medical services program can be implemented on a national scale without major conflicts—"conflicts between doctors and between the profession and the public."

Prof. E. F. Hastings, school of hygiene, University of Toronto, summed it up this way: "The skirmishing is by no means over and the sound and fury will rise to new crescendos in the months ahead."

B.C. Herds Hit Again By Pesticide Ruling

GRAND FORKS (CP)— For the second time in less than a year three Grand Forks farmers have been forbidden by the federal government to sell dairy products from their cattle because of a high level of pesticide in their milk.

The federal food and drug directorate announced in Ottawa Monday the pesticide chemical Dieldrin had been detected and the milk will be banned for human consumption.

The directorate did not name the farmers, but three farmers whose dairy products were banned last February admitted they were again at fault.

They are Les Hoodle, Rick deVries and Peter deHaan.

The directorate also did not say what caused the latest buildup of pesticide in the cattle. However, the first ban was blamed on Grand Forks area potatoes containing safe levels of pesticide, but fed in unusually large quantities to the cattle.

Mr. Hoodle said Monday night

SHOT OF COGNAC DOES TRICK

Divers Risk Death for Dog

TOULON, France (UPI)— Ten years ago a frolicsome puppy was born on the Italian freighter Marislava. The crew members named their new shipmate Ciucare.

The years passed and the spry collie grew old with the weatherbeaten ship as it lazily made its way from port to port through calm and stormy seas. It was home and she was happy.

Then on Saturday disaster struck. The ship ran aground on rocks off the southern coast of France, and the crewmen swam for their lives.

But Ciucare refused to abandon ship. How could she leave the only home she ever knew?

Hour after hour she stuck it out, cowering in the stove-in-aft cabin as angry waves pounded the ship's hull, breaking it apart.

On Sunday, skindivers fought their way through angry seas to the wreck to bring food to the whimpering, starving dog. But she refused to eat from unfamiliar hands.

The skindivers tried again, accompanied this time by a crew member. But again Ciucare refused to budge.

It was only after she was slipped a shot of Cognac that they were able to lasso her and toss her into the sea where the skindivers quickly rescued her and got her into a boat.

Sunday night—as the merciless waves pounded her old home to pieces — Ciucare wolfed down a dog's delight, a rescue dinner prepared especially for her by the chief at the Hotel Du Chateau where she is staying with her old shipmates from the Marislava.

BLUE AND GOLD windshield stickers will be issued with new British Columbia licence plates. Wendy Harris got hers in advance to demonstrate its use for a Times camera. The stickers commemorate the 100th anniversary of the union of the Crown colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia in 1866 and the centenary of Confederation which was declared in 1967. B.C. centennial planners hope every driver will wear his sticker so B.C.'s birthday events will be advertised, especially outside the province. Celebrations extend through both 1966 and 1967.

U.S. North Viet Bombing Fails to Halt Red Drive

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—On the basis of the Pentagon's stated objectives, the U.S. air war against North Viet Nam is far from a success after nearly 10 months.

Based on the same announced goals, there are some elements of failure.

These views are the consensus in discussions with qualified sources within and outside the U.S. government, and are supported in a study of other information available from the government.

A main objective of the bombings, which began last Feb. 7, was to cut down the flow of North Vietnamese soldiers and supplies into South Viet Nam.

The evidence, chiefly the government's own figures, shows that despite heavy battle losses Communist forces in South Viet Nam are stronger in numbers than ever before.

U.S. officials also believe the enemy has the capability of moving as many as four full divisions into South Viet Nam during the next six months.

Another major announced goal of the bombing was to prod the North Vietnamese into halt-

★ ★ ★ FREED SOLDIERS LAUD VIET CONG

PHNOM PENH (Reuters)— One of two American soldiers freed by the Viet Cong guerrillas as a gesture to anti-war groups in the United States said today the Saigon authorities were not the government in South Viet Nam.

"The Viet Cong, they are the people," Sgt. George Edward Smith told a press conference here.

Smith and Specialist Claude D. McClure were freed two days ago on the border between Cambodia and South Viet Nam.

They were captured when a Viet Cong battalion overran a special forces camp at Hiep Hoa, 33 miles northwest of Saigon, in 1963.

Smith, 27, from Chester, W.Va., added that he was against the war in Viet Nam because it did not conform with the interests of the American people.

WILL LEAVE SERVICES

Both he and McClure, 25, a Negro from Chattanooga, Tenn., said they planned to leave the services when they returned to the U.S.

They said they were treated well in captivity. McClure, wounded at the time of his capture, said he was fed in the same way as the Viet Cong fighters.

Their liberation was the direct result of protest movements in the U.S. against the war in Viet Nam, Smith said. They crossed the border from South Viet Nam and presented themselves to Cambodian authorities.

McClure said his captors cared for his wounds, shared their food with him and allowed him mail from his family and Red Cross packages.

McClure and Smith were captured with two other Americans in a Viet Cong attack on a special forces camp outside of Saigon Nov. 24, 1963.

ONE ESCAPED

One of the other Americans, Sgt. Isaac Camacho of El Paso, Tex., escaped last July. The fourth captive was Staff Sgt. Kenneth M. Roraback. The Communists said in September they had executed Roraback and another American prisoner, Capt. Humbert R. Verace of Baltimore, Md., in reprisal for the execution of three Communist sympathizers by the Saigon government.

McClure said the Viet Cong did not try to indoctrinate its prisoners. He said his captors gave him books to read and pa-

Nursing Home Care to Come Under BCHIS

U.K. TRIES TO ASSURE SOVIET ON N-ARMS

MOSCOW (UPI)—Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart today told the Russians that Britain is in favor of keeping all NATO nation fingers off the atomic trigger except the United States, Britain and France.

Stewart told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that recent plans for a multi-nuclear force put forward by the U.S. and Britain do not amount to proliferation of nuclear weapons—as the Russians charge.

Informed British sources said Gromyko refused to budge on the Soviet position that any nuclear agreement among NATO countries was tantamount to putting atomic weapons in the hands of the Germans.

NO OTHER TROOPS

Wilson Awaits Zambia's Word

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Wilson tonight held up the dispatch of Royal Air Force units to Zambia pending Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda's agreement that no other outside troops would be based in his country.

Informed sources said the key condition to military assistance for Zambia was that Kaunda reject offers of troops from members of the Organization of African Unity or other foreign countries.

Other conditions were the RAF jet fighters be kept away from the Rhodesian border and that they remain under control of the British government.

Informed sources said Wilson had planned to announce the dispatch of RAF units to Zambia but that at the time he still not had heard from Kaunda.

Malcolm MacDonald, Britain's roving ambassador in east and central Africa, arrived in Lusaka this morning to finalize plans for meeting Kaunda's request for British air force units.

Kaunda asked for military help to bolster his own defence and security forces and protect the power life line from the giant Kariba dam.

Wilson was also expected to state in parliament additional plans for tightening financial and economic sanctions aimed at forcing the collapse of the Rhodesian rebel government of Ian Smith.

Wilson discussed ways of tightening the screws on the Smith regime at an early meeting of top ministers comprising his Rhodesia committee.

Woman Slain

BURNABY (CP) — A woman was shot and killed on a parking lot near the Simpson's Sears department store in Burnaby today. Witnesses said a man got out of a car, shot the woman, then fled.

White Babies Wanted

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—A South African deputy minister has appealed to white married couples to celebrate South Africa's fifth anniversary as a republic in a special way—by having babies.

"You cannot celebrate the republic festival better next year than by giving a white child to this wonderful country of ours," said Michiel Botha, deputy minister of African (Negro) Administration and Development.

Botha, speaking at a white men's club, said:

"Our country needs more of us (whites). Our population can increase in only two ways — by immigration and by births. Let those who can help in this way."

U.K. Troops 'No Worry'

SALISBURY (Reuters) — The Rhodesian government is not concerned with Zambia's request for British troops to be sent to guard the Kariba dam on the Zambia-Rhodesian border, Prime Minister Ian Smith said today.

After a three-hour cabinet meeting, Smith said he and his ministers had not discussed the possibility of British troops being sent to Zambia.

Coverage To Start This Week

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Dollar-a-day hospital coverage will be enlarged to include "extended care" patients in designated nursing homes in B.C. starting Wednesday.

The long-awaited expansion, which will have a tremendous impact on some 3,000 persons directly and on the whole provincial hospital system indirectly, was announced by Health Minister Eric Martin this morning.

Most persons in nursing homes now pay between $200 and $400 a month, depending on services.

Those who meet the qualifications and are placed in the designated nursing homes by their doctors will pay only $30 a month on the average with B.C. Hospital Insurance Service paying the rest as it does for general hospital patients.

The new program will cost $3 million in the coming year while covering the first 1,000 persons and eventually will build up to an annual cost of about $10 million — split 50-50 between the federal and provincial governments. The BCHIS Act allows for expanded spending to cover these new costs.

Mr. Martin said only non-profit or "public" institutions will be designated for the coverage and not any commercial "private" hospitals or nursing homes.

In the Victoria area, an order-in-council designated 131 beds at Mount St. Mary, 999 Burdett, and 24 beds at Priory Hospital in Langford among a total of 570 beds in B.C. that will be covered immediately.

MORE BEDS

In addition, 50 beds at Veterans' Hospital are among another 450 beds in the province that will be designated "in the near future" (probably within two months), Mr. Martin said.

The Health Minister said hospitals and non-profit societies in 20 centres—including Duncan, Nanaimo, Port Alberni and Campbell River—now have approval-in-principle to build appropriate non-profit facilities containing another 950 beds and these should be in operation within a year.

Although there are no projects slated here, Victoria has 393 beds in five private hospitals and the Saanich Municipal Royal Oak Home with its planned addition that have suitable facilities.

The private hospitals are: Aberdeen, Richmond Heights, Sandringham, Glenwarren and Glengarry which have been built in the past three years to very high standards.

Mr. Martin said these could qualify for the BCHIS coverage if they become "public" institutions and his department would help financially if approved non-profit societies were

BOOBY-TRAP BOMB IN CHRISTMAS TREE

LIMA, Peru (Reuters) — A Lima resident bought a Christmas tree with blinking lights, plugged it in and a booby-trap bomb inside it blew up, damaging his house and putting him in hospital, police said Monday. They said some of the trees have been loaded with dynamite by extremists.

CHILDREN OF ASIA FUND

Hope Sags After Years of Hunger

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

It hurts to be hungry and without a home.

Thousands of people the world over accept this as a fact they know from first hand experience.

Many of them are restitute; they have no prospects in the present and no hope for the future.

Many of them are destitute; with only one parent or maybe none at all.

For the youngsters who beg in the streets of Asian cities; hunger and homelessness are nothing new.

A large number of them have known both since the day they were born.

And without help from agencies like the Unitarian Service Committee, they would have no chance of escaping from them during their lifetime.

Last July the USC launched its third decade of service not by celebrating with a big cake and candles and speeches, but by renewing its determination for another successful campaign.

In the past 20 years over 11 million pounds of relief supplies have gone overseas —powdered milk, clothes, codfish—to help the needy.

Every ounce has been distributed in the name of Canada to the most hungry, the most lonely and the most suffering.

But the human ties established by the USC between Canadians and people in other lands will be remembered most.

Concern and friendship and interest fo these people as well as the material aid are offered by the USC through your donations to the Times-sponsored Children of Asia fund.

Contributions to the fund may be sent in care of this newspaper, and cheques should be made payable to the Children of Asia Fund.

Donations are also being accepted at the Bank of Montreal Douglas and Yates.

his family continued to drink milk and eat meat from the affected cattle after the first ban in early February and suffered no ill-affects.

After the first ban, the federal and provincial governments purchased contaminated cattle from the three farms to help avert financial hardship for the farmers.

Thirty-six of the cows were sent to the federal agriculture experimental station in Agassiz. The government said the rest were disposed of in other ways.

COWS NOW SAFE

Only last month, the research station station declared the 36 cows free of contamination and safe to return to milk production. The station offered to sell the cattle back to their owners.

Dr. Mills Clarke of the experimental station said the 36 cows were fed a pesticide-free diet and the experiment gave the station a "unique opportunity" to study cattle contamination.

He said the result of the seven-month study would form a basis of a recommended cure for future cases of cattle contamination.

Monday's announcement of the second ban said that "the levels of the pesticide in the milk are considered to present a potential hazard to health if consumed over a long period of time."

E. L. Devlin, regional director for the food and drug administration, blamed the first ban on large quantities of potatoes fed to the cattle.

He said he did not mean that the potatoes themselves had large quantities of pesticide, but that the high levels of pesticide in the cattle resulted from the fact they were fed large numbers of potatoes—more than animals elsewhere in the country.

Dr. Nicholas Schmidt, the Trail medical officer, was critical of the latest ban. He said he has asked the B.C. deputy minister of health for a full investigation "to make sure such a closure doesn't happen again."

Monday's Ottawa announcement said the condition appeared to be a local one confined to "a few farmers in the Grand Forks area."

per for his letters. He didn't do much work in the camp.

Smith, 27, said he was told Nov. 21 that he was being freed. "I couldn't believe my ears."

Also at the press conference was Le Van Diep, identified as a special emissary of the Viet Cong.

He told the two Americans: "Your return to the United States is the prelude to the departure of American troops from South Viet Nam."

Reading a communique which he said was from the Viet Cong leadership, he said the decision to free the two men was "in conformity with the Viet Cong policy of clemency and a response to the friendly sentiments of the American people against the South Viet Nam war."

"The good discipline of the two prisoners" played a part in the decision to free them, he added.

Dief Asks U.S. Halt Air Raids

OTTAWA (UPI)—Opposition leader John Diefenbaker Monday blasted both the American and Canadian governments for keeping secret a North Viet Nam offer to negotiate a peace settlement.

He called for an immediate end to U.S. air attacks to allow for such negotiations.

Diefenbaker demanded a "full and frank" explanation of the North Vietnamese offer.

'Canada Has Doctors To Handle Medicare'

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Canada already has enough doctors to supply the needs that would result from a nation-wide medicare program, an economist told the working conference on medical services here Tuesday.

Prof. J. J. Madden of the economics department of social services at Guelph University, acknowledged that the national health plan if, and when it became operative, would lead to longer queues for physicians' services.

He said it might take a decade for certain present non-users of health services to catch up with the "demand pattern" of those whose incomes today enable them to utilize medical services without worrying about the bills.

(The Canadian Medical Association and other groups have warned that introduction in 1967 of the proposed medicare program will impose a heavy burden on the present trained personnel. They have argued for stepped up training programs so that trained men and women will be available before a nation-wide scheme is implemented.)

SHOULD BE SUBSIDIZED

Prof. Madden said, that those groups who have suggested the medical profession would not be able to meet the demand generated by the universal compreherisive program, have also stated that all persons should be able to buy health insurance and those who cannot should be subsidized.

"If all persons are to be put in a position to buy health insurance then the profession must be prepared to meet the demands generated by a universal insurance program whether this is public or private. If these demands cannot be met the substitution of a number of private insurance plans for a universal plan will not help," he said.

The economist said the experience of Saskatchewan indicated that the supply of physicians relative to population is as good or better than that of Saskatchewan.

Consequently he contended that no "serious problems should arise in these regions." Even in Newfoundland, where the supply of physicians is low Premier Smallwood believes that the program can be implemented, said Prof. Madden.

Error Made In Divorce List

In the Times of November 4, 1965, it was erroneously reported that Wilfred Doerges, of 573 Ridley Drive, Colwood, had been granted a divorce from Grace P. Doerges, of Vancouver, B.C.

Through an unfortunate error, the Doerges case was included in the list of divorces granted. This was entirely incorrect. No divorce was granted to Mr. Doerges.

In point of fact, Mrs. Doerges had filed a Statement of Defence to the action brought by her husband and the trial was postponed from Nov. 1 to a later date.

The Times exceedingly regrets this mistake and any embarrassment and inconvenience resulting therefrom. The Times tenders its sincere apologies to Mrs. Doerges and any other person affected by the error in question.

ing their support of the Viet Cong in the south. Hanoi's leaders now seem more defiant than ever.

Indications point to intensified U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam.

Defence Secretary McNamara almost certainly would dispute any conclusion that the limited air war has been a failure.

Authorities reflected his views contend that if it were not for the bombings, infiltration of men and arms would have been far greater.

Critics in the armed services and in congress do not complain that hammering at communications lines obviously is not doing the job. What they want is a wider ranging assault to knock out North Viet Nam's ability to sustain the aggression south of the 17th parallel dividing North and South Viet Nam.

Reports from diplomatic sources with contacts in North Viet Nam say that the Communists can carry on with considerable hardship but no basic dislocation.

The U.S. fighter-bombers are destroying much in the target area, these reports say, but the North Vietnamese are quickly either repairing or bypassing damaged areas.

TARGETS LIMITED

U.S. jets are barred from chopping at North Viet Nam's industry, food and power facilities.

Hanoi, North Viet Nam's capital and seat of much of her industry, and Haiphong, chief port of entry for seaborne supplies from Russia, are also off limits.

So, what has the bombing accomplished? According to data available here, more than 50 bridges have been at least temporarily disabled.

The railway in North Viet Nam has been reduced to operating only sporadically and in sections.

Intelligence reports indicate that road traffic is at a standstill during the day and is getting that way at night with an increase in night raids.

Another major target in the north has been ammunition depots. These are difficult targets to destroy, since the storage facilities are dug in. Still, about one-third of North Viet Nam's ammunition capacity is estimated to have been destroyed.

But, with all of this bombing, the latest figures released by the defence department a month ago showed that Communist strength in South Viet Nam had risen by about 40,000 or so in the previous three or four months to 240,000, including regulars, irregulars and political agents.

Brazil Crackdown

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) President Humberto Castello Branco has acted swiftly to nip in the bud an open challenge to his authority by dissident army officers. He ordered the military arrest of an airborne colonel and decreed changes in 14 military commands Monday following army hard-line demands for a tougher bovernment stand against anti-revolutionary elements.

The provincial government would provide its usual hospital construction grants of 50 per cent of approved costs to such societies and would urge the federal government to chip in its usual $2,000-a-bed grants, too.

Mr. Martin agreed that the new BCHIS extension would deter further construction of nursing homes and hospitals by private firms and encourage public bodies to step into this field. He said he felt that the private businesses would concentrate on boarding homes where no medical care situations are involved.

"This rounds out our entire inpatient care facilities in this province and it's a great day for my department," Mr. Martin said.

"We now will give coverage to the two categories of chronic care patients—the reactivation category such as those who go to Gorge Road Hospital and the extended care category in designated nursing homes."

The extended care program—like the acute care and reactivation category—will be administered by the institutions themselves with BCHIS merely paying the bills.

Doctors will determine who qualifies medically.

Mr. Martin said coverage will be for patients "who have an illness or disability and who are unable to move about or do things for themselves without the help of trained staff."

Government officials estimate there now are about 3,100 persons in nursing homes and private hospitals in the province but not all will qualify medically for BCHIS coverage. On the other hand, some persons being cared for in their own homes or in general hospitals may qualify under the "extended care" coverage.

OTHER ILLNESS

Veterans who are sick as a result of something other than the aftermath of war injuries—such as influenza or other illness—will be covered by the new program.

Mr. Martin said about 1,500 persons now in nursing homes in B.C. are covered by the government as social welfare cases with the welfare department taking their old age pensions or other income, paying their full bill of $207 a month in the nursing home nad giving them a small "comfort allowance" as pocket money.

Many of these persons probably will qualify medically for the $1-a-day coverage, in which case they would not have to turn over any of their estate or income or have anything to do with the welfare department.

KEEP CONTROL

They would keep control of their own money and pay the average $30 a month extended care bill themselves with BCHIS paying the rest. This would give a person living solely on the $75 old age pension $45 a month in pocket money, "better than they would have as welfare cases," Mr. Martin said.

He added however these persons will have a choice whether to stay where and as they are or switch to the new system. However, many are expected to transfer from private nursing homes to the designated units while persons not medically qualified now in the designated units will have to move out.

"There will be transfers but they will be gradual so as not to upset anyone. While there are no age limitations on this program, most people involved are elderly," said Mr. Martin.

The health minister said the new coverage will have wide ramifications.

REDUCE CRUSH

He said it was bound to reduce somewhat the crush in acute hospitals because doctors will be able to send non-acutely ill but financially-pressed patients to the designated nursing homes instead of keeping them in general hospitals.

This will reduce per diem costs from the $25 average in acute hospitals and $15 average in rehabilitation homes to an expected average of $8.50 in the designated nursing homes.

"So there are economic as well as humanitarian benefits," he said.

Mr. Martin also predicted that the program will encourage public institutions, particularly general hospitals, to step up their "extended care" programs and facilities which probably will be of immense benefit in human terms.

He foresaw more long-care bed patients improving to the point where they could be sent to rehabilitation hospitals and given the chance to become able to care for themselves after treatment and training.

RHODESIANS TO HEAR ALL

FRANCISTOWN, Bechuanaland (Reuters) — Convicts, watched by armed guards, today worked in blazing heat to clear ground where a "radio in the bush" will be built to beam uncensored British news to neighboring Rhodesia.

The convicts cleared bush about 10 miles from this British protectorate's border with Rhodesia to the north.

Equipment arrived from Britain by air.

Snow, Floods Plague Britain

LONDON (AP)—More heavy snow spread over Scotland and England today, piling up in massive drifts and bringing floods to the low sections of the Midlands.

Gales in the Irish Sea and the English Channel kept the Liverpool-Dublin ferry in port and stopped flights between London and the Channel Islands.

At Elstead, south of London, high winds blew down a 60-foot cedar tree in actor Peter Sellers' garden. Sellers' daughter Victoria usually sleeps afternoons under the tree in her baby carrier, but the weather was so bad that her mother, Britt Eklund, had kept her indoors.

Police in Yorkshire struggled through 14-foot drifts to get insulin to an 18-year-old diabetic girl stranded for three days in a country inn.

Surcharge Continued

LONDON (UPI)—Parliament agreed in a close vote tonight to extend for another year the 10 per cent surcharge on goods imported into Britain. The vote was 279 to 276, a government majority of three.

Esquimalt Avoids Panhandle Stand

Esquimalt council Monday night avoided taking a stand on amalgamation with the View Royal Panhandle by deferring the vote until after the municipal elections.

The request for the opinion came from Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell through a letter to council from assistant deputy minister J. D. Baird.

Council's recommendation was that "if the area to be annexed by Esquimalt is to be changed then the same procedure as was carried out more than a year ago should be followed."

At that time a petition was approved by Panhandle residents favoring amalgamation with Esquimalt.

In another petition presented to the municipal affairs department Nov. 11 a group of View Royal ratepayers confirmed that "we are still of the opinion the Panhandle would fare much better as a part of Esquimalt."

The petition also suggests that before moves are made to form a town of View Royal "the time is now appropriate to investigate the forming of a much larger municipality embracing View Royal, Colwood, Belmont and Langford areas."

SUN SPY FROM U.S. RETIRES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency has shut down one of its most widely travelled satellites — the sun — seeking OSO-2, which made 4,100 orbits around the earth.

Equipped to gather data about the sun, the OSO-2 relayed 2,200,000 bits of information back to earth on each orbit. The satellite exceeded its life expectancy by more than 50 per cent. It was launched Feb. 3.

It was shut down because it depleted its gas supply for position control that enabled researchers to keep it pointed at the sun.

Disciplinary Action Halted By Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver police commission was restrained by a Supreme Court injunction last week from proceeding with disciplinary charges against police union president Ronald G. Magill.

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan said he was granting the order reluctantly but said matters of such importance should be decided after arguments from both sides.

He said the order, sought by the Vancouver Policemen's Union, could be set aside on 24 hours' notice by the police commission, which was not represented at the hearing.

The commission had been scheduled to meet Wednesday to hear the charge against Magill, who earlier this month proposed a non-confidence vote in Chief Constable Ralph Booth and Deputy Chief John Fisk. The vote is scheduled to go to the union membership Dec. 1.

The commission alleges Magill acted in a manner prejudicial to good order and discipline by telling other members he did not have any confidence in the chief constable or the deputy and by attempting to elicit active support for his expressions from other members.

A secondary disciplinary charge relates to causing concern and unnecessary unrest among auxiliary police members who were allegedly interviewed by another constable on Magill's instructions.

VIET ACTION PROTESTED

CANBERRA (Reuters) — An Australian diplomat, Gregory Clark, announced today he had resigned his post because he disagrees with Australia's policy in Viet Nam.

Clark, 29, former first secretary in the Moscow embassy, claimed that the sending of Australian troops to Viet Nam jeopardized Australia's position with uncommitted Asians.

Australia has 1,300 men in South Viet Nam.

PORCH LIGHT DRIVE NETS $28,000

Victorians were "lit up" for Kiwanis Monday night.

Kiwanis Village Society president Sam Swetnam said the annual porchlight campaign was "one of the most successful ever."

"With $28,000 to midnight, the mail and three districts yet to count, we could go as high as $32,000, which is $2,000 more than last year."

Nearly 2,000 Kiwanians and friends canvassed in the Greater Victoria area. Their efforts were the major fund-raising offensive in Kiwanis' year-round drive to find money for new construction at Kiwanis Village, a home for old people on Cook Street near Cedar Hill Road.

The Kiwanis home, cottages and residence building cost a total of $900,000.

Kiwanis clubs, through direct contributions and commitments, are responsible for half that.

Society president Swetnam says "we can't stop here. There is a growing demand for housing for elderly people."

Mr. Swetnam said donations to the Kiwanis fund will be most welcome at any time, porchlight night or any time money can be found to make good places to live for old people who want to look after themselves.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1965 —PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

What this corner offered on Saturday, although I wouldn't expect anyone to realize the sorry fact, was my layaway column, the spare which I counted upon for a day off to be squandered on any of several amiable pursuits.

That run-anytime piece, doggone it, might have meant the difference between a leisurely you-know-what shopping session and the usual frantic Dec. 24 scurry to get under the wire.

It would have bought my wife and me a run to Nanaimo for lunch, over the back roads we like to loaf along.

Or I might have badgered one of this newspaper's fisherman printers into taking me out for a needed lesson in catching winter spring salmon.

Even just lying snug in its envelope, it was comforting insurance. On days when the word-machine was slow to mesh gears, I liked to know that rescue lurked a mere snatch away.

Of course, a provident columnist, if any such bird exists, would have several spares in reserve. But I had only one; and now, thanks to a graceless bug that couldn't wait till the weekend for its bite, haven't any.

Write another? Sure, as soon as may be. I don't feel happy without one.

Since we've rambled this far, we might as well declare a make-and-mend day and continue to explore the world of the columnist, a fellow who has existed in one form or another since man first undertook to communicate with his fellows.

As an individualist who undertakes to speak his mind—and he isn't worth shucks if he doesn't—he is not always well-used by his community. Back when he aired his views on broadsheets cried through London town, he frequently paid for his boldness by losing ears or other portions of his anatomy to the public hangman.

If lucky, he might escape with a spell on the pillory and a jail term as did Daniel Defoe, who between bouts of hellfire columnizing, gave us "Robinson Crusoe."

While he can still go to jail for libel, his present risks run lighter. He may be threatened, and a columnist I once knew got himself slugged with a bottle. However, reprisals now tend to take more genteel forms.

From our three-year association, I have learned that you, friend reader, tend to chaw me out by phone if I have over-taxed your patience.

When your toes have been more heavily trampled, I get a letter. This may radiate a mere gentle warmth, or it may be hot enough to crisp the paper.

Extreme annoyance — the sort that might once have cost me my ears—fetches a stern Letter to the Editor, who with a grin plastered all over his austere mug, hustles it into print.

(I also get calls and letters that convince me mine is the finest job on earth, and for these, let me take this chance to thank you.)

★ ★ ★

Not everyone I meet understands that a columnist speaks strictly for himself. He's a loner, occupying a spot between hard news and features on the one side, and the editorial page on the other.

That page is the heart of any journal, and the editorials beneath its "masthead" convey your newspaper's voice.

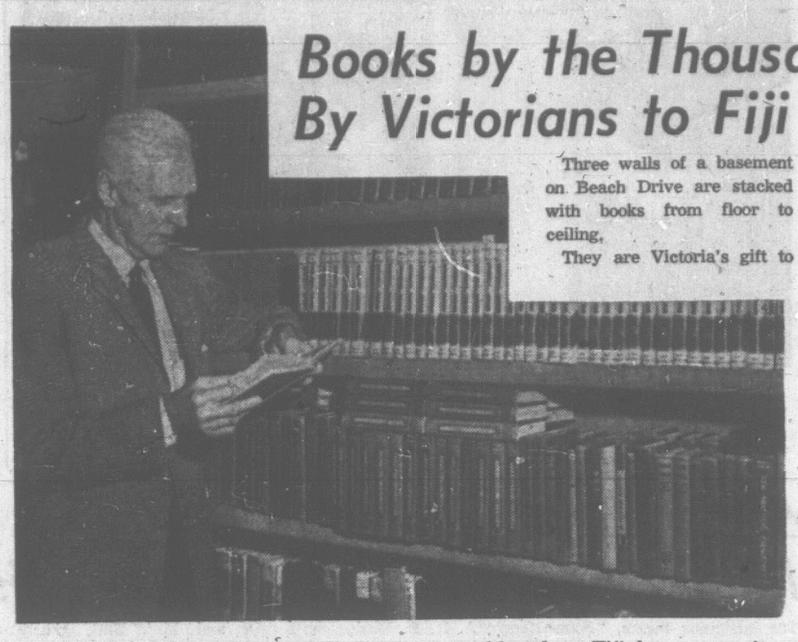
Returning to my own weedy little garden patch, I have learned that a general columnist, as distinct from the political, medical or heart-throb specialist, must deal in variety.

Since life is by no means confined to big, thundering issues. I don't offer a constant diet of them here. I even write about fishing sometimes . . . but never twice in a row. If I did, you'd scalp me!

Why, since we're talking shop today, do columnists deal generally and freely in the vertical pronoun?

Because, one supposes, while one might fill this strip without using the word "I," one would look quite ridiculous should one attempt to.

That's it; and now to replace my spare column!



Books by the Thousands Sent By Victorians to Fiji Islanders

Three walls of a basement on Beach Drive are stacked with books from floor to ceiling.

They are Victoria's gift to the Fiji Islands and, as fast as they are shipped, more will take their place.

THOUSANDS OF BOOKS donated by Victorians to the people of Fiji are housed on shelves constructed by T. G. Keir in the basement of his home at 1224 Beach Drive. They are being shipped to Fiji by a committee of the Victoria branch, English Speaking Union, as part of an international drive. (Times photo by Irving Strickland.)

Some 7,000 books—most of them educational—have been donated by members of the Victoria branch, English Speaking Union. Nearly 2,000 have already been shipped to Fiji and thousands more will soon be on their way.

The Victoria effort has been organized by a committee of three comprising Mrs. T. G. Keir, Miss Marjorie Holmes and Mrs. W. F. Jermy. Mrs. Keir is convener and the basement of her home at 1224 Beach Drive has been converted into a storage depot for books waiting to be shipped.

The shelves were built by her husband, who retired here from Montreal about six years ago.

Mrs. Keir, who was formerly librarian at McGill University, says the Victoria drive is part of a Commonwealth movement started by the English Speaking Union in London.

It was initiated by Lady Ranfurly, a member of the union's international board.

BOOKS SCARCE

"The idea is to send informative books to parts of the Commonwealth where books are scarce," Mrs. Keir said. "Eastern Canadian branches of the union are collecting for the Caribbean area; western Canada is providing for islands of the South Pacific.

"In Victoria we decided to concentrate on the Fiji Islands."

Distribution of the books in Fiji is being handled by Robert Pearce, formerly on the staff of Victoria Public Library, and the board of education in Suva.

VOLUNTARY

The whole operation is on a voluntary basis. The books are crated in tea chests by Dowell's Cartage and Storage of Victoria and several shipping companies have offered free transportation.

Mrs. Keir said local members of the ESU and the B.C. educational department have responded generously to the appeal.

"We require books in fair condition that will be of educational value to the people of Fiji. Naturally we don't want sex novels or books of the off-beat variety.

"So far we have been fortunate in getting the kind of literature we want."

DOCTOR FIRES BACK

Lydia's Remarks 'Twilly Twaddle'

Anti - fluoridationist Mrs. Lydia Arsens today was denounced for spreading false statements.

Oak Bay councillor, Dr. Harold R. Carter, said her published remarks on fluoridation were "superstitious twilly twaddle from a health faddist."

Mrs. Arsens, a former Social Credit MLA who operates a "health food" store here, maintains that fluorides are harmful. An executive member of the Individual Rights Association, she opposes a Dec. 11 Oak Bay referendum on fluoridation of Oak Bay drinking water.

Dr. Carter said in an interview today, "If the people of Oak Bay want to listen to the twaddle of a food faddist, that's what they deserve."

He said 25 per cent of Canadian communities now fluoridate their water supplies to prevent tooth decay. Ottawa is the latest city to take this step. Brantford, Ont., has had artificial fluoridation since 1945 with excellent results.

"None of these things mentioned by Mrs. Arsens are happening," said Dr. Carter.

Mrs. Arsens said fluorides artificially harden bones, nails and teeth causing internal weaknesses that lead to their early collapse and fractures.

"It is just the exact opposite," said Dr. Carter, "teeth and bones are strengthened. Where there are fluorides present in water, there are less fractures. Fluoridation helps people for their entire lives."

Mrs. Arsens also blamed cancer, weak muscles and tendons, heart attacks and miscarriages on fluoridation.

All these charges have been proven false right in our own country, said Dr. Carter.

He noted that Mrs. Arsen's group is distributing anti-fluoridation literature in Oak Bay. He said those favoring fluoridation will also circulate literature prior to voting day.

'PURE BALONEY'

Dr. M. J. T. Dohan, president Victoria branch, Canadian Dental Association, also was appalled at Mrs. Arsen's statements, describing them as "pure baloney."

He said 49 million people in the United States and 4 million in 250 countries in Canada now have fluoridated water supply.

In Connecticut, he said, every centre of over 20,000 population is required by law to fluoridate its water.

And he said fluoridation is endorsed by Canadian and American dental and medical associations, Canadian Public Health Association, U.S. Public Health Service, American Heart Association, international labor organizations the AFL and CIO, World Health Organization and the British Ministry of Health.

Sentences Increased In Assault

Two prisoners convicted of assaulting a guard at Colquitz Jail have had their sentences considerably increased by the B.C. Court of Appeal.

John L. Smith's sentence was increased from four months to 18 months and a one-month term given Gerald Brune was increased to a year.

The sentences were originally fixed by Magistrate William Ostler in Saanich court. The Crown appealed and asked for the sentences to be increased.

Both men were convicted of assault on guards at the jail. The fight started when Guard Frank Bedford ordered Smith to give up a writing board that he was using in his cell.

FOUL LANGUAGE

Smith claimed he had special permission to use the writing board and refused to hand it over. He used foul language at Bedford who ordered him to solitary confinement.

Brune said he interfered to try and stop the fight by restraining another guard but he too was convicted.

Brune was being held in the jail awaiting trial and Smith was serving a sentence for attempted breaking and entering. The Crown has started proceedings to have Smith declared to be an habitual criminal and the hearing on this matter will begin next week.

Woman Fined

Verna Phillips, 1615 Belmont, was fined a total of $400 today when she pleaded guilty in central court to impaired driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Evidence was that she hit a car parked at Johnson and Vancouver early this morning and kept on going. She was arrested later at her home.

CALLERS SUPPORT PETITIONER

A man organizing a petition protesting car insurance premium increases said today he received more than 20 telephone calls Monday night.

Hospital orderly Thomas Moran, 4155 Barber, said many of them offered help in getting the petition going.

"It will take some days to get the petition organized and worded properly and distributed," he said. "I have had offers of help from schoolteachers and construction workers."

WRITE MPs, MLAs

He urged interested persons to write to their MPs and MLAs to protest the 10 per cent increase announced Friday and effective after January.

At the annual meeting of the Victoria New Democratic Party Monday night, members criticized the premium increase and referred to "inquities" of the present system. The party favors government car insurance.

TREES HAVE RIGHTS, TOO

Should boulevard trees be chopped down because they drop leaves on private property?

Victoria city council parks committee says no. Definitely.

Committee members discussed a complaint today from George E. Bennett, 208 Cross, dealing with two trees in front of his James Bay home.

City manager Dennis Young noted the writer apparently disliked raking leaves.

"NO VALID REASON"

"The fact that trees drop leaves on another person's property is no valid reason for removing the trees," the manager said.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow suggested a letter be sent to Mr. Bennett expressing regret that his request could not be granted.

"We would ruin beautiful Victoria," he said, if parksmen acceeded to all such bids.

Holdback Fund Voluntary, Students Told

University of Victoria students will have a choice of putting $56 of their second term fees into a trust fund, student president Paul Williamson said today.

The money, which students plan to withhold in January as a protest against rising tuition fees, may be put into a trust fund set up by the students' council.

But the fund is not mandatory, said Mr. Williamson.

He said not every student would wish to put his $56 into the fund, and "I expect very few will."

Several students, he said, received the wrong impression and thought they had no choice in the matter.

"But it is entirely a voluntary fund," said Mr. Williamson.

Cabin Cruiser Still Aground

The 30-foot cabin cruiser of Capt. Ernest Beaumont today was still high and dry on Mary Tod Island.

A crew from Oak Bay Boat patching gaping holes in its port side.

The boat was pounded on to the island during a southeast gale Friday when it broke from its moorings at the captain's Discovery Island home.

Plans are to refloat the motor launch Discovery Isle III Wednesday morning.

PLAY SAFE THIS WEEK, EVERY WEEK

The B.C. Safety Council asked today for support of Safe Driving Week Dec. 1-7 in the face of steadily mounting deaths in motor-vehicle acidents.

A statistical report of accidental deaths in B.C. to the end of October noted that car accidents took 314 lives in the 10-month period in 1963, 322 in 1964 and 368 this year.

The council also reported that the number of accidental deaths caused by firearms to the end of October fell to three from 17 last year.

AUSTIN RUNS IN SAANICH

He's Had 'Little Rest' And Rarin' to Go Again

The dean of Saanich council, until five years ago is a candidate in the Dec. 11 municipal election.

Gcorge Austin, 4482 Tyndall, resigned in 1960 after a total of 21 years as a councillor saying "I need a little rest."

Today, the retired dairy farmer said he has plenty of time if elected to serve as a councillor again.

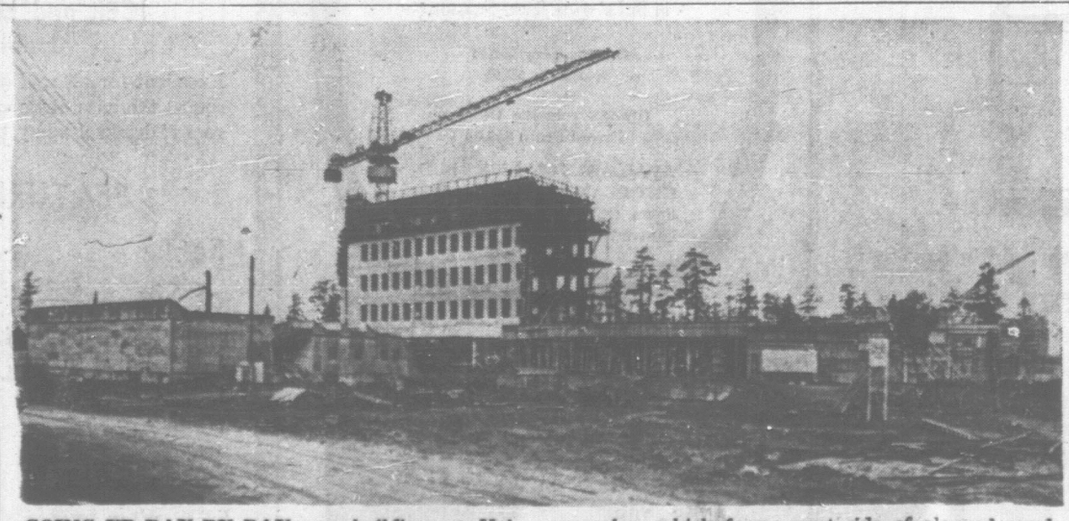
Mr. Austin will seek the one-year term caused by the recent expansion of council to eight members, plus the reeve.

He is apposed by school principal Alan Newberry.

Not seeking re-election are Couns. Gregory Cook and Douglas Crosby, both of whom said they are too busy outside council to devote sufficient time to municipal affairs.

Seeking re-election is Coun William Campbell, chairman o the public works committee.

Ten candidates are seeking the four two-year seats.



GOING UP DAY BY DAY, new buildings on University of Victoria campus change Gordon Head landscape. Under construction on west side of Finnerty Road is arts and education complex, costing $2,017,000. Classrooms, lounges, curriculum library and 300-seat lecture theatre will be included in complex, which forms west side of planned quadrangle. To right but out of picture is social sciences complex. Construction on both, scheduled for completion in September, 1966, is so far proceeding without snags, say officials. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Topics of the Day

A Victoria man has been elected president of the Canadian Technical Asphalt Association.

He is J. W. G. Kerr, 1352 St. Patrick St., who is senior paving engineer with the provincial highways department.

Mr. Kerr was elected at the association's annual meeting held at Quebec City.

The association's next annual meeting will be held in Vancouver.

★ ★ ★

Retired electrical worker Fred Bevis was elected president of the Victoria New Democratic Party Monday night at the annual meeting. He succeeds Jack Groves.

Other new members of the executive include Neil Hindle, first vice-president; Rev. H. T. Allen, second vice-president; Edna Bowden, secretary, and John Barbillion, treasurer.

A passing motorist stopped a runaway car Monday night as its owner raced behind in hot pursuit of his vehicle.

Carson Humber, 17, of 1695 Howroyd, said he saw his car start to slip away down a hill on Cadboro Bay Road. When he came out of a house the car was about 100 yards away and gaining speed.

He ran after it and another car came along. The driver saw the situation, speeded up and got in front of the runaway vehicle.

Then he slowed down and let the Humber vehicle run in back of his car. The two vehicles pulled to a stop in about 50 feet.

A 19-year-old youth who put on a shirt that he picked up in a store and then walked out wearing it, pleaded guilty today to theft.

David Johnston, 944 Easter, was remanded in central court today to Dec. 8 for sentence.

Detective Harry Adams said Johnston bought $14 worth of clothes from Woolco Department Store Nov. 4 and then took a shirt and went into a dressing room with it.

He put on the shirt, covered it with his jacket and left the store. Johnston told police he did not have enough money to pay for this last item he wanted.

City Calls Hospital Meeting

Ministers, Officials Asked to Friday Talks

Victoria city council plans a special meeting Friday to clear the air on the forthcoming vote on a regional hospital tax.

The decision, reached this morning, reverses plans for a private discussion on the issue.

Council now will ask hospital and government officials to attend—and place all their cards on the table.

Health Minister Eric Martin and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell should be specifically invited, a council committee recommended to Mayor R. B. Wilson.

(Mr. Campbell said Monday he would not be able to attend the private meeting which had been scheduled.)

The decision to try once more to clarify the hospital question followed receipt at City Hall of a letter from two ratepayers, Misses E. M. Kerr and S. F. Lees, of 264 Memorial Crescent.

PAMPHLET ASKED

They wrote asking that a pamphlet be issued by the city outlining the purpose of a referendum to be held Dec. 11.

Council has so far offered no leadership to the public on the question.

The situation is that on Dec. 11 Victoria and all other organized areas within the capital region will be formed into a regional council established by provincial statute.

The regional council will have jurisdiction over an area-wide sewer study, a regional parks plan, a common policy on fireworks and a $13.5 million expansion of district hospital facilities.

Each area within the capital region, which extends from the waterfront to Sooke and Sidney, has opportunity to "opt out" of any of the four joint projects. The contentious issue is the hospital plan which calls for a two-mill levy against all property owners.

Ald. A. W. Toone said, "We will probably reconcile the thinking of council at the Friday meeting."

He noted the hospital planning council of Greater Victoria plans to publish information.

The letter writers said they contact "a good cross section of the public" in their work as physiotherapists.

"With regard to the hospitals, there are many of us who are completely puzzled.

"In the first place, why are the ratepayers expected to pay for hospitals which are for the use of every member of the public?

"In the second place, what is the point of more buildings when there are not enough nurses (we were told a year or two ago) to man the still empty floor at the Royal Jubilee Hospital? How do you propose to run the buildings?" the Misses Kerr and Lees wrote.

They hoped Victoria would publish a pamphlet as planned by Saanich.

EXPLAIN SEWERS

It should also explain the sewer situation, which is also to become part of the regional district administration, they felt.

Sewers are of such importance that they should be considered separately, the letter said. (Ratepayers are not being asking to vote on this as the survey has been under way nearly a year.)

"The sewer matter is for a survey only," Ald. Edgelow pointed out. "Victoria has no intention of paying for sewers for the whole southern Island."

WELL-TAKEN

The alderman said the point about a pamphlet is well taken.

"It is hard to stomach why the floor (at Jubilee) has not been opened to the public. Why haven't they used it since the new wing opened?" (It will open in January, the hospital explained last week.)

Ald. Mooney said such questions should be answered by the people responsible on Friday.

Boys Stole Cars, Attacked Cyclist

A tale of crime committed by two 15-year-old boys after they escaped from Brannen Lake School was told in central court today.

The youths, transferred from juvenile court, pleaded guilty to four offences.

Because they are juveniles their names cannot be published.

Saanich Detective Harry Adams said they stole a car in Parksville Nov. 13, drove it to Duncan and abandoned it. Then they stole another car and drove to Victoria in it.

Arriving in the city they spotted a youth riding his bicycle along Douglas between Cloverdale and Audley. They hauled the boy off the bike and went through his pockets but were scared away by a motorist who stopped to see what was going on.

Later that evening the pair went into a department store and stole two pairs of trousers and two sweaters. They were arrested a short while later by Saanich Sergeant Bob Coleman who spotted them as he drove home after going off duty.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded both accused to Dec. 8 for pre-sentence report.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1965 —PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

What this corner offered on Saturday, although I wouldn't expect anyone to realize the sorry fact, was my layaway column, the spare which I counted upon for a day off to be squandered on any of several amiable pursuits.

That run-anytime piece, doggone it, might have meant the difference between a leisurely you-know-what shopping session and the usual frantic Dec. 24 scurry to get under the wire.

It would have bought my wife and me a run to Nanaimo for lunch, over the back roads we like to loaf along.

Or I might have badgered one of this newspaper's fisherman printers into taking me out for a needed lesson in catching winter spring salmon.

Even just lying snug in its envelope, it was comforting insurance. On days when the word-machine was slow to mesh gears, I liked to know that rescue lurked a mere snatch away.

Of course, a provident columnist, if any such bird exists, would have several spares in reserve. But I had only one; and now, thanks to a graceless bug that couldn't wait till the weekend for its bite, haven't any.

Write another? Sure, as soon as may be. I don't feel happy without one.

Since we've rambled this far, we might as well declare a make-and-mend day and continue to explore the world of the columnist, a fellow who has existed in one form or another since man first undertook to communicate.

As an individualist who undertakes to speak his mind—and he isn't worth shucks if he doesn't—he is not always well-used by his community. Back when he aired his views on broadsheets cried through London town, he frequently paid for his boldness by losing ears or other portions of his anatomy to the public hangman.

If lucky, he might escape with a spell on the pillory and a jail term as did Daniel Defoe, who between bouts of hellfire columnizing, gave us "Robinson Crusoe."

While he can still go to jail for libel, his present risks run lighter. He may be threatened, and a columnist I once knew got himself slugged with a bottle. However, reprisals now tend to take more genteel forms.

From our three-year association, I have learned that you, friend reader, tend to chaw me out by phone if I have over-taxed your patience.

When your toes have been more heavily trampled, I get a letter. This may radiate a mere gentle warmth, or it may be hot enough to crisp the paper.

Extreme annoyance — the sort that might once have cost me my ears—fetches a stern Letter to the Editor, who with a grin plastered all over his austere mug, hustles it into print.

(I also get calls and letters that convince me mine is the finest job on earth, and for these, let me take this chance to thank you.)

★ ★ ★

Not everyone I meet understands that a columnist speaks strictly for himself. He's a loner, occupying a spot between hard news and features on the one side, and the editorial page on the other.

That page is the heart of any journal, and the editorials beneath its "masthead" convey your newspaper's voice.

Returning to my own weedy little garden patch, I have learned that a general columnist, as distinct from the political, medical or heart-throb specialist, must deal in variety.

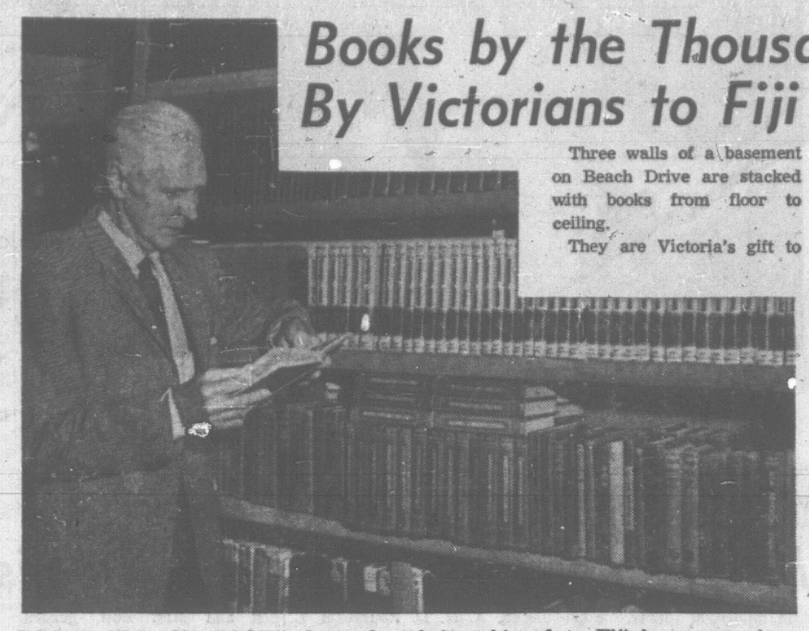
Since life is by no means confined to big, thundering issues. I don't offer a constant diet of them here. I even write about fishing sometimes . . . but never twice in a row. If I did, you'd scalp me!

Why, since we're talking shop today, do columnists deal generally and freely in the vertical pronoun?

Because, one supposes, while one might fill this strip without using the word "I," one would look quite ridiculous should one attempt to.

That's it: and now to replace my spare column!

Books by the Thousands Sent By Victorians to Fiji Islanders



Three walls of a basement on Beach Drive are stacked with books from floor to ceiling.

They are Victoria's gift to the Fiji Islands and, as fast as they are shipped, more will take their place.

THOUSANDS OF BOOKS donated by Victorians to the people of Fiji are housed on shelves constructed by T. G. Keir in the basement of his home at 1224 Beach Drive. They are being shipped to Fiji by a committee of the Victoria branch, English Speaking Union, as part of an international drive. (Times photo by Irving Strickland.)

Some 7,000 books—most of them educational—have been donated by members of the Victoria branch, English Speaking Union. Nearly 2,000 have already been shipped to Fiji and thousands more will soon be on their way.

The Victoria effort has been organized by a committee of three comprising Mrs. T. G. Keir, Miss Marjorie Holmes and Mrs. W. F. Jermy. Mrs. Keir is convener and the basement of her home at 1224 Beach Drive has been converted into a storage depot for books waiting to be shipped.

The shelves were built by her husband, who retired here from Montreal about six years ago.

Mrs. Keir, who was formerly librarian at McGill University, says the Victoria drive is part of a Commonwealth movement started by the English Speaking Union in London.

It was initiated by Lady Ranfurly, a member of the union's international board.

BOOKS SCARCE

"The idea is to send informative books to parts of the Commonwealth where books are scarce," Mrs. Keir said. "Eastern Canadian branches of the union are collecting for the Caribbean area; western Canada is providing for islands of the South Pacific.

"In Victoria we decided to concentrate on the Fiji Islands."

Distribution of the books in Fiji is being handled by Robert Pearce, formerly on the staff of Victoria Public Library, and the board of education in Suva.

VOLUNTARY

The whole operation is on a voluntary basis. The books are crated in tea chests by Dowell's Cartage and Storage of Victoria and several shipping companies have offered free transportation.

Mrs. Keir said local members of the ESU and the B.C. educational department have responded generously to the appeal.

"We require books in fair condition that will be of educational value to the people of Fiji. Naturally we don't want sex novels or books of the off-beat variety.

"So far we have been fortunate in getting the kind of literature we want."

DOCTOR FIRES BACK

Lydia's Remarks 'Twilly Twaddle'

Anti - fluoridationist Mrs. Lydia Arsens today was denounced for spreading false statements.

Oak Bay councillor, Dr. Harold R. Carter, said her published remarks on fluoridation were "superstitious twilly twaddle from a health faddist."

Mrs. Arsens, a former Social Credit MLA who operates a "health food" store here, maintains that fluorides are harmful. An executive member of the Individual Rights Association, she opposes a Dec. 11 Oak Bay referendum on fluoridation of Oak Bay drinking water.

Dr. Carter said in an interview today, "If the people of Oak Bay want to listen to the twaddle of a food faddist, that's what they deserve."

He said 25 per cent of Canadian communities now fluoridate their water supplies to prevent tooth decay. Ottawa is the latest city to take this step. Brantford, Ont., has had artificial fluoridation since 1945 with excellent results.

"None of these things mentioned by Mrs. Arsens are happening," said Dr. Carter.

Mrs. Arsens said fluorides artificially harden bones, nails and teeth causing internal weaknesses that lead to their early collapse and fractures.

"It is just the exact opposite," said Dr. Carter, "teeth and bones are strengthened. Where there are fluorides present in water, there are less fractures. Fluoridation helps people for their entire lives."

Mrs. Arsens also blamed cancer, weak muscles and tendons, heart attacks and miscarriages on fluoridation.

All these charges have been proven false right in our own country, said Dr. Carter.

He noted that Mrs. Arsen's group is distributing anti-fluoridation literature in Oak Bay. He said those favoring fluoridation will also circulate literature prior to voting day.

'PURE BALONEY'

Dr. M. J. T. Dohan, president Victoria branch, Canadian Dental Association, also was appalled at Mrs. Arsen's statements, describing them as "pure baloney."

He said 49 million people in the United States and 4 million in 250 communities in Canada now have fluoridated water supply.

In Connectitcut, he said, every centre of over 20,000 population is required by law to fluoridate its water.

And he said fluoridation is endorsed by Canadian and American dental and medical associations, Canadian Public Health Association, U.S. Public Health Service, American Heart Association, international labor organizations the AFL and CIO, World Health Organization and the British Ministry of Health.

Sentences Increased In Assault

Two prisoners convicted of assaulting a guard at Colquitz Jail have had their sentences considerably increased by the B.C. Court of Appeal.

John L. Smith's sentence was increased from four months to 18 months and a one-month term given Gerald Brune was increased to a year.

The sentences were originally fixed by Magistrate William Ostler in Saanich court. The Crown appealed and asked for the sentences to be increased.

Both men were convicted of assault on guards at the jail. The fight started when Guard Frank Bedford ordered Smith to give up a writing board that he was using in his cell.

FOUL LANGUAGE

Smith claimed he had special permission to use the writing board and refused to hand it over. He used foul language at Bedford who ordered him to solitary confinement.

Brune said he interfered to try and stop the fight by restraining another guard but he too was convicted.

Brune was being held in the jail awaiting trial and Smith was serving a sentence for attempted breaking and entering. The Crown has started proceedings to have Smith declared to be an habitual criminal and the hearing on this matter will begin next week.

Woman Fined

Verna Phillips, 1615 Belmont, was fined a total of $400 today when she pleaded guilty in central court to impaired driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Evidence was that she hit a car parked at Johnson and Vancouver early this morning and kept on going. She was arrested later at her home.

CALLERS SUPPORT PETITIONER

A man organizing a petition protesting car insurance premium increases said today he received more than 20 telephone calls Monday night.

Hospital orderly Thomas Moran, 4155 Barber, said many of them offered help in getting the petition going.

"It will take some days to get the petition organized and worded properly and distributed," he said. "I have had offers of help from schoolteachers and construction workers."

WRITE MPs, MLAs

He urged interested persons to write to their MPs and MLAs to protest the 10 per cent increase announced Friday and effective after January.

At the annual meeting of the Victoria New Democratic Party Monday night, members criticized the premium increase and referred to "iniquities" of the present system. The party favors government car insurance.

TREES HAVE RIGHTS, TOO

Should boulevard trees be chopped down because they drop leaves on private property?

Victoria city council parks committee says no. Definitely.

City manager Dennis Young noted the writer apparently disliked raking leaves.

"NO VALID REASON"

"The fact that trees drop leaves on another person's property is no valid reason for removing the trees," the manager said.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow suggested a letter be sent to Mr. Bennett expressing regret that his request could not be granted.

"We would ruin beautiful Victoria," he said, if parksmen acceeded to all such bids.

Holdback Fund Voluntary, Students Told

University of Victoria students will have a choice of putting $56 of their second term fees into a trust fund, student president Paul Williamson said today.

The money, which students plan to withhold in January as a protest against rising tuition fees, may be put into a trust fund set up by the students' council.

But the fund is not mandatory, said Mr. Williamson.

He said not every student would wish to put his $56 into the fund, and "I expect very few will."

Several students, he said, received the wrong impression and thought they had no choice in the matter.

"But it is entirely a voluntary fund," said Mr. Williamson.

Cabin Cruiser Still Aground

The 30-foot cabin cruiser of Capt. Ernest Beaumont today was still high and dry on Mary Tod Island.

A crew from Oak Bay Boat Works Ltd. were patching gaping holes in its port side.

The boat was pounded on to the island during a southeast gale Friday when it broke from its moorings at the captain's Discovery Island home.

Plans are to refloat the motor launch Discovery Isle III Wednesday morning.

PLAY SAFE THIS WEEK, EVERY WEEK

The B.C. Safety Council asked today for support of Safe Driving Week Dec. 1-7 in the face of steadily mounting deaths in motor-vehicle acidents.

A statistical report of accidental deaths in B.C. to the end of October noted that car accidents took 314 lives in the 10-month period in 1963, 322 in 1964 and 368 this year.

The council also reported that the number of accidental deaths caused by firearms to the end of October fell to three from 17 last year.

AUSTIN RUNS IN SAANICH

He's Had 'Little Rest' And Rarin' to Go Again

The dean of Saanich council, until five years ago is a candidate in the Dec. 11 municipal election.

George Austin, 4482 Tyndall, resigned in 1960 after a total of 21 years as a councillor saying "I need a little rest."

Today, the retired dairy farmer said he has plenty of time if elected to serve as a councillor again.

Mr. Austin will seek the one-year term caused by the recent expansion of council to eight members, plus the reeve.

He is apposed by school principal Alan Newberry.

Not seeking re-election are Couns. Gregory Cook and Douglas Crosby, both of whom said they are too busy outside council to devote sufficient time to municipal affairs.

Seeking re-election is Coun. William Campbell, chairman of the public works committee.

Ten candidates are seeking the four two-year seats.

A passing motorist stopped a runaway car Monday night as its owner raced behind in hot pursuit of his vehicle.

Carson Humber, 17, of 1695 Howroyd, said he saw his car start to slip away down a hill on Cadboro Bay Road. When he came out of a house the car was about 100 yards away and gaining speed.

He ran after it and another car came along. The driver saw the situation, speeded up and got in front of the runaway vehicle.

Then he slowed down and let the Humber vehicle run in back of his car. The two vehicles pulled to a stop in about 50 feet.

A 19-year-old youth who put on a shirt that he picked up in a store and then walked out wearing it, pleaded guilty today to theft.

David Johnston, 944 Easter, was remanded in central court today to Dec. 8 for sentence.

Detective Harry Adams said Johnston bought $14 worth of clothes from Woolco Department Store Nov. 4 and then took a shirt and went into a dressing room with it.

He put on the shirt, covered it with his jacket and left the store. Johnston told police he did not have enough money to pay for this last item he wanted.

City Calls Hospital Meeting

Ministers, Officials Asked to Friday Talks

Victoria city council plans a full-scale meeting Friday to clear the air on the forthcoming vote on a regional hospital tax.

The decision, reached this morning, reverses plans for a smaller private discussion on the issue.

Council will ask hospital and government officials to attend—and place all their cards on the table at a closed meeting.

Health Minister Eric Martin and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell should be specifically invited, a council committee recommended to Mayor R. B. Wilson.

(Mr. Campbell said Monday he would not be able to attend the private meeting which had been scheduled.)

The decision to try once more to clarify the hospital question followed receipt at City Hall of a letter from two ratepayers, Misses E. M. Kerr and S. F. Lees, of 264 Memorial Crescent.

PAMPHLET ASKED

They wrote asking that a pamphlet be issued by the city outlining the purpose of a referendum to be held Dec. 11.

Council has so far offered no leadership to the public on the question.

The situation is that on Dec. 11 Victoria and all other organized areas within the capital region will be formed into a regional council established by provincial statute.

The regional council will have jurisdiction over an area-wide sewer study, a regional parks plan, a common policy on fireworks and a $13.5 million expansion of district hospital facilities.

Each area within the capital region, which extends from the waterfront to Sooke and Sidney, has opportunity to "opt out" of any of the four joint projects. The contentious issue is the hospital plan which calls for a two-mill levy against all property owners.

Ald. A. W. Toone said, "We will probably reconcile the thinking of council at the Friday meeting."

He noted the hospital planning council of Greater Victoria plans to publish information.

The letter writers said they contact "a good cross section of the public" in their work as physiotherapists.

"With regard to the hospitals, there are many of us who are completely puzzled.

"In the first place, why are the ratepayers expected to pay for hospitals which are for the use of every member of the public?

"In the second place, what is the point of more buildings when there are not enough nurses (we were told a year or two ago) to man the still empty floor at the Royal Jubilee Hospital? How do you propose to run the buildings?" the Misses Kerr and Lees wrote.

They hoped Victoria would publish a pamphlet as planned by Saanich.

EXPLAIN SEWERS

It should also explain the sewer situation, which is also to become part of the regional district administration, they felt.

Sewers are of such importance that they should be considered separately, the letter said. (Ratepayers are not being asking to vote on this as the survey has been under way nearly a year.)

"The sewer matter is for a survey only," Ald. Edgelow pointed out. "Victoria has no intention of paying for sewers for the whole southern Island."

WELL-TAKEN

The alderman said the point about a pamphlet is well taken.

"It is hard to stomach why the floor (at Jubilee) has not been opened to the public. Why haven't they used it since the new wing opened?" (It will open in January, the hospital explained last week.)

Ald. Mooney said such questions should be answered by the people responsible on Friday.

Boys Stole Cars, Attacked Cyclist

A tale of crime committed by two 15-year-old boys after they escaped from Brannen Lake School was told in central court today.

The youths, transferred from juvenile court, pleaded guilty to four offences.

Because they are juveniles their names cannot be published.

Saanich Detective Harry Adams said they stole a car in Parksville Nov. 13, drove it to Duncan and abandoned it. Then they stole another car and drove to Victoria in it.

Arriving in the city they spotted a youth riding his bicycle along Douglas between Cloverdale and Audley. They hauled the boy off the bike and went through his pockets but were scared away by a motorist who stopped to see what was going on.

Later that evening the pair went into a department store and stole two pairs of trousers and two sweaters. They were arrested a short while later by Saanich Sergeant Bob Coleman who spotted them as he drove home after going off duty.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded both accused to Dec. 8 for pre-sentence report.

'TEACH-IN' BEGINS

Great Debate On Medicare Looms Again

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Storm warnings of a major medicare controversy that will rock Canada, just as Saskatchewan was shaken in 1962, were sounded here Monday by medical men addressing the health services conference.

The great medicare debate which has been raging off and on, quietly but with increasing strength across Canada was transported to the main ballroom of the Chateau Laurier Hotel here.

An officer of the Canadian Medical Association and a commissioner of the Saskatchewan medical care plan put forward the opposing views.

There were no fireworks, no heated debate. Both men were soft spoken and set out their arguments for the health services teach-in sponsored by 21 national organizations.

Aim of the conference is to inform church, labor, private welfare and other groups about health issues and proposal for medical care insurance.

However, the warnings of the great storm to come came through clearly.

The representatives of the 21 national organizations sponsoring the conference heard the warnings. But whether the storm can be averted only time will tell.

'Doctors Must Be Able to Opt Out'

Dr. Victor Goldbloom of Montreal, chairman of the economic policy committee of the CMA insisted that doctors must have the right to opt out of participation in any national or provincial medicare plan. He pointed out that the Saskatchewan program gave them that right, but the doctors there had to fight to get the right.

Only four per cent of the claims are being paid through opting out arrangements in Saskatchewan said Dr. Goldbloom. He added: "As long as that door is left open—as long as doctors are free to walk out—they'll walk in. If you bar that door, they'll break it down to walk out.

"This," he said, "is the major lesson of Saskatchewan. If it is not learned we will be in danger of going through the same thing again and that would be very unfortunate for Canada."

'... A Lot of Nonsense Spoken'

Dr. Samuel Wolfe, medical director of the Saskatoon community clinic in Saskatchewan and a commissioner of the Saskatchewan medicare program opened fire with this statement:

"There has been a lot of nonsense spoken in recent years about government-sponsored medical care plans and their supposed evils."

He defended the government plan in Saskatchewan. And he said, "There is no reason why we in Canada cannot have the best of all medical worlds — a national plan run by the provinces, an intelligent and informed public and satisfied, self-governing health professions."

However Dr. Wolfe said that having lived through the Saskatchewan fight he was not naive enough to think that the medical services program can be implemented on a national scale without major conflicts—"conflicts between doctors and between the profession and the public."

Prof. E. F. Hastings, school of hygiene, University of Toronto, summed it up this way: "The skirmishing is by no means over and the sound and fury will rise to new crescendos in the months ahead."

B.C. Herds Hit Again By Pesticide Ruling

GRAND FORKS (CP)— For the second time in less than a year three Grand Forks farmers have been forbidden by the federal government to sell dairy products from their cattle because of a high level of pesticide in their milk.

The federal food and drug directorate announced in Ottawa Monday the pesticide chemical Dieldrin had been detected and the milk will be banned for human consumption.

The directorate did not name the farmers, but three farmers whose dairy products were banned last February admitted they were again at fault.

They are Les Hoodle, Rick deVries and Peter deHaan.

The directorate also did not say what caused the latest buildup of pesticide in the cattle. However, the first ban was blamed on Grand Forks area potatoes containing safe levels of pesticide, but fed in unusually large quantities to the cattle.

Mr. Hoodle said Monday night

COGNAC HELPS

Divers Risk Death For Dog

TOULON, France (UPI)— Ten years ago a frolicsome puppy was born on the Italian freighter Marislava. The crew members named their new shipmate Ciucare.

The years passed and the spry collie grew old with the weatherbeaten ship as it lazily made its way from port to port through calm and stormy seas. It was home and she was happy.

Then on Saturday disaster struck. The ship ran aground on rocks off the southern coast of France, and the crewmen swam for their lives.

But Ciucare refused to abandon ship. How could she leave the only home she ever knew?

Hour after hour she stuck it out, cowering in the stove-in-aft cabin as angry waves pounded the ship's hull, breaking it apart.

On Sunday, skindivers fought their way through angry seas to the wreck to bring food to the whimpering, starving dog. But she refused to eat from unfamiliar hands.

The skindivers tried again, accompanied this time by a crew member. But again Ciucare refused to budge.

It was only after she was slipped a shot of Cognac that they were able to lasso her and toss her into the sea where the skindivers quickly rescued her and got her into a boat.

Sunday night—as the merciless waves pounded her old home to pieces — Ciucare wolfed down a dog's delight, a rescue dinner prepared especially for her by the chief at the Hotel Du Chateau where she is staying with her old shipmates from the Marislava.

BCHIS Widened For Chronic Cases

BLUE AND GOLD windshield stickers will be issued with new British Columbia licence plates. Wendy Harris got hers in advance to demonstrate its use for a Times camera. The stickers commemorate the 100th anniversary of the union of the Crown colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia in 1866 and the centenary of Confederation which was declared in 1967. B.C. centennial planners hope every driver will wear his sticker so B.C.'s birthday events will be advertised, especially outside the province. Celebrations extend through both 1966 and 1967.

Patient Coverage Starts Wednesday

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Dollar-a-day hospital coverage will be enlarged to include "extended care" patients in designated nursing homes in B.C. starting Wednesday.

The long-awaited expansion, which will have a tremendous impact on some 3,000 persons directly and on the whole provincial hospital system indirectly, was announced by Health Minister Eric Martin this morning.

Most persons in nursing homes now pay between $200 and $400 a month, depending on services.

Those who meet the qualifications and are placed in the designated nursing homes by their doctors will pay only $30 a month on the average with B.C. Hospital Insurance Service paying the rest as it does for general hospital patients.

The new program will cost $3 million in the coming year while covering the first 1,000 persons and eventually will build up to an annual cost of about $10 million — split 50-50 between the federal and provincial governments. The BCHIS Act allows for expanded spending to cover these new costs.

Mr. Martin said only non-profit or "public" institutions will be designated for the coverage and not any commercial "private" hospitals or nursing homes.

Mount St. Mary Beds Listed

In the Victoria area, an order-in-council designated 131 beds at Mount St. Mary, 999 Burdett, and 24 beds at Priory Hospital in Langford among a total of 570 beds in B.C. that will be covered immediately.

In addition, 50 beds at Veterans' Hospital are among another 450 beds in the province that will be designated "in the near future" (probably within two months), Mr. Martin said.

The Health Minister said hospitals and non-profit societies in 20 centres—including Duncan, Nanaimo, Port Alberni and Campbell River—now have approval-in-principle to build appropriate non-profit facilities containing another 950 beds and these should be in operation within a year.

Although there are no projects slated here, Victoria has 393 beds in five private hospitals and the Saanich Municipal Royal Oak Home with its planned addition that have suitable facilities.

The private hospitals are: Aberdeen, Richmond Heights, Sandringham, Glenwarren and Glengarry which have been built in the past three years to very high standards.

Mr. Martin said these could qualify for the BCHIS coverage if they become "public" institutions and his department would help financially if approved non-profit societies were

HANOI NEXT RAID TARGET?

U.S. North Viet Bombing Fails to Halt Red Drive

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—On the basis of the Pentagon's stated objectives, the U.S. air war against North Viet Nam is far from a success after nearly 10 months.

Based on the same announced goals, there are some elements of failure.

These views are the consensus in discussions with qualified sources within and outside the U.S. government, and are supported in a study of other information available from the government.

A main objective of the bombings, which began last Feb. 7, was to cut down the flow of North Vietnamese soldiers and supplies into South Viet Nam.

The evidence, chiefly the government's own figures, shows that despite heavy battle losses Communist forces in South Viet Nam are stronger in numbers than ever before.

U.S. officials also believe the enemy has the capability of moving as many as four full divisions into South Viet Nam during the next six months.

Another major announced goal of the bombing was to prod the North Vietnamese into halt-

LAUD VIET CONG

PHNOM PENH (Reuters)— One of two American soldiers freed by the Viet Cong guerrillas as a gesture to anti-war groups in the United States said today the Saigon authorities were not the government in South Viet Nam.

"The Viet Cong, they are the people," Sgt. George Edward Smith told a press conference here.

Smith and Specialist Claude D. McClure were freed two days ago on the border between Cambodia and South Viet Nam.

They were captured when a Viet Cong battalion overran a special forces camp at Hiep Hoa, 33 miles northwest of Saigon, in 1963.

Smith, 27, from Chester, W.Va., added that he was against the war in Viet Nam because it did not conform with the interests of the American people.

Both he and McClure, 25, a Negro from Chattanooga, Tenn., said they planned to leave the services when they returned to the U.S.

They said they were treated well in captivity. McClure, wounded at the time of his capture, said he was fed in the same way as the Viet Cong fighters.

Their liberation was the direct result of protest movements in the U.S. against the war in Viet Nam, Smith said. They crossed the border from South Viet Nam and presented themselves to Cambodian authorities.

McClure said his captors cared for his wounds, shared their food with him and allowed him mail from his family and Red Cross packages.

McClure and Smith were captured with two other Americans in a Viet Cong attack on a special forces camp outside of Saigon Nov. 24, 1963.

ONE ESCAPED

One of the other Americans, Sgt. Isaac Camacho of El Paso, Tex., escaped last July. The fourth captive was Staff Sgt. Kenneth M. Roraback. The Communists said in September they had executed Roraback and another American prisoner, Capt. Humbert R. Verace of Baltimore, Md., in reprisal for the execution of three Communist sympathizers by the Saigon government.

McClure said the Viet Cong did not try to indoctrinate its prisoners. He said his captors gave him books to read and pa-

NO OTHER TROOPS

Wilson Awaits Zambia's Word

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Wilson tonight held up the dispatch of Royal Air Force units to Zambia pending Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda's agreement that no other outside troops would be based in his country.

Informed sources said the key condition to military assistance for Zambia was that Kaunda reject offers of troops from members of the Organization of African Unity or other foreign countries.

Other conditions were the RAF jet fighters be kept away from the Rhodesian border and that they remain under control of the British government.

Informed sources said Wilson had planned to announce the dispatch of RAF units to Zambia but that at the time he still not had heard from Kaunda.

Malcolm MacDonald, Britain's roving ambassador in east and central Africa, arrived in Lusaka this morning to finalize plans for meeting Kaunda's request for British air force units.

Kaunda asked for military help to bolster his own defence and security forces and protect the power life line from the giant Kariba dam.

Wilson was also expected to state in parliament additional plans for tightening financial and economic sanctions aimed at forcing the collapse of the Rhodesian rebel government of Ian Smith.

Wilson discussed ways of tightening the screws on the Smith regime at an early meeting of top ministers comprising his Rhodesia committee.

White Babies Wanted

JOHANNESBURG (AP)— A South African deputy minister has appealed to white married couples to celebrate South Africa's fifth anniversary as a republic in a special way—by having babies.

"You cannot celebrate the republic festival better next year than by giving a white child to this wonderful country of ours," said Michiel Botha, deputy minister of African (Negro) Administration and Development.

Botha, speaking at a white men's club, said:

"Our country needs more of us (whites). Our population can increase in only two ways — by immigration and by births. Let those who can help in this way."

Hunger Is Nothing New

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

It hurts to be hungry and without a home.

Thousands of people the world over accept this as a fact they know from first hand experience.

Many of them have no hope for the future.

Many of them are destitute; with only one parent or maybe none at all.

For the youngsters who beg in the streets of Asian cities, hunger and homelessness are nothing new.

A large number of them have known both since the day they were born.

And without help from agencies like the Unitarian Service Committee, they would have no chance of escaping from them during their lifetime.

Last July the USC launched its third decade of service not by celebrating with a big cake and candles and speeches, but by renewing its determination for another successful campaign.

In the past 20 years over 11 million pound of relief supplies have gone overseas —powdered milk, clothes, codfish—to help the needy.

Every ounce has been distributed in the name of Canada to the most hungry, the most lonely and the most suffering.

But the human ties established by the USC between Canadians and people in other lands will be remembered most.

Concern and friendship and interest fo these people as well as the material aid are offered by the USC through your donations to the Times-sponsored Children of Asia fund.

his family continued to drink milk and eat meat from the affected cattle after the first ban in early February and suffered no ill-affects.

After the first ban, the federal and provincial governments purchased contaminated cattle from the three farms to help avert financial hardship for the farmers.

Thirty-six of the cows were sent to the federal agriculture experimental station in Agassiz. The government said the rest were disposed of in other ways.

COWS NOW SAFE

Only last month, the research station station declared the 36 cows free of contamination and safe to return to milk production. The station offered to sell the cattle back to their owners.

Dr. Mills Clarke of the experimental station said the 36 cows were fed a pesticide-free diet and the experiment gave the station a "unique opportunity" to study cattle contamination.

He said the result of the seven-month study would form a basis of a recommended cure for future cases of cattle contamination.

Monday's announcement of the second ban said that "the levels of the pesticide in the milk are considered to present a potential hazard to health if consumed over a long period of time."

E. L. Devlin, regional director for the food and drug administration, blamed the first ban on large quantities of potatoes fed to the cattle.

He said he did not mean that the potatoes themselves had large quantities of pesticide, but that the high levels of pesticide in the cattle resulted from the fact they were fed large numbers of potatoes—more than animals elsewhere in the country.

Dr. Nicholas Schmidt, the Trail medical officer, was critical of the latest ban. He said he has asked the B.C. deputy minister of health for a full investigation "to make sure such a closure doesn't happen again."

Monday's Ottawa announcement said the condition appeared to be a local one confined to "a few farmers in the Grand Forks area."

Smith, 27, said he was told Nov. 21 that he was being freed. "I couldn't believe my ears."

Also at the press conference was Le Van Diep, identified as a special emissary of the Viet Cong.

He told the two Americans: "Your return to the United States is the prelude to the departure of American troops from South Viet Nam."

Reading a communique which he said was from the Viet Cong leadership, he said the decision to free the two men was "in conformity with the Viet Cong policy of clemency and a response to the friendly sentiments of the American people against the South Viet Nam war."

"The good discipline of the two prisoners" played a part in the decision to free them, he added.

Dief Asks U.S. Halt Air Raids

OTTAWA (UPI)—Opposition leader John Diefenbaker Monday blasted both the American and Canadian governments for keeping secret a North Viet Nam offer to negotiate a peace settlement.

He called for an immediate end to U.S. air attacks to allow for such negotiations.

Diefenbaker demanded a "full and frank" explanation of the North Vietnamese offer.

'Canada Has Doctors To Handle Medicare'

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Canada already has enough doctors to supply the needs that would result from a nation-wide medicare program, an economist told the working conference on medical services here Tuesday.

Prof. J. J. Madden of the economics department of social services at Guelph University, acknowledged that the national health plan if, and when it became operative, would lead to longer queues for physicians' services.

He said it might take a decade for certain present non-users of health services to catch up with the "demand pattern" of those whose incomes today enable them to utilize medical services without worrying about the bills.

(The Canadian Medical Association and other groups have warned that introduction in 1967 of the proposed medicare program will impose a heavy burden on the present trained personnel. They have argued for stepped up training programs so that trained men and women will be available before a nation-wide scheme is implemented.)

SHOULD BE SUBSIDIZED

Prof. Madden said, that those groups who have suggested the medical profession would not be able to meet the demand generated by the universal comprehensive program, have also stated that all persons should be able to buy health insurance and those who cannot should be subsidized.

"If all persons are to be put in a position to buy health insurance then the profession must be prepared to meet the demands generated by a universal insurance program whether this is public or private. If these demands cannot be met the substitution of a number of private insurance plans for a universal plan will not help," he said.

The economist said the experience of Saskatchewan indicated that the supply of physicians relative to population is as good or better than that of Saskatchewan.

Consequently he contended that no "serious problems should arise in these regions." Even in Newfoundland, where the supply of physicians is low Premier Smallwood believes that the program can be implemented, said Prof. Madden.

Error Made In Divorce List

In the Times of November 4, 1965, it was erroneously reported that Wilfred Doerges, of 573 Ridley Drive, Colwood, had been granted a divorce from Grace P. Doerges, of Vancouver, B.C.

Through an unfortunate error, the Doerges case was included in the list of divorces granted. This was entirely incorrect. No divorce was granted to Mr. Doerges.

In point of fact, Mrs. Doerges had filed a Statement of Defence to the action brought by her husband and the trial was postponed from Nov. 1 to a later date.

The Times exceedingly regrets this mistake and any embarrassment and inconvenience resulting therefrom. The Times tenders its sincere apologies to Mrs. Doerges and any other person affected by the error in question.

ing their support of the Viet Cong in the south. Hanoi's leaders now seem more defiant than ever.

Indications point to intensified U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam.

Defence Secretary McNamara almost certainly would dispute any conclusion that the limited air war has been a failure.

Authorities reflected his views contend that if it were not for the bombings, infiltration of men and arms would have been far greater.

Critics in the armed services and in congress do not complain that hammering at communications lines obviously is not doing the job. What they want is a wider ranging assault to knock out North Viet Nam's ability to sustain the aggression south of the 17th parallel dividing North and South Viet Nam.

Reports from diplomatic sources with contacts in North Viet Nam say that the Communists can carry on with considerable hardship but no basic dislocation.

The U.S. fighter-bombers are destroying much in the target area, these reports say, but the North Vietnamese are quickly either repairing or bypassing damaged areas.

TARGETS LIMITED

U.S. jets are barred from chopping at North Viet Nam's industry, food and power facilities.

Hanoi, North Viet Nam's capital and seat of much of her industry, and Haiphong, chief port of entry for seaborne supplies from Russia, are also off limits.

So, what has the bombing accomplished? According to data available here, more than 50 bridges have been at least temporarily disabled.

The railway in North Viet Nam has been reduced to operating only sporadically and in sections.

Intelligence reports indicate that road traffic is at a standstill during the day and is getting that way at night with an increase in night raids.

Another major target in the north has been ammunition depots. These are difficult targets to destroy, since the storage facilities are dug in. Still, about one-third of North Viet Nam's ammunition capacity is estimated to have been destroyed.

But, with all of this bombing, the latest figures released by the defence department a month ago showed that Communist strength in South Viet Nam had risen by about 40,000 or so in the previous three or four months to 240,000, including regulars, irregulars and political agents.

Brazil Crackdown

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) President Humberto Castello Branco has acted swiftly to nip in the bud an open challenge to his authority by dissident army officers. He ordered the military arrest of an airborne colonel and decreed changes in 14 military commands Monday following army hard-line demands for a tougher bovernment stand against anti-revolutionary elements.

. . . NURSING HOMES

formed to buy them out for this purpose.

The provincial government would provide its usual hospital construction grants of 50 per cent of approved costs to such societies and would urge the federal government to chip in its usual $2,000-a-bed grants, too.

Mr. Martin agreed that the new BCHIS extension would deter further construction of nursing homes and hospitals by private firms and encourage public bodies to step into this field. He said he felt that the private businesses would concentrate on boarding homes where no medical care situations are involved.

"This rounds out our entire inpatient care facilities in this province and it's a great day for my department," Mr. Martin said.

"We now will give coverage to the two categories of chronic care patients—the reactivation category such as those who go to Gorge Road Hospital and the extended care category in designated nursing homes."

The extended care program—like the acute care and reactivation category—will be administered by the institutions themselves with BCHIS merely paying the bills.

Doctors will determine who qualifies medically.

Mr. Martin said coverage will be for patients "who have an illness or disability and who are unable to move about or do things for themselves without the help of trained staff."

Government officials estimate there now are about 3,100 persons in nursing homes and private hospitals in the province but not all will qualify medically for BCHIS coverage. On the other hand, some persons being cared for in their own homes or in general hospitals may qualify under the "extended care" coverage.

OTHER ILLNESS

Veterans who are sick as a result of something other than the aftermath of war injuries—such as influenza or other illness—will be covered by the new program.

Mr. Martin said about 1,500 persons now in nursing homes in B.C. are covered by the government as social welfare cases with the welfare department taking their old age pensions or other income, paying their full bill of $207 a month in the nursing home nad giving them a small "comfort allowance" as pocket money.

Many of these persons probably will qualify medically for the $1-a-day coverage, in which case they would not have to turn over any of their estate or income or have anything to do with the welfare department.

KEEP CONTROL

They would keep control of their own money and pay the average $30 a month extended care bill themselves with BCHIS paying the rest. This would give a person living solely on the $75 old age pension $45 a month in pocket money, "better than they would have as welfare cases," Mr. Martin said.

He added however these persons will have a choice whether to stay where and as they are or switch to the new system. However, many are expected to transfer from private nursing homes to the designated units while persons not medically qualified now in the designated units will have to move out.

"There will be transfers but they will be gradual so as not to upset anyone. While there are no age limitations on this program, most people involved are elderly," said Mr. Martin.

The health minister said the new coverage will have wide ramifications.

REDUCE CRUSH

He said it was bound to reduce somewhat the crush in acute hospitals because doctors will be able to send non-acutely ill but financially-pressed patients to the designated nursing homes instead of keeping them in general hospitals.

This will reduce per diem costs from the $25 average in acute hospitals and $15 average in rehabilitation homes to an expected average of $8.50 in the designated nursing homes.

"So there are economic as well as humanitarian benefits," he said.

Mr. Martin also predicted that the program will encourage public institutions, particularly general hospitals, to step up their "extended care" programs and facilities which probably will be of immense benefit in human terms.

He foresaw more long-care bed patients improving to the point where they could be sent to rehabilitation hospitals and given the chance to become able to care for themselves after treatment and training.

RHODESIANS TO HEAR ALL

FRANCISTOWN, Bechuanaland (Reuters) — Convicts, watched by armed guards, today worked in blazing heat to clear ground where a "radio in the bush" will be built to beam uncensored British news to neighboring Rhodesia.

The convicts cleared bush about 10 miles from this British protectorate's border with Rhodesia to the north.

Equipment arrived from Britain by air.

Snow, Floods Plague Britain

LONDON (AP)—More heavy snow spread over Scotland and England today, piling up in massive drifts and bringing floods to the low sections of the Midlands.

Gales in the Irish Sea and the English Channel kept the Liverpool-Dublin ferry in port and stopped flights between London and the Channel Islands.

At Elstead, south of London, high winds blew down a 60-foot cedar tree in actor Peter Sellers' garden. Sellers' daughter Victoria usually sleeps afternoons under the tree in her baby carrier, but the weather was so bad that her mother, Britt Eklund, had kept her indoors.

Police in Yorkshire struggled through 14-foot drifts to get insulin to an 18-year-old diabetic girl stranded for three days in a country inn.

Surcharge Continued

LONDON (UPI)—Parliament agreed in a close vote tonight to extend for another year the 10 per cent surcharge on goods imported into Britain. The vote was 279 to 276, a government majority of three.

U.K. Troops 'No Worry'

SALISBURY (Reuters) — The Rhodesian government is not concerned by Zambia's request for British troops to be sent to guard the Kariba dam on the Zambia-Rhodesian border, Prime Minister Ian Smith said today.

After a three-hour cabinet meeting, Smith said he and his ministers had not discussed the possibility of British troops being sent to Zambia.

APPEAL COURT RULING

Police Union Chief Told to Stand Trial

VANCOUVER (CP)—The right of the police commission to try the president of the police union for moving a vote of non-confidence in the chief constable in a closed union meeting was upheld Monday by the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

Mr. Justice Victor Dryer upheld the right by quashing part of an injunction obtained last week that stopped a hearing into the actions of Ronald Magill.

But the justice left for future debate in the courts another section of the injunction which prohibits senior police officers from compelling union members to break the oath of secrecy they took when they joined the union.

Legal authorities said the outcome of the argument will be watched by unions across Canada because it deals with the question whether a union member can refuse a management order on the grounds it violates a union rule he has taken his oath to uphold.

At a union meeting Nov. 2 Magill moved a motion on non-confidence in Chief Ralph Booth and deputy chief John Fisk. The motion was not dealt with at that meeting.

REVEAL DETAILS

Shortly afterwards several union members were paraded before Supt. B. W. Jelley and were formally asked to reveal details of the meeting.

Magill was subsequently charged with violating the police code and was ordered to appear before the commission last week. An hour before the hearing the injunction halting it was obtained.

H. A. D. Oliver, union lawyer, said the commission and its officers or agents broke the B.C. Labor Relations Act. He said there was illegal interference with the administration of the union as a result of attempts to "induce and intimidate" union members into revealing union affairs. Members were being asked to break their oath of secrecy.

John Farris, representing the commission, said in his application to set the injunction aside Magill's non-confidence motion could in no way be considered union business and the commission had the right to take disciplinary measures.

Under the city charter the commission had the right to take sworn evidence at disciplinary hearings and policemen appearing before those hearings had the same obligation to answer questions as they would in a court of law.

Mr. Justice Dryer said he had "not overlooked" labor's right to complain about the quality of management but added "I do not think that members of a disciplined force should comment on the quality of management in this way."

Admiral Inspects Weapons Range Near Nanaimo

Rear-Admiral M. G. Stirling, flag officer Pacific Coast, today inspected the RCN's underwater weapons range near Nanaimo.

The range is located at Winchelsea Island, northeast of Nanoose Harbor.

The admiral and a party of five journeyed to the island in a Beaver aircraft which took off from a float at HMCS Naden.

Accompanying him were Commodore R. M. Battles, commodore superintendant, Pacific; Lieut.-Cmdr. G. W. Baker, manager of civilian engineering at HMC Dockyard; Lieut.-Cmdr. Ward Palmer, officer-in-charge of the navy's diving unit; Lieut.-Cmdr. Ralph Newstead, officer-in-charge of the underwater weapons range and flag lieutenant A. R. Horne.

Boy, Girl Shot; Murder-Suicide Try Alleged

OSOYOOS, B.C. (CP)—Police described as attempted murder-suicide the fatal shooting of a 20-year-old boy and the wounding of a girl the same age during the weekend.

Valentine Locke died of bullet wounds while he was being taken to hospital. Police had found him lying in the middle of the road.

Glenna Johnson suffered two shoulder wounds. She was in a parked car in a driveway with Melvin Heidt, 20, also of the Osoyoos area, when she was shot.

She was in satisfactory condition in hospital Sunday.

Police seized a .22-calibre pistol.

Funeral Wednesday For Heroic Sealer

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. at McCall Bros. Chapel for one-time sealer Louis Morell of Sooke.

The 91-year-old Victoria native died Sunday in Veterans' Hospital.

He spent his early days on sealings schooners which operated out of Victoria.

Mr. Morell became a hero in 1937 when he rescued a neighbor's family when their Rocky Point home was rocked by a coal oil explosion.

The explosion sent the neighbor woman racing from her home in flames.

Mr. Morell grabbed a blanket from her kitchen and smothered the flames then went into the burning home and rescued her two children.

The woman died 12 hours later.

AWARD

For his bravery, Mr. Morell received a Royal Humane Society decoration.

He is survived by a neice, Mrs. Lilliam Maria Jones, and two nephews, Frederick and Edward Minnie, all of Victoria.

PENSION PLAN FOR NEW TYPE WAR VICTIMS

ROME (AP) — A bill was before the Italian legislature today to give lifetime pensions to at least 60,000 Italian women who were reported raped by soldiers during the Second World War.

The proposal, introduced in the Chamber of Deputies by Monarchist Alfredo Covelli, estimated the pensions would cost the government 5,000,000,000 lire ($8,500,000) a year.

Covelli's bill said the women should be pensioned as victims of war even if he criminal assault did not cause pregnancy; disease or lasting psychological shock.

The bill referred to rape victims of "armed forces operating" in Italy, without specifying Allied or Axis armies.

Restroom Smoking Ban Lifted

DENVER (AP)—A smoking ban extending even to restrooms and parking lots was modified Monday at the Samsonite Corp., only four hours after it went into effect.

Jesse Shwayder, 83, chairman of the board who issued the order in a letter to employees last Wednesday, announced he had changed his mind.

However, a no-smoking ban in working areas will remain in effect as a safety measure. It has been in effect for nearly 20 years because of the use of inflammable materials.

Shwayder said in a statement "the suggested no-smoking regulation will not be enforced because of my great concern for the viewpoints as well as the welfare of my employees."

He had said earlier the prohibition also was ordered at company plants at Murfreesboro, Tenn., and Loveland, Colo.

He lifted the ban after the United Rubber Workers Union protested.

In ordering the ban, Shwayder, who quit smoking 15 years ago, cited insurance company statistics saying that $10,000,000,000 is lost to American families annually because of the premature deaths of wage earners as a result of smoking.

School Report Pages Feature Student Art

Art students of Oak Bay Senior Secondary School were major contributors to this year's annual report of the Greater Victoria School Board.

The students, under the direction of their art teacher, William D. West, produced black and white designs to accompany articles which convey the mental climate of the school year.

The report itself is a departure from the form of previous years, said school board chairman John Porteous.

The report consists of two parts. To produce part one, a reassessment of values, teams of writers collaborated with school officials to convey the mental climate of the school year.

The second part contains figures about each deparmtent.

Triple theme of the report is action, re-action and interaciton.

District superintendent John Gough said in his report the school year featured new projects.

Among these:

- Family life education program.
- Saturday morning tuition classes.
- Development of 103 vocational teaching areas.
- Provision of equipment for new curriculum.

Mr. Gough said a highlight of the board's activity involved continuing building projects in the face of rising construction costs.

Other articles included a foreward look at teaching, by assistant district superintendent J. Chell; a playlet stating the importance of creativity in education; and articles dealing with the curriculum.

U.S. Holding Defector Against Will?

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has accused the United States of preventing a Soviet defector from returning home and has lodged a protest through the Soviet embassy in Washington with the state department, the news agency Tass said Monday.

The defector, smelter worker Gregory Sarapushkin, 29, landed in a walrus-skin boat on the Alaska coast Aug. 7. With him was another smelter worker from Laurentia in Soviet Siberia, Peter Kalishenko, 35.

U.S. accounts said they at first asked to return home, then changed their minds, choosing to remain in the United States. They explained their decision in Anchorage to Vitautas M. Zenuevichus, second secretary of the Soviet embassy in Washington, who went to see them.

Tass Saturday broke Soviet press silence on the case by reporting that Sarapushkin recently tried three times to meet a member of the Soviet embassy in order to arrange for his repatriation. Tass did not mention Kalishenko.

The news agency maintained Sarapushkin turned up in Alaska "as a result of a calamity at sea."

City Participates In Oxfam Campaign

Hundreds of Victoria men and women are now helping to raise $5,500,000 a year to help feed the hungry peoples of the world.

They are supporters of a local committee set up 18 months ago on behalf of the Oxford Committee for Famine Relief—popularly known as OXFAM.

"Our task is to fight famine and hunger in more than 90 countries," said Henry Fletcher, international director of OXFAM, now visiting Victoria from his headquarters in Oxford, England.

"While we distribute huge quantities of food every year, this is no more than temporary relief. The only real remedy lies in teaching and equipping hungry peoples to produce more food.

"The need becomes more urgent every year with the frightening increase in the world's population."

In Victoria Mr. Fletcher has been conferring with Robin Skelton, president and member of the local committee, on ways and means of raising funds for OXFAM.

BETTER CROPS

Mr. Fletcher said OXFAM is extending its operations in Mexico and South America, where there is widespread poverty. It is also arranging loans to farmers in Rhodesia to help them raise better crops.

"So far the political situation in Rhodesia has not interferred with our operations, but there is a danger we may run into difficulties soon."

OXFAM was started in England 23 years ago to aid starving children in Greece. Today it is a permanent international charity which last year raised more than $5,000,000 and contributed to more than 40 projects in 75 different countries.

One of its cheif aims is to establish agricultural colleges where farmers can be trained to improve production. Their wives are encouraged to take courses in economics, nutrition and food preparation.

"We have had encouraging results," Mr. Fletcher said, "but overall we are fighting a losing battle against hunger. It is a battle between famine, war and disaster and the daily increase in the world's population."

BRIDGE RESULTS

Winning pairs of the Victoria Unit of the American Contract Bridge League games played Saturday at the Broughton Building were:

Paul Smith and Phil Hagel, first; Louise Duncan and Charlotte Dohan, second; Margaret and Jack McAvoy, third; Harry and Gwen Brawn, fourth; Bill Lamb and Joan Smith, fifth; Cam Wallace and Lil Lebutt, sixth.

Winning pairs of the Monday Masters Bridge Club games played Monday at the Broughton Building were:
